FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875.

REGULATIONS APPROVED BY THE TREASURY.

38 & 39 VICT. c. 60.

REGULATIONS.

IN pursuance of the powers vested in their Lordships by the above-mentioned Statute, the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury make and approve of the following regulations:—

Application to Register Societies or Amendments of Rules.

S. 11 (2).

(1.) Every application to register a society under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (in these Regulations termed "the Act"), shall be in Form A. subjoined to these regulations, and shall be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the registered office of the society is intended to be.

(2.) An amendment of the rules of a society may be either—

(a.) A partial amendment, consisting of the addition of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, to the existing rules, or the substitution of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, for any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, or a rescission of any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, without any substitution, or more than one or all of these modes; or,

(b.) A complete amendment, consisting of the substitution of an entire set of rules for the existing set of rules.

(3.) An application to register a partial amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society, in Form B. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form C. hereto annexed, and by a printed copy of the existing rules marked to show where the alterations occur, and what they are, and by the following documents:—

S. 13 (2).

(a.) If the partial amendment consists of the addition or substitution of a new rule or rules, two copies of such new rule or rules, each copy being marked O., and signed by three members and the secretary.

(b.) If the partial amendment consists of the rescission of any of the rules without any substitution, two copies of the resolution for such rescission, each copy being marked O., and signed by three members and the secretary.

(4.) An application to register a complete amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society in Form D. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form C. annexed hereto, and by a copy of the existing rules, and by two copies of the new rules, each copy being marked P., and signed by three members and the secretary.

Recording of Rules already Registered.

- S. 11. (5.) An application to record in one country rules, or amendments of rules, registered in another, shall be made by the secretary or other officer of the society in Form E. or E^a. hereto annexed, and shall be accompanied by a copy of such rules or amendments under the seal of the central office, or the signature of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be.

Cancelling and Suspension of Registry.

- S. 12. (6.) Every request to cancel registry shall be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland or Ireland exclusively, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, in Form F. annexed hereto, and shall name some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that the cancelling of registry shall be published, and shall be accompanied by the sum requisite to defray the expense of such publication, and by the further sum of for publication of such cancelling in the Gazette.

(7.) Where application is made to cancel registry under the compulsory powers of the Registrar, the Registrar may require such application to be made in duplicate in such form, and to be supported by such statutory declaration as the Chief Registrar may direct, and shall transmit one copy of such application to the Treasury for their consent.

(8.) Notice before cancelling or suspension of registry shall be in Form G. annexed hereto.

(9.) The cancelling of registry shall be in Form H. annexed hereto.

(10.) The suspension or renewal of suspension of registry shall be in Form I. annexed hereto.

(11.) The advertisement of cancelling or suspension shall be in Form J. annexed hereto.

Registered Office.

- . 14 (1 a). (12.) Every notice of a change in the situation of the registered office of a society shall be sent to the Registrar of the country wherein the society is registered within fourteen days after every such change in Form K. annexed hereto. Notice of the situation of the registered office of a society on first registry shall be deemed to be given by the rule providing for the place of office. The place of business of a society enrolled or certified before the 1st January 1876, as stated in the rules thereof, or in any notice of change duly sent to the Registrar, shall be deemed to be the registered office of the society until notice of change duly sent as herein provided is received by the Registrar.

Trustees.

- S. 14 (1 b). (13.) All resolutions appointing trustees shall be sent to the Registrar of the country wherein the society is registered, within fourteen days after the date of the meeting whereat any such resolution was passed, in Form L. annexed hereto.

Nominations.

- S. 15 (3). (14.) Every registered society (except as in the Act is provided) shall keep a record or register of all nominations made by the members, and of all revocations and variations of the same, and for the recording or registering of every such nomination, revocation, or variation of the rules of the society, may require the member nominating to pay a sum not exceeding 3 d.

Transfer of Stock.

(15.) Every application to the Chief Registrar to direct a transfer of stock shall follow as near as may be Form M. annexed hereto, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form N. annexed hereto, or as near thereto as the facts admit, and by the certificate of the stock in respect of which the application is made.

S. 15 (6).

(16.) Before making the application the society shall submit to the Chief Registrar for examination a draft copy on foolscap paper, written on one side only, of the proposed application and declaration.

(17.) The Chief Registrar, before directing the transfer, may require such further proof of any statement in the application as may seem to him to be necessary.

(18.) The Chief Registrar shall give his direction in Form "O." annexed hereto, so framed in each case as to suit the particular circumstances.

Juvenile Societies.

(19.) Societies and branches consisting wholly of members between 3 and 16 years of age, may be registered, provided they are,—

S. 15 (8).

(a.) In connexion with some school or institution, and managed by teachers and managers thereof, or a committee appointed by them; or,

(b.) In connexion with some registered friendly society, or a branch of a registered friendly society, and managed by its committee and officers, or persons appointed by them.

(20.) The rules of every such society or branch shall contain provisions for the following matters, in addition to those required by Schedule II. of the Act, and Form A. to these regulations:—

1. Whether or not parents and guardians of members shall be entitled to be present and vote at all meetings, and to perform acts of membership on behalf of their children.

2. The giving of security by the treasurer.

3. The investment of the funds in a savings bank, in the public funds, or on Government security, but not otherwise.

4. Where it is in connexion with a registered society or branch, the acceptance of a member into such society, or any branch thereof, or into such branch, upon attaining the age of 16, and where it is in connexion with a school or institution, the payment to a member arriving at the age of 16 of a share of the accumulated funds, if any, or his admission into an adult society, if any.

Disputes.

(21.) The reference of a dispute to the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be written on foolscap paper in duplicate in Form P. annexed hereto.

S. 22.

(22.) Such Registrar, upon receipt of the reference, shall transmit one copy of it to the Treasury for their consent.

(23.) Every notice of hearing by the Chief or Assistant Registrar, and every requisition for the attendance of parties and witnesses, and the production of books and documents, shall be in Form "Q." annexed hereto.

(24.) Where it is necessary to enforce the attendance of a particular witness, or the production of a particular document, notice shall be in Form "R." annexed hereto.

(25.) If an order for discovery is necessary it shall be in Form "S." annexed hereto.

(26.) In Scotland, if a warrant for recovery of documents and examination of havers is necessary, it shall be in Form "T." or "U." annexed hereto.

(27.) The determination and order of the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be in Form "V." annexed hereto, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case may in his judgment allow.

Inspectors and Special Meetings.

(28.) An application for appointment of inspectors, or for calling a special meeting shall be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland and Ireland exclusively, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, written on foolscap paper, in duplicate, in Form "W." annexed hereto, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form "X." annexed hereto, by three at least of the applicants.

(29.) The Chief or Assistant Registrar may, immediately upon receipt of the application, transmit one copy to the Treasury for their consent, or may, before such transmission, give notice of the application to the society, and send to the Treasury any answer the society may make.

(30.) The appointment of inspectors shall be in Form "Y." annexed hereto, or as near thereto as circumstances may allow.

(31.) The notice of special meeting shall be in Form "Z." annexed hereto.

(32.) The chairman of the special meeting shall report to the Chief or Assistant Registrar, as he may direct.

Special Resolutions.

S. 24 (2) and
s. 11 (3).

(33.) Every application for approval of change of name must be made in duplicate in Form "AA." annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form "AB." annexed hereto. If approved of, the word "approved" shall be written at the foot or end of each such copy, and the same shall be signed by the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be.

S. 24 (3).

(34.) Every application to register a special resolution for the amalgamation of societies must be made by each of the societies in duplicate in Form "AC." annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by statutory declarations from officers of each society in Form "AB." No acknowledgment of registry shall be given to either society until special resolutions in the like terms have been submitted for registry by the other or others.

(35.) Every application to register a special resolution for the transfer of the engagements of a society to another must be in duplicate in Form "AD." annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms "AB." and "AE."

S. 24 (4).

(36.) Every application to register a special resolution for converting a society into a company must be in duplicate in Form "AF." annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form "AB."

S. 24 (4).

(37.) An application for registry of a special resolution for amalgamation with a company, or for transfer of engagements to a company, shall be in duplicate in Form "AC." or "AD.," as the case may be, with the necessary modifications to suit the facts, and shall be accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms "AB." and "AG."

S. 24 (6).

(38.) A special resolution shall be registered by writing at the foot or end of each copy of the same the word "registered," and by affixing to the same the seal or stamp of the Central Office.

(39.) Where

(39.) Where the special resolution is for conversion into, amalgamation with, or transfer of all the engagements of a society to a company, the following words shall be added :—"The registry of the _____ Society is hereby cancelled (or directed to be cancelled).

Chief Registrar."

(40.) Where a special resolution is registered, passed by a society which is registered or does business in Scotland or Ireland, the Central Office shall forthwith apprise the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, of the same having been so registered, and the Chief Registrar shall, where necessary, give directions for cancelling the registry of such society.

Dissolution.

(41.) The instrument of dissolution shall be in Form AH. hereto annexed, and shall be signed in duplicate and accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AI. hereto annexed, and by a statement naming some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that notice of the dissolution shall be published, and by the sum requisite to defray the expenses of such publication, and by the further sum of _____ for the like publication in the Gazette.

S. 25 (2).

(42.) The Registrar shall return one of the duplicates to the society, with an acknowledgment of registry in Form AK. hereto annexed.

(43.) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution shall be signed, declared to, and registered in like manner.

(44.) The advertisement of dissolution by instrument shall be in Form AL. hereto annexed.

(45.) Every application for dissolution by award of the Chief Registrar shall be in Form AM. hereto annexed, and shall name some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that notice of the award shall be published, and with it shall be sent the sum requisite to defray the expenses of such publication, and the further sum of _____ for the like publication in the Gazette.

(46.) The notice of investigation shall be in Form AN. hereto annexed, and the award in Form AO.

(47.) The award of the Chief Registrar for distribution of funds shall be in Form AP. hereto annexed.

(48.) The notice of dissolution by award shall be in Form AQ. hereto annexed.

Societies with Branches.

(49.) No branch of a society can be registered under this Act which is already registered as a separate society, nor is any such branch to be included in any list of branches under s. 29, unless and until its separate registry has been cancelled.

S. 29.

(50.) When the registry of any such branch as a separate society is cancelled with a view to its registry as a branch after the society of which it is a branch has been registered as a single society, notice for such registry must be given in Form AR. as on the establishment of a new branch.

(51.) In registering branch rules the Registrar shall see—

1st. That the objects of the branch are not other than those, or one or more of those, of the society.

2nd. That provision is made for the control of the central body of the society over the branch.

3rd. That there is a separate fund administered by the branch, or by a committee or officers appointed by the branch.

4th. That

4th. That the matters specified in Schedule II. to the Act, except as to annual and quinquennial returns to the Registrar, are provided for, so far as the same are applicable to the branch in respect of any separate fund or funds.

(52.) Branch rules produced with the application for registry of a society with branches must be signed by three members and the secretary of the same.

(53.) An application to register an amendment of branch rules must be made by the secretary of the branch, but the statutory declaration in support thereof must be made by an officer of the society in Form AS. annexed hereto.

(54.) Notice of any change in the place where a branch is established, and of any appointment of a new trustee of a branch, or officer to sue and be sued on behalf of the same, shall be sent by the society to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, within three months after such change of place or appointment in Forms AT. and AU. annexed hereto respectively.

(55.) Notice of the establishment of a new branch by a society under s. 29 (3) of the Act shall be in Form AR. annexed hereto.

(56.) The annual and quinquennial returns of a society with branches, and the valuation of the same, shall include all branches of the society registered under this Act.

Application of the Act to Industrial Assurance Companies and to Unregistered Friendly Societies.

(57.) For the purposes of the Act, so far as its provisions apply to Industrial Assurance Companies or to Unregistered Friendly Societies, the memorandum and articles of association of any Industrial Assurance Company registered under the Companies Acts, or the instrument constituting any company not so registered, and the rules, laws, or regulations of any Unregistered Friendly Society, shall be deemed to be the rules of such company or society respectively; the registered office under the Companies Acts, or the principal place of business of such company or society respectively, shall be deemed to be the registered office of the same under the Act; and the directors of any company shall be deemed to be included in the expression "the committee or managers" thereof.

Fees.

S. 36.

(58.) The following fees shall be payable for matters to be transacted, and the inspection of documents under this Act:—

	£. s. d.

- Any instrument of dissolution, or any amendment therein.
- Any document or copy of document supplied to a public department.
- Any document in respect of which a fee is already chargeable, under or by virtue of the Act and of any other statute.

The Chief Registrar may also dispense with the fee for inspection of documents in cases where he may consider it for the public interest to do so.

Payment of Fees by Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland.

(59.) The Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland shall respectively keep record of all fees received by them by virtue of the Act or of these regulations, and shall pay such fees from time to time, at least twice a year, into the Bank of England, under a receivable order in Form AV. hereto annexed, to the cash account of Her Majesty's Paymaster General for the credit of Registrars of Friendly Societies.

S. 36.

(60.) They shall at the same time send to the Chief Registrar a list of all fees so paid by them from time to time.

(61.) The Chief Registrar shall then cause such fees to be paid into Her Majesty's Exchequer, and shall at the same time send a receipt for the said fees to the Assistant Registrar whom it may concern.

Seal of Central Office.

(62.) The seal of the Central Office shall bear the Royal Arms with the words "Registry of Friendly Societies," around or above, and the words "Central Office" below.

S. 38.

(63.) The seal of the Central Office shall be deemed a sufficient signature of the Registrar of Friendly Societies, or the Registrar of Building Societies, for England, or of the barrister appointed to certify the rules of Savings Banks or Friendly Societies, for the purposes of section 10, sub-section (4) of the Act.

Modification of Forms.

(64.) The Forms hereto annexed may be modified to suit particular cases, by authority of the Chief Registrar.

[Approved, 8 December 1875.]

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 7th April 1876.

THE Chancellor of the Exchequer states to the Board, that his attention has been directed by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies to the importance of making public the recommendations of the Actuarial Commission which was appointed last year to draw up model forms for the use of Societies.

The Commission has now submitted three Reports to the Treasury, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer is of opinion that the first two of them, and the second part of the third, contain information which it is desirable at once to render accessible to the Societies.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer desires, however, to call particular attention to the fact that the recommendations of the Commissioners have not received the sanction of the Lords of the Treasury, who are of opinion that it would be premature to come to any decision upon so important a subject as the model forms to be proposed for general use amongst Friendly Societies, until some experience has been obtained of the operation of the Act which was passed last Session.

The accompanying Reports are, therefore, presented only for the sake of the information which they contain.

My Lords approve.

COPY of TREASURY MINUTE, dated 17th August 1875.

THE Chancellor of the Exchequer states to the Board, that the Friendly Societies' Act having now been passed, he thinks it desirable that steps should at once be taken to give due effect to its provisions.

It will be the duty of the Treasury, under the 38th Section of the Act, to make regulations for the general conduct of the business of the Registrar's Office. The Chancellor of the Exchequer proposes that Mr. Ludlow should be directed to prepare, for the consideration of this Board, a draft of such regulations, and to submit them for approval as soon as may be.

Under the 10th Section, it will be the duty of the Central Office to prepare and cause to be circulated, for the use of Societies, model forms of accounts, balance-sheets, and valuations; and, further, to construct and publish Tables of benefits and payments for the use of Societies.

It being of the greatest importance that the model forms should be prepared under the best actuarial advice, the Chancellor of the Exchequer proposes that a small Commission should be appointed to draw them up.

He proposes that it should consist of Mr. W. P. Pattison, Mr. R. P. Hardy, and Mr. A. J. Finlaison, and that Mr. A. B. Adlard should act as their secretary, and that they should be instructed to consider and prepare the following forms:—

1. A form of annual return of receipts and expenditure, funds and effects, showing separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of each Society to the 31st of December in every year, pursuant to Section 14, Sub-section d, of the Friendly Societies' Act, 1875.

2. A form of quinquennial return of sickness and mortality, to be required from each Society for the five years ending 31st December 1875. (Section 14, Sub-section l.)

3. The form in which the abstract of a quinquennial valuation is to be made where the Society appoints its own valuer, and of the Return to accompany such abstract. (Section 14, Sub-section b.)

4. A form of Return to be furnished to the Registrar for the purpose of a quinquennial valuation. (Ibid.)

5. To consider whether any, and what, Tables of sickness and mortality now extant may be recommended for temporary use by the Registrar, and with what modifications (if any) pending the preparation of Tables under the new Act. (Section 10, Sub-section 5*c*.)

6. To consider and prepare model forms of accounts, so far as such forms are affected by the forms for annual and quinquennial Returns.

My Lords approve.

FIRST REPORT.

FIRST REPORT.

TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY.

THE Commissioners appointed by the foregoing Minute of your Lordships to consider and prepare certain forms necessary for giving effect to the provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and to consider whether any, and if so what Tables of sickness and mortality now extant may be recommended for temporary use by the Registrar, pending the preparation of Tables under the New Act, have the honour to lay before your Lordships a complete set of forms which they have prepared for the purposes required, together with a Report of some of the considerations which came before them in the course of their deliberations.

PART I.—THE PREPARATION OF FORMS.

We obtained, through the Secretary, Mr. Adlard, copies of the accounts and statements periodically furnished by several of the larger Societies, and by some of the local clubs, to their members. From these materials, and from our own experience as Actuaries, we were enabled to form some idea of the extent of detail in which these Societies were accustomed to render their accounts, and which could probably be required of all other Societies, without much inconvenience.

In order, however, to test whether the actual working of these forms was attended by any practical difficulties, one of our number (Mr. Hardy) paid a visit to the chief offices of the "Manchester Unity" (Manchester), the "Ancient Order of Foresters" (Edinburgh), and the "Royal Liver" (Liverpool), and personally inspected the records received by these large Societies from their numerous branches, and filed by them at their central offices.

The machinery by which these periodical returns were collected and enforced was fully explained to Mr. Hardy, who gathered that, with the forms then in use (accompanied, as in the case of the Ancient Order of Foresters, by full explanatory notes), little difficulty was experienced in obtaining correctly filled-up Returns.

We desire to express our sense of the ready facilities afforded to Mr. Hardy, and of the attention which the Commissioners have throughout received from the Managers and Secretaries of Societies to whom they applied for information.

The forms of Annual Account used by the "Manchester Unity," the "Order of True Ivorites, Saint David's Unity," and the "Ancient Order of Foresters," are somewhat similar, but that of the last-mentioned is, in our opinion, superior in precision, and calculated to promote a sound system of finance, by suggesting distinct funds and separate accounts of the receipts and expenditure respectively applicable to the several benefits and expenses of the Society.

A form of Annual Return, specially prepared by Mr. Tompkins, of the Registrar's Office, was also submitted to us, and carefully considered.

After a full review of all current systems, we are of opinion that the Annual Return should be prepared in a form that will require a separate statement to be shown of the balance in hand, and of the receipts and expenditure on account of each class of benefits granted; and further that it will tend to promote promote economy if the expenses of management be defrayed out of a distinct fund, raised either by a special levy, or by periodical drafts upon one or other of the benefit funds, so that the cost of management may be kept directly under the observation of the members, and any wasteful or illegal expenditure receive a prompt check.

We have accordingly prepared a form of Annual Return to meet these objects, and which includes separate accounts for each fund, and a balance-sheet showing the nature of the securities in which the property of the Society is invested.

By inserting in the balance-sheet only high classes of securities, we desire to indicate the kind of investments best suited to these Societies, and by calling for a statement of the amount of stock which each investment represents, and the value at which it has been taken, we hope to keep well before the Management Committee and the Auditors the necessity of periodically re-valuing the property of the Society.

We have also prepared a form of Quinquennial Return of sickness and mortality, designed to exhibit the facts in a shape that can be made readily available by the Registrar for combining the total experience of all, or a portion of the Societies, and with comparatively little trouble and moderate expense to the Department.

Provision has been made for distinguishing the time during which the full sickness allowances were drawn from that when half-pay was allowed, and from that of "reduced pay."

Although the risks against which Friendly Societies are intended to provide cannot be accurately estimated without an elaborate investigation, which must embrace a variety of circumstances, such as the occupation, social condition, and the tendency, more or less pronounced, of locality to particular diseases, we believe the facts called for in the Returns will prove sufficient for a satisfactory practical inquiry, and hereafter the scope of investigations may be easily extended, and a more minute sub-division of results be attained.

At present, we do not recommend that more detailed Returns should be enforced, but we think it would be desirable for the Registrar to take an early opportunity of making collections of the experience of certain Societies whose members belong to particular trades, and also to gather from various Societies the experience of each in regard to special occupations. These can be combined in any manner which may appear desirable.

We have prepared a form of the particulars to be returned to the Registrar for the purposes of a valuation; also a Consolidated Quinquennial Return corresponding with the Annual Return. We have added a form, "Summary of Results," and a "Valuation Balance Sheet," which brings into comparison the computed liabilities of the Society and the assets held against them. The balance of this account shows the surplus or deficiency, and reveals the position of the Society.

When Societies appoint their own Valuer, we propose that he should be required to give the result of his valuation in a Special Return, setting forth and illustrating the methods he has used, and showing the position of the Society as estimated by him, and his recommendations thereupon.

We attach much importance to a Return of this nature, and have framed a Paper of Questions, with a view of securing the information required. The adoption of this plan will save a large amount of correspondence at the Central Office.

In order to assist the Societies in keeping their records in a methodical and convenient form, and to enable them with little trouble to make the Returns required by the Act, and to facilitate the audit, we have prepared model forms of all important books. These books are—

1. "Register," or original record of all benefits granted and expired; every entry to be authenticated by the signature of a member of the Managing Committee.
2. "Contributions Received" Book, to record the payment of the members' contributions, specially designed to reduce the work of audit, and to facilitate the preparation of the Annual Return. One form of book has been prepared for monthly contributions; another, more elaborate, for more frequent contributions, and so designed that the list of contracts will not have to be re-copied during the year.
3. "Sickness Register," showing in detail the duration of each member's sickness as it occurs, the several amounts paid to him for allowance, and the malady under which he suffered. At a future period this latter information might be useful to the Central Office, and if periodically noted in the manner proposed, can be extracted with little labour and expense. A note has been attached to this form especially enjoining that the nomenclature of the Registrar General should be used.
4. "Cancelment Book," for the record of the changes, variations, or cessations of the benefit or contributions. Our own experience has shown us that such a book is indispensable to secure accuracy in the records when the transactions are numerous.
5. "Classification Book," giving the results in a tabular form of the sickness and mortality experienced. The book has been further utilized by making it exhibit the contributions payable, and the amount of the benefits at each age of life. The form of this book is very simple, and can be easily kept. If duly posted, the Society will be in a position to test its own sickness and mortality experience every year, and have in readiness the necessary data for making a valuation of its affairs at any time. We strongly recommend its adoption.

Throughout the preparation of these Returns and Books, our object has been to provide forms for the requirements of the majority of Societies, and which would be easily adaptable to the remaining Societies. We have also been careful to use the terms in most general use, but anyone familiar with the Societies will know that much technical language is used by them, and especially by the Orders.

COPY of LETTER from Her Majesty's Treasury to the Commissioners.

Gentlemen,

Treasury Chambers, 23 October 1875.

I AM directed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to request, with reference to previous correspondence, that you will be so good as to consider and report to their Lordships what fee should be fixed for the Auditors' work and for Valuations under the Friendly Societies Act of the last Session of Parliament; and I am to suggest that, with the view of coming to a decision upon this question, it will be expedient that you should consult the representatives of Friendly Societies in the matter.

I am, &c.

FURTHER (SECOND) REPORT

OF THE

ACTUARIAL COMMISSIONERS

APPOINTED BY

THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY

For purposes connected with the "FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875."

FEES FOR VALUERS AND PUBLIC AUDITORS.

TO THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY.

My Lords,

THE subject of the foregoing letter has been carefully considered, and we have now the honour to submit to your Lordships a report of the proceedings which we adopted, and the conclusions at which we have arrived.

As a preliminary step, letters were addressed to the Councils of the "Institute of Accountants," the "Society of Accountants in England," the "Society of Accountants in Edinburgh," and the "Institute of Accountants and Actuaries in Glasgow," enclosing a copy of the Act, and requesting their views as to the scale of fees which should be fixed for Public Auditors appointed for the purposes of the Act.

The replies accompany this report.

A circular letter (Form A.) was also addressed to the Secretaries of several of the Affiliated Orders, and to a number of Societies, also to others interested in the subject, enclosing Extracts from the Act (Form B.), and a paper of Questions (Form C.), with the view of obtaining information as to the fees usually paid for the valuations and audits of the affairs of Friendly Societies. Suggestions as to the scales to be fixed under the Act were also invited. 130 of these letters of inquiry were sent, and replies were received from the undermentioned, viz. :—

CLASS 1.—Affiliated Orders.

Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows.
Ancient Order of Foresters.
Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds, Ashton Unity.
Order of True Ivorites (St. David's Unity).

As it was found that the answers given by some Societies with respect to the details connected with their valuations were not sufficiently definite for the purpose in view, a second letter (Form D.) was addressed to such Societies, enclosing an additional List of Questions (Form E.).

To these, replies were received from the following Societies: *—

Royal Standard.	Reepham Provident.
Western Provident.	Stoke and Melford Union Association.
Dorset Friendly.	Stratford-on-Avon Becher Club.

Aldham and United Parishes Insurance.
Framlingham Unity Provident.
Loddon and Clavering Benefit.
Dunmow Friendly.
Little Berkhamstead Provident.

The whole of the replies are transmitted herewith.

The information and opinions collected in the manner indicated, together with the suggestions offered, have been duly considered.

[* The names of the Societies are given in the same order as in the previous List.]

The following are the recommendations which we would submit to your Lordships:—

I.—Scale of Fees for Payment to Valuers appointed under the Act.

We recommend that the following Scale be adopted, viz.:—

For Societies with 50, or any smaller number of Members.	3 l. 3 s.
For Societies with over 50, but not exceeding 100 Members.	5 l. 5 s.
For Societies with over 100 Members, but not exceeding 1,000.	5 l. 5 s. in respect of the first 100 Members, with an additional 1 l. 1 s. in respect of each additional 100 Members, or part thereof.
For Societies with over 1,000 Members, but not exceeding 10,000.	14 l. 14 s. in respect of the first 1,000 Members, with an additional 5 l. 5 s. in respect of each additional 1,000 Members, or part thereof.
For Societies with over 10,000 Members.	A special arrangement to be made in each case.

II.—Fees for Payment to Public Auditors appointed under the Act.

We recommend that the following Scale of Fees be adopted, viz.:—

For Societies with over 100, but not exceeding 500 Members.	1 l. 1 s. in respect of each 100 Members, or part thereof.
For Societies with over 500 Members.	5 l. 5 s. in respect of the first 500 Members, with an additional 10 s. 6 d. in respect of each additional 100 Members, or part thereof. No fee, however, to exceed 52 l. 10 s. unless by special arrangement.

The following are a few considerations connected with the subject which we would submit to your Lordships:—

1. We think it would be desirable to divide the country into Districts, and appoint an Auditor for each District.

2. That the Societies desirous of submitting their accounts to the Auditor should forward all the necessary materials to his office in order that travelling expenses and loss of time may be avoided.

3. That the scale of fees should apply only in cases when the Society is located within the district assigned to the Auditor employed. This need not, however, preclude a Society from employing an Auditor appointed for any other district, but in such a case special terms should be arranged.

4. It should be understood that the work be strictly confined to auditing the accounts, and, in the event of any errors being discovered, the books should be returned (at the cost of the Society) for correction, unless the Auditor be requested by the Society to correct the inaccuracies; in which case an additional fee, to be arranged between the Auditor and the Society, should be paid.

5. That in order to ensure the efficiency of the audit, it would be very desirable, if it be practicable, to appoint as Public Auditors those only who follow the profession of a Public Accountant.

If,

If, however, a difficulty should be found in obtaining the services of a professional Accountant in any remote district, we do not think there would be any objection in such a case to the appointment of a manager or accountant to a bank, or some other person of undoubted qualifications; but we are strongly of opinion that these should be exceptional cases.

6. The scale of Fees which we have recommended may possibly, in some quarters, be considered lower than is consistent with the requirements of an efficient audit. We therefore think it important that in the papers issued to Public Accountants and Societies with respect to audit, attention should be particularly directed to the fact that the use of the "Contributions Received Book," the form for which was submitted to your Lordships with our First Report, will materially diminish the work of audit.

7. We think that the following regulation as to reports by Public Auditors (adopted with slight modification from the First Schedule of the "Companies Act, 1862") may conveniently be used for the purposes of the Friendly Societies Act.

The Auditor or Auditors shall make a Report to the Members upon the Balance Sheet and Accounts, and in every such Report they shall state whether in their opinion the Balance Sheet is a full and fair Balance Sheet, containing the particulars required by the Law relating to Friendly Societies, and properly drawn up, so as to exhibit a true and correct view of the state of the Society's affairs, and in case they have called for explanations or information from the Directors, or Committee of Management, whether such explanations or information have been given, and whether they have been satisfactory.

We have, &c.

ON FEES for VALUERS and PUBLIC AUDITORS.

FORM (A.)

187, Fleet-street, London, E.C.,
November , 1875.

Sir,

I AM desired by the Commissioners appointed by Her Majesty's Treasury for purposes connected with the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, to ask you if you will kindly furnish them with information respecting your own or any other Society which in your judgment would assist them in determining the Fees which should be allowed to public Auditors and Valuers for the purposes of the Act as set forth in S. 14, sub-section 1, c, d, and f, and S. 35.

With the view of indicating the information which would be of service, I enclose a short paper of questions, and if you are able to answer them, or any of them, the Commissioners will be obliged.

I also enclose a copy of the Sections of the Act referred to.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

Secretary to the Commission.

FORM (B.)

EXTRACTS from FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875.

Duties and obligations of societies. 14. WITH respect to the duties and obligations of registered societies, the following provisions shall have effect:

(1.) Every registered society shall—

Audit. (c.) Once at least in every year submit its accounts for audit either to one of the public auditors appointed as herein mentioned, or to two or more persons appointed as the rules of the society provide, which auditors shall have access to all the books and accounts of the society, and shall examine the general statement of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society, and verify the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto, and shall either sign the same as found by them to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or specially report to the society in what respects they find it incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law:

Annual returns. (d.) Once in every year before the 1st day of June send to the registrar a general statement (to be called the annual return) of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society as audited, which shall show separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of the society, and shall be made out to the thirty-first December then last inclusively, and a copy of the auditor's report, if any, shall also be sent to the registrar with such general statement; and such annual return shall state whether the audit has been conducted by a public auditor appointed as in this Act provided, and by whom; and, if by any person or persons other than a public auditor, shall state the name, address, and calling or profession of each of such persons, and the manner in which and the authority under which they were respectively appointed:

Quinquennial valuations. (f.) Once at least in the five years next after the commencement of this Act, or the registry of the society, and so again within six months after the expiration of every five years succeeding the date of the first valuation under this Act, either cause its assets and liabilities to be valued by a valuer to be appointed by the society, and send to the registrar a report, signed by such valuer, and which shall also state his address and calling or profession, on the condition of the society, and an abstract to be made by him of the results of his valuation, together with a return containing such information with respect to the benefits assured and contributions receivable by the society, and of its funds and effects, debts, and credits, as the registrar may from time to time require, or send to the registrar a return of the benefits assured and contributions receivable from all the members of the society, and of all its funds and effects, debts, and credits, accompanied by such evidence in support thereof as the chief registrar prescribes, in which case the registrar shall cause the assets and liabilities of the society to be valued and reported on by some actuary, and shall send to the society a copy of his report, and an abstract of the results of his valuation.

Public auditors. 35. The Treasury may from time to time appoint public auditors and valuers for the purposes of this Act, and may determine from time to time the rates of remuneration to be paid by societies for the services of such auditors and valuers; but the employment of such auditors and valuers is not compulsory on any society.

FORM (C.)

1. Name of Society.
2. Number of Members.
3. What different benefits are granted by the Society?
4. Has a valuation been made by an Actuary?
5. If so, when, and by whom?
6. Were the particulars required by the Actuary furnished to him in a classified form under years of birth, or otherwise?
7. Was the work confined to the valuation, or were any statistics of sickness or mortality computed, or were fresh tables of contributions prepared?
8. Amount of fee paid to Actuary.
9. Has the Society employed a professional Auditor?
10. Name and description of such Auditor.
11. To what extent was the audit carried, and was each individual item of account examined?

Sir,

187, Fleet-street, London, E.C.,
December , 1875.

THE Commissioners appointed for purposes connected with the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, having found that the replies received from many Societies respecting valuations are not sufficiently definite for the purpose which they have in view, I am desirous to enclose a paper containing a few additional questions, and to say that the Commissioners will feel obliged if you will reply to them as fully as you are able.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

Secretary to the Commission.

LETTERS from the INSTITUTE of ACCOUNTANTS; the SOCIETY of ACCOUNTANTS in England; the SOCIETY of ACCOUNTANTS in Edinburgh; and the INSTITUTE of ACCOUNTANTS and ACTUARIES, Glasgow.

LETTER from the Institute of Accountants to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

The Institute of Accountants, 30, Moorgate-street,
London, 11 December 1875.

Sir,

In reply to the first question contained in your letter of the 8th ultimo, viz., "What scale of fees should be fixed for payment to public auditors appointed by the Treasury for the purposes of the Act," I am instructed to say that, in the opinion of the Council, the scale of fees to be paid to such auditors should be fixed at the rate of five guineas per day of seven hours for their own time, and two guineas per day for each of their clerks, besides travelling and hotel expenses when from home.

The Council have no knowledge of the customary charges for the audit of the affairs of small local Societies and village clubs, nor of the extent of detail to which it has been considered proper to carry the investigation of the accounts of such Societies, and they regret that they are, therefore, unable to furnish the Commissioners with any information upon those points.

I have, &c.

Secretary.

LETTER from the Society of Accountants, England, to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

2, Cowper's-court, Cornhill, E.C.,
17 December 1875.

Sir,

I AM instructed by the Council of the Society of Accountants in England to submit the following suggestions for the consideration of the Commissioners appointed by Her Majesty's Treasury, with the view of carrying out some of the provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, in answer to their inquiries relating to the fees for payment of public auditors under the Act.

They are strongly of opinion that, in order to insure efficiency, none but professional accountants should be appointed auditors to any Society (however small), and that as a guarantee for the fitness of any auditor to be appointed, he should be a member of some duly constituted society of accountants.

The Council, after careful consideration, cannot come to any decision in favour of a scale of fixed or specific fees which shall meet every case of audit.

In the case of large Societies and those in large towns, the Council can suggest no more equitable method of remuneration, nor one more advantageous to the Societies themselves, than the existing one, viz., the charging for time, per day of eight hours, and they suggest the rate of three guineas per diem for the principal, and one guinea per diem for the clerk, or two guineas per diem each for principal and clerk together, at the option of each Friendly Society. In most cases there would be little difficulty in coming to an understanding with respect to a fixed stipend, should any Society desire it, after the amount of the required labour shall have been ascertained.

The Council are informed that a large majority of the different Friendly Societies or clubs consist of but few members, and that their funds are very small. In such cases the Council are of opinion that there would be little difficulty in obtaining the gratuitous services of a public accountant in the neighbourhood, but in case the Commissioners should consider this suggestion as unadvisable or impracticable, then, that country districts should be formed, a public accountant be appointed to each district, and that the accounts and books of the different Societies should be forwarded to his office for the purpose of audit, it being understood that the minimum fee would be one guinea for each Society.

Under this arrangement the small Societies would obtain a guarantee for the correctness of their accounts from a duly qualified authority, and at a cost commensurate with their income.

The Council recommend that the books should be delivered at the office of the accountant in order to save his travelling expenses, and the loss of his time in going forwards and backwards to towns and villages, for which he would of course have to charge. It is assumed that in all cases the books will be properly kept, and in such manner as the auditor may require.

The Council are unable to make any suggestion as to the remuneration of non-professional auditors. They have already expressed a strong opinion that, for the interests of the various Societies, none but duly qualified accountants should be appointed auditors under the Act.

Yours, &c.
(signed) Alfred T. Harper,
Secretary.

LETTER from the Society of Accountants, Edinburgh, to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Chambers, 5, North St. David-street, Edinburgh,
18 December 1875.

Dear Sir,

I HAVE had the honour to submit to the President and Council of this Society your communications of 22nd ultimo and 10th instant in connection with the "Friendly Societies Act, 1875," and I am desired to communicate with you in reply.

The President and Council desire me to express their regret that it is not in their power to afford the Commissioners information upon the point submitted to them, which in their opinion will be of any very material value in determining this question.

It appears upon inquiry that few members of this Society have had experience in the audit of the accounts of Friendly Societies, these audits having been, it is presumed, usually performed by members of the Societies themselves. The President and Council are aware that in many instances a professional fee charged upon the usual scale, according to time occupied, would be unsuitable, having respect to the amount which the Societies' funds could conveniently afford, and, if this be so, the remuneration to the auditor could probably only be provided by charging a small per-centage upon the income of the funds.

Under the whole circumstances, therefore, the President and Council have come to the conclusion to suggest to the Commissioners that until a little experience has been gained as to the amount of work which will require to be undertaken, and the responsibility to be incurred, no permanent scale of remuneration should in the meantime be fixed. And in regard to the Societies in Scotland availing themselves of the services of the accountants to be named by the Treasury, an instruction might be given to the Accountant of the Court of Session to fix the scale of remuneration for said auditors. The President and Council believe that by the adoption of this suggestion, in the course of a short time such information will be obtained as will enable the Commissioners to lay down regulations for fixing permanently the remuneration for the efficient carrying out of this important branch of the Act of Parliament.

I am further instructed by the President and Council to state that, in their opinion, the remuneration of "valuers" must be held altogether distinct from that of "auditors." Valuations of Societies' funds and liabilities are made only at stated intervals, and in their opinion the remuneration for such valuations—in respect that it may be held to form a charge against the capital funds of the Societies, and as it involves a considerable amount of actuarial knowledge and professional responsibility—should be paid for on the usual scale of professional charges, having respect to the time, &c. occupied.

I am desired by the President and Council to express their acknowledgment to the Commissioners for the recognition of this Society in this matter, and their regret that it has not been in their power to afford to the Commissioners more assistance in the determination of the question which has been remitted to them.

I have, &c.

LETTER from the Institute of Accountants and Actuaries, Glasgow, to
A. B. Adlard, Esq.

155, West George-street, Glasgow,
24 December 1875.

Sir,

I HAVE submitted your communication of 31st ultimo to the Council of the Institute of Accountants and Actuaries of this city, and I am desired, in reply, to state that Societies such as those referred to in Section 8 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, only exist amongst us in limited numbers; and few, so far as known to us, are registered under the present Friendly Societies Act.

There

There is amongst us a class of Societies supported by entry monies and voluntary subscriptions of persons originally from particular districts throughout Scotland, who are drawn to the city by the opportunities of employment which it affords, or who stand in relationship with such; these Societies have as one of their objects the assistance of decayed members, and the affording of relief to necessitous persons from their respective districts. The funds of these Societies are almost in all cases administered, and the accounts of the treasurers audited, by members of their committees without expense.

There are also Societies formed from the general community for the relief of various classes of distressed or necessitous persons, the accounts of which, when audited by professional men, are usually so done without fee, or only at a nominal charge.

None of these Societies, so far as they have come within our knowledge, are registered under the Friendly Societies Act.

There are a few Burial Societies which do come within the scope of the Act, the largest of which is the Scottish Legal Life Assurance Society, a copy of the accounts of which for the year 1874 is sent herewith. This Society, it will be seen, collected in that year in small sums, by the medium of agencies throughout the country, upwards of 60,000*l*. The auditors' fee was fifty guineas. The investigation was carried to the examination of the accounts of receipts and payments rendered weekly by the agents; these accounts containing the amounts collected from each member, the payments to the representatives of deceased members being accompanied by certificates of death and proper vouchers for the sums paid, all of which the auditors examined. The office arrangements of the Society provide for the examination of the collectors' accounts with their collection books, and occasionally with the pass-books of members; this latter being especially done where claims arise, when the members' books must be produced.

Another and smaller Society of a similar nature exists, the accounts of which are audited by members of the committee of management, but we have no information as to how this is done or how remunerated.

There may be other Societies of this kind, but we have no information regarding them, and they must be few.

The Council of the Institute are alive to the importance of a proper audit on the accounts of the Societies legislated for by the Act of 1875, and are of opinion that no audit can be sufficient which is not carried to the extent of securing a proper accounting of the subscriptions of members, where this is possible by the direct examination of the books of account between them and the officials of the Society, or, in the case of Societies of such extent as to render this practically impossible, at given periods, by the auditors being satisfied that the machinery in force is the best fitted for the purpose of securing correct accounting which can be devised in the particular circumstances of each Society.

The question of remuneration is, in this connection, important, but we can offer no suggestion as to a scale to regulate such payment; it should, however, in our opinion, be in all cases so ample as to secure the best attention of men of position and integrity.

I am, &c.

Secretary.

LETTER from Mr. James Curtis (Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Sir,

Gazette Office, Brighton, 1 December 1875.

I AM favoured with receipt of yours of the 24th ult., in which you ask me, in reference to our interview of the 22nd ult., to furnish you with any suggestion I may desire to make in writing.

Briefly, then, I may state my opinion (and I believe that of the Society of the Manchester Unity generally) with regard to the appointment of auditors under the new Friendly Societies Act, that the persons selected should be those who have had practical experience, and who possess present knowledge of the working of Friendly Societies. I believe this would be conducive alike to the interests of the Societies and to the public service. I would suggest that the services of such auditors should be retained by the Government paying them some annual fee. I am fearful that unless the importance of this is made manifest, the official mind (I say this with all respect) may lead to the appointment of Poor Law Auditors, or similar officials, and the men whom I conceive should be appointed, left out entirely. There is also a very strong feeling manifested by the members against any connection between the working of Friendly Societies and the Poor Law; so much is this the case, that I am convinced if Poor Law officials were appointed auditors of Friendly Societies, the clause of the Act as to independent audit would become a dead letter.

I would further suggest that the appointment of valuer (quinquennial valuation) should be kept distinct from that of auditor, inasmuch as the duties of a valuer require more professional knowledge than is possessed by the class of practical men well fitted to perform the duties of auditors.

In answer to your questions as to the cost of the valuation of the Manchester Unity recently undertaken by Mr. Ratcliffe, I may state that the cost was about 700 £., including a vote from the annual meeting of 100 £. to Mr. Ratcliffe. This was the direct cost, but it does not include any amount incurred by lodges in preparing the returns on which the valuation was made. Mr. Ratcliffe informs me that previous to commencing the valuation, he had, with assistance, prepared 172 tables of various benefits and for various periods, therefore the clerks employed had only to copy, multiply by number of members, and make the addition. Thus it is evident that no valuation could again be made so cheaply.

Mr. Ratcliffe's charge for valuing a lodge of about 100 members, varies from 10 s. 6 d. to 15 s., according to number of benefits.

The class of persons usually appointed to audit lodge accounts, are members who are supposed to have some knowledge of figures. I may admit that this is a weak point in our system, but there is a supervision over lodges by a district examiner of accounts (who is, or should be, a thoroughly competent man) who is required biennially to thoroughly examine the accounts of all lodges in the district. This latter officer, in my district (Brighton), is paid according to time he is engaged: 7 s. 6 d. a day in Brighton, 10 s. a day out of Brighton. Six ordinary lodge auditors are merely paid a small sum, varying from 1 s. to 2 s. 6 d. each.

I shall be happy to place any further information in my power which you may require at the service of the Commission.

Yours, &c.

Parliamentary Agent of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows.

LETTER from Mr. S. Shawcross (Ancient Order of Foresters) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Sir,

Edinburgh, 22 November 1875.

WE are in receipt of your circular, bearing date 17th November. In making any suggestions upon the fees which should be charged for audits and valuations, there is much difficulty. One point is very clear, that unless the fees are low, the services of the public auditors will not be in much demand, and to fix them high will thereby frustrate the objects of the Act. I should therefore suggest a maximum fee of one guinea for Societies having less than 100 members, and a pro ratâ charge for every additional 50 members. For this charge I of course assume the books, &c., will be sent to the auditor, and not for him to go to the books, thus avoiding travelling expenses. Could you kindly say from what class the public auditors will be selected, and if persons inside a Society like our own will be eligible?

If you could favour us with a rough idea of the plan of your sickness return, it would be useful to us in preparing our own. The fees I suggest should also apply to valuations, as I know the heavy charges of actuaries are the great cause why valuations of Friendly Societies have not been more general.

Yours, &c.

LETTER from Mr. James Farron (Loyal Order of Ancient Shepherds, Ashton Unity) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Dear Sir,

22 November 1875.

THE appointment of public auditors and valuers for Friendly Societies, I am of the opinion, will at present meet with considerable opposition from the members, as they are decidedly opposed to any one having any part in the affairs of the Society who are not members. As to the fees to auditors and valuers, I would suggest, when engaged, to be paid by the hour, as very frequently their time is very much interfered with, and that from two to three shillings per hour is not an unreasonable fee.

I am, &c.

(signed) James Farron,
Milton-place, Ashton-under-Lyne.

LETTER from Mr. S. Keen (Kent United District of Odd Fellows, Kent Unity) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

18, North Kent-terrace, Woolwich,

Sir,

18 November 1875.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of yesterday's date, and fear that I am not enabled to be of much service to the Commission, seeing that none of our lodges have ever, to my knowledge, submitted their accounts to a public or professional auditor or valuer; and further, I have no knowledge of what form the valuation or audit will take, as it would appear to me that much will depend upon that as to the payment of such gentlemen. If I might presume to suggest, I am of opinion that the first thing needed is the circulation of some very simple but universal form or system of keeping Friendly Societies' accounts, embodying means of obtaining therefrom all the information that will be required for making the annual and quinquennial returns and valuations, for my experience shows an immense difficulty in getting from the secretaries (particularly the country secretaries) anything beyond the mere income and expenditure; and I would also submit an opinion that any great expense entailed on the Societies for audit or valuation would meet with great disapproval; and I send copies of the work that I am in the habit of doing for our Society, for which you will see, by referring to the balance-sheet contained therein, that I only receive 15*l.* a year, and there are hundreds of secretaries who are doing the same thing, or the Societies could never be carried on at their present rate of management expense. I may tell you that by our general system of keeping the accounts, each secretary takes the contribution from the members on lodge nights in a book, called a pence book, which contributions are afterwards placed in a book to each member's account, and ultimately brought to the ledger. Our accounts are divided thus: "Sick Fund," "Management Fund," "Widow and Orphan Fund," and "Benevolent Fund;" an account is, of course, kept of each member's age at entry, as also that of his wife; and that, I think, is the extent of information kept by the secretaries, except that when a member declares on the sick fund, a written declaration is sent to the lodge house, which should state the cause of his illness. But such documents are not always preserved. Now, I apprehend that a public auditor would have to go through every item of the secretaries' work, which for twelve months would be found somewhat formidable for one lodge only; but if he had to do our 30 lodges, for instance, he would find it a very long job, and I really do not feel myself able to suggest any particular amount of compensation for such work. I should be happy to answer any questions that I could, or to afford any information possible, because I deem it a most important thing that Societies' accounts should be properly and periodically checked; but the questions which you have submitted to me do not appear to apply to our Society, for the reasons I have given, and therefore I am not able to reply to them with any good results, I fear.

I have, &c.
(signed) S. Keen.

P.S.—I may say that whenever a special audit of a lodge account in our Unity has been found necessary, I have been asked to undertake the duty, and have cheerfully done so without extra pay.

LETTER from Rev. G. C. Cherry (Aldermaston Friendly Society) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Sir,

Denford, Hungerford, 23 November 1875.

I REGRET that I am unable at present to give any information which would assist in determining the fees which should be allowed to public auditors and valuers for the purposes of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Section 14, sub-section 1, e., d., and f., and Section 35. I do not doubt but that the Commissioners are impressed with the necessity of setting these fees at the lowest rate consistent with obtaining efficient officers. The Friendly Societies, in the agricultural districts at least, will strongly incline to having their work done cheaply, without much thought of quality. Two Societies in Berkshire are known to me as having recently submitted to an actuarial valuation. I have put on foot inquiries about these valuations; if they seem worth bringing under your notice, and the Societies as yet not communicated with by you, I will write again.

I am, &c.
(signed) George C. Cherry.

LETTER from Mr. C. Cashmore (Cannon-street Male Adult Provident Institution) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Dear Sir,

34½, Newhall-street, Birmingham,
18 November 1875.

IF not presuming too much on your valuable time, and also if in the province of the Friendly Societies' Commission, I would beg to suggest the desirability of appointing in Birmingham and other large towns two or more accountants of good standing as Government auditors, to audit the accounts of those Friendly Societies desirous of such assistance.

I am, &c.

Secretary.

Actuaries' Valuations and Reports.

Sir,

Great Missenden, 24 December 1875.

ON the above subject allow me to make a few remarks, obtained from the experience of this Society.

Various reports on the affairs of this Society have, at intervals of five years, been made, first by Mr. Marshal of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Office, for which he received a nominal fee of from three to five guineas, the result of each of his reports being a surplus up to 1859, when he advised a scheme for distributing a bonus of 1,600*l.*, after which period he declined to make any further report.

In 1866 Mr. Neison was applied to for a report, which he undertook to make for 21*l.* His report, bearing date December of that year, was up to the end of 1864, which, to the great astonishment of the directors, showed a deficit of 1,417*l.*

The directors, not feeling satisfied, furnished the same data as that supplied to Mr. Neison to Mr. Finlaison, of the National Debt Office, who gave as his result a surplus of 3,946*l.*, making making a difference of over 5,000*l.* in the two reports. For this service Mr. Finlaison charged a fee of 42*l.* This charge was considered very high, Mr. F. thinking otherwise.

In 1869 Mr. Neison made another report, for which the same fee of 21*l.* was paid. This report gave again a deficit of 2,940*l.*

In 1874 Mr. Neison made another report for the same fee; this time the result was a deficit of 1,939*l.*

I should state that the directors, finding the funds yearly increasing during a period of over 40 years' existence, and the number of members (900) remaining nearly stationary for the last 20 years, cannot comprehend how any deficit really exists with a capital of 14,000*l.* The members are also clamorous for a distribution of some portion of this apparently large sum.

I think I should be only giving a fair opinion of the feeling of the directors were I to say that, taking these diverse reports into consideration, it would be more satisfactory to the societies were Boards of Actuaries appointed to investigate every society's affairs, such Boards to consist of not less than three certified actuaries, and that, in the event of the society to bear a portion, a fee of about five guineas per 1,000 members, or under, be paid by the society whose affair is in hand, and such further payment be made by Government as the result of your inquiries shall warrant.

I am, &c.
(signed) W. M. Clark, Secretary.

LETTER from Mr. Charles Clarke (Reepham Provident Society) to A. B. Adlard, Esq.

Gentlemen,

Holt, Norfolk, 4 January 1876.

SINCE I replied to your queries last week, I have had a consultation with one of the trustees of the Reepham Provident Society, a gentleman who took the most active part when the Society was established in 1827, and who has ever since been most anxious it should be conducted on the safest and soundest principles the science of vital statistics could furnish. He wishes to make the following suggestion with regard to the quinquennial valuations under the Friendly Societies Act of 1875:

"That public actuaries be appointed, and that the expense of such valuations to each society, if possible, should not exceed five guineas each."

I am informed by the above-named gentleman that the Reepham Provident Society was valued on two other occasions besides those that I sent you word about; one in 1845 by Mr. Griffith Davies, of the Guardian Assurance Office, and another subsequently.

I am, &c.
(signed) Charles Clarke,
Secretary.

*We have been accustomed for the last 10 years to have our books audited continuously by a firm of public accountants, and the comfort of mind and sense of security resulting therefrom is worth to us infinitely more than the money it costs. You work thus paid for involves the almost continuous attendance of one clerk, and frequently two at busy times. It includes a careful analysis of every separate account into its constituent elements, and the number of these accounts is now not much less than the items have all been carried to account. The Disbursements also have to be carefully checked and compared with the vouchers; and then follows the preparation of the Quarterly Balance Sheets, of which the Report sent herewith will furnish a any intention of incurring; but I would like to take this opportunity of recording my opinion that nothing which we do could safely be left undone, excepting, perhaps, the analysis of each separate account; and that, great as the expense would

The last valuation was made in June last.	In a classified form, under years of birth.	The work was a valuation and general report, and no fresh tables were prepared.

* In explanation of Question 11, I may add that the Society is divided into 20 districts, each of which is managed by a collector under a District Committee, who meet monthly to audit the accounts. The books and balance-sheet of every district where that of the clerk ends. It consists in the examination of the summary of all the fore-mentioned work, a complete examination of the cash-book and all the money transactions of the head office, the ledger work, treasurer's account, quarterly defalcation, and recommended the Society to appoint a professional auditor. This recommendation was acted upon, and himself elected to the office, which he has held for 20 years.

Assistance is given by a competent person who compares, so far as is possible, all vouchers with entries in all the agencies, noting where there is no voucher, in which case the attention of the auditors is given to such item. He also goes through the monthly contribution-book and sees that it is correct. The auditors select a portion of the agency accounts (some agencies taken at random) which have been examined by the assistant, and verify his statement. They examine all accounts not taken by the assistant, and the balance-sheet (each separate item being carefully taken), and see that all the property of the Society is as described in the capital account.	They receive their travelling expenses. The assistant receives 3 l. 3 s. and travelling expenses. He is Mr. Tompkins, of the Friendly Society's Registry Office.	I consider the charges for valuation made in this Society, as in other societies, extravagantly high. In this Society nearly all the classification and preliminary work for the actuary in 1871 was done by myself, and I hope to undertake it again next year; comparatively little, though important work, remaining for the actuary. I hope that you will be able to secure a reduced scale of valuers' charges. I have nothing to remark about the expense of audit. 5 l. in this Society is a fair charge.

20 guineas - - - - -	Auditors are appointed in accord- ance with Rules 4 and 57 of the Society.	The present auditors are C. Bowly, Esq., gentleman; J. Bravender, Esq., land and estate valuer and agent; E. Hampton, Esq., solicitor; W. Miller, Esq., Actuary of Savings Bank.	All books, securities, accounts, or other mat- ter relating to the Society are put in the auditors' hands, and each individual item of account examined by them.	None; the services are gra- tuitous, as the majority of the members are of the working class.	No; except that I think it should be done with as little charge as possible on the funds of a Society; or the members, though most interested, may become objectors. I would suggest, therefore, a capitation fee not exceeding 6 d. per member.

To the fullest extent, and every item ex- amined.	5 guineas - - - - -	We have no suggestion as to what the scale of fees should be; but we are strongly of opinion that we have paid a great deal too much, and that it could be performed well at less than half the cost.
26 l. 5 s. - - - - -	No. Our own Society has as or- dinary members several professional accountants, and many gentlemen holding responsible situations as book-keepers, cashiers, &c.	- - - - -	Every individual item of receipts and expen- diture is audited quarterly.	Two auditors, 4 guineas each per annum.	I am not competent to offer an opinion as to valuations. For professional auditors the remuneration should, I think, be the same as under the Bankruptcy Act, 2 l. 2 s. per day; or, if a scale of fees was preferred for Societies under 100 members, 2 l. 2 s. For each additional 100 members 10 s. 6 d.
40 guineas, and 7 guineas for seven new tables.	No; six auditors are annually appointed from among the honorary members.	- - - - -	Each item of account is laid before the auditors, and they usually verify the entries and the adding of the books here and there. The audit is very carefully conducted.	None - - - - -	I can offer no suggestion as to the amount of fees which should be paid for valuation; but I would suggest a uniform scale of so much payment per hundred or fraction of a hundred members.
100 l. - - - - -	No - - - - -	- - - - -	Yes - - - - -	- - - - -	On this point I have formed no opinion, and therefore cannot make any suggestion.

15 guineas - - - - -	No - - - - -	Two trustees, magistrates of the district, and honorary members.	Each item of account - - - - -	Nil.	---
Mr. Neison charged and was paid 10 l. 10 s.	No - - - - -	- - - - -	The accounts are audited annually by two of the honorary members, as required by the Rules, every item of receipt and expenditure being examined; and they sign a certificate of the audit at the foot of the balance-sheet in the ledger.	None. The auditors act gratuitously.	I have not sufficient knowledge of the principles of the calculations to be able to estimate what would be a fair amount of remuneration. The Managing Committee considered Mr. Neison's charge reasonable.

* Our annual audit is generally made by two auditors, although there are four. Those whose names appear at the foot of the enclosed Report are, A. Noble and S. C. Warren. The first is a merchant in the City, who takes great interest in the paid to auditors, much would depend on the time the audit took. Under our system of management the annual audit takes very little time, certainly not more than three hours.

† The club is purely local, and comprises some 30 parishes in the adjoining neighbourhood. It is worked by means of the Clergy and farmers, who act as directors in their several parishes, and each quarter they send in their accounts to the

5 guineas - - - -	No; the accounts are audited annually by two of the committee of management appointed by the committee for that purpose.	- - - - -	All the books are examined, and the additions, &c. tested by the auditors.	None - - - -	Our Society is so small that its experience would be no guide for larger ones. A professional auditor would charge 2 or 3 guineas for auditing our books.
42l. - - - - -	No.	—	—	—	—
10l. 10s. - - - -	We do not employ a professional auditor. (See Note * below.)	—	—	—	—

5 guineas - - - - -	No professional auditor - -	- - - - -	Each item is examined by a non-professional auditor.	None - - - - -	I think that valuations would be more frequently taken if the fee could be reduced to 3 guineas; but the competency of the actuary for the work is of more importance than the amount of the fee.
5l. 5s. - - - - -	No - - - - -	Auditors appointed by Society -	Yes - - - - -	Honorary.	—
- - - - -	No - - - - -	- - - - -	Note.—The accounts are audited annually by two competent persons appointed by the rules of the society conformably to s. 14, sub-s. 1, c. d., except to 30th June instead of 31st December.	—	—
10l. 10s. - - - - -	Yes - - - - -	Mr. G. C. Lake, of Leamington, until two years since; then Mr. T. Edwards, of the town.	Rigid scrutiny. Each item of the account examined and inquired into.	3l. 3s. - - - -	3l. 3s. is not sufficient for the labour of such an audit. The fee ought to be 5l. 5s.; the labour is heavy.
5l. - - - - -	No - - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -	In our case all the facts are arranged by the secretary, and then submitted to the actuary; hence the fee is comparatively small. If all is to be done by the actuary, I think 25 l. would be fair and reasonable; for a professional auditor, 2 l. 2 s. per day.

Society; the second, Mr. Warren, is a gentleman who has been for many years connected with the London Provident Society, Broad-street. But these gentlemen receive no remuneration whatever for their services. With regard to the fees to be respectively treasurers. At the end of the year we meet, and the whole accounts are audited by gentlemen selected the previous year. Of course their services are gratuitous, and therefore I cannot give you any suggestions as to a scale of fees for such auditing.

Yes - - - - -	Alfred Jones, Esq., of 82, King William-street, London, to December 1871.	In a classified form, distinguishing males and females; and under years of birth.	To 31st December 1860 the sickness of males and females for 10 years under the different years of birth was furnished, and a valuation founded thereon made by a former secretary, and certified by Mr. Jones as correct, and new rates for male and female sick pay made. Another valuation was made by Mr. Jones to December 1866, founded upon data furnished by the secretary, classified, as before, under years of birth. After this valuation, a bonus of 10 per cent. on sums payable at death was declared in the Life Assurance Branch. The last valuation was made as at 31st December 1871. The sickness experience was supplied for the 30 preceding years, and also the rates of mortality for the preceding 10 years. In consequence of this valuation, and the large surplus shown in the Male Sick Pay Fund, a lower Sick Pay Table for Males was adopted. Copies of the last two valuations, and reports thereon, will be found in the Reports enclosed.

No; the auditors have been bankers, magistrates, tradesmen, an actuary, and accountants.	- - - - -	At the quarterly meeting of the committee and stewards, the accounts (having been pre- viously examined by the treasurer) are laid before the meeting, together with the vouchers, &c. The names and amounts of all payments to sick members, &c. are read. The auditors take the annual statement for the four quarters.	No fee - - - -	So much per cent. on the number of members.
85 guineas - - - -	Yes - - - - -	Various public accountants -	A complete examination of the receipts and expenditure of the Society, and also the secu- rities held by the trustees for the funds in- vested.	3 l. per 1,000 members per annum.	For valuation, 7 l. 10 s. per 1,000 members for societies of 1,000 members upwards. For smaller societies, more in proportion, but no fee to be less than 3 l. 3 s. For auditing, I think a fee of 3 l. per 1,000 members, but not less than a fee of 2 l. 2 s. (P.S.—I enclose a copy of Mr. Neison's valuation and report.)
36 l. 15 s. - - - -	Yes - - - - -	Laundy, Harrison, Harris, and Caldicott, Waterloo-street, Bir- mingham.	The whole of the accounts examined very strictly, and each item examined.	7 l. 10 s. per annum - -	I would suggest that the Government should appoint an actuary, and pay his charges, as I think societies are often deterred having a valuation made in consequence of the heavy charges. But if the charge is made to the societies, it should, I think, be as little as possible.
In 1862, 30 l. for certifying valuations to December 1866 made by a former secretary (all the calculations being re-worked). A new Sick Pay Table for Males, and another for Females founded thereon. For valuation to De- cember 1866, 30 guineas. For valuation to December 1871, 30 guineas. Also 20 guineas for new Sick Pay Table for Males, founded upon the Society's own experience for the past 30 years.	Yes - - - - -	Messrs. Laundy, Harrison, Harris, and Caldicott, Accountants, Bir- mingham.	Every item in the cash-book compared with vouchers. As we have branch offices at some of the Church school-rooms, these payment books are audited voluntarily by members of the Society approved by the committee, and where so audited, are submitted to the pro- fessional auditors and carefully examined.	10 guineas. The auditors consider they act the part of benevolence, and accept a smaller fee than the work actually performed would war- rant.	I consider the charges hitherto made excessive, and fear this has operated to prevent small societies from having valuations. I think 5 l. for every 1,000 members should suffice, provided that no valuation fee should be less than 2 or 3 guineas.
- - - - -	Yes - - - - -	Mr. G. H. Durrant, professional accountant, Chelmsford.	A thorough scrutiny of the accounts, from the establishment of the Society in 1844 to the year 1862, was made in that year. The committee audit the accounts monthly, and again at end of year.	50 l. - - - - -	No suggestion to offer as to fees; but consider such expense laid on society as to valuation and audit would be a hardship where societies were established, and tables made, without anticipating such expense.
- - - - -	No - - - - -	- - - - -	Three members of the Society are elected annually, who have access to every account. The accounts are open to the inspection of any member at any reasonable time.	—	—
- - - - -	No - - - - -	The present auditors are Mr. W. Westlake, chief clerk in wholesale tea warehouse, and Mr. Robert Tothill, clerk in the Exeter Probate Court.	—	—	—

36 l. 15 s. , for valuation, new Tables, &c.	No; but the audit is done by a very competent man, chief clerk in a large commercial firm here, who is himself a member of the Society.	- - - - -	The monthly payment book is examined, and each man's payment checked. Vouchers are produced for each item expended.	None - - - - -	I have not had sufficient experience to give any value to my opinion on this point.

21 l. each time - - - - -	No - - - - -	Audited by the members of the Society every year.	One year. Yes - - - - -	No fee paid to our auditors	The Society think Mr. Finlaison's charge heavy, but it has been wishful to be safe, so that when other Societies in Sheffield have made their valuations themselves, by a committee chosen from themselves, we have in every case gone to Mr. Finlaison.
- - - - -	No - - - - -	The accounts are regularly audited by two independent members, chosen annually, and varied. (A card of statement of account is enclosed, with the auditor's report thereon.)	- - - - -	No fee - - - - -	This Society is satisfied with the present system, which is working satisfactorily and successfully at a very small per-centage of cost of management.
From 10 l. 10 s. to 21 l. - - -	No - - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -	If the audit extends to each individual item of the cash account, I should say a professional auditor would require a fee of 3 or 4 guineas for auditing our accounts half- yearly.
- - - - -	No - - - - -	Accounts are audited each year by one of the members.	- - - - -	1 l. per year.	—
- - - - -	Yes - - - - -	William Symonds, chief clerk at railway station.	Thoroughly examined - - - - -	One guinea only.	—

20 guineas. The Society then only had 488 members.	No - - - - -	The auditors are two members of the Society.	All the books and accounts are placed before the auditors.	3 l. 10 s. to each, annually -	Not any. The whole of the expenses are defrayed by the East and West India Docks Company.
40 guineas - - - - -	No; the auditors, according to the rules of the Society, are the gentlemen who fill the offices of accountant and assistant superin- tendents in the Dock Companies' service.	- - - - -	The auditors saw that the items in balance- sheet were correct, according to the ledger, and examined the securities in the treasurer's hands.	No fee is paid to the auditors	I am not in a position to offer any suggestion as to the fee to actuary; but I think two members of the Society might audit the accounts, with a small fee; but this Society is so different in its nature and foundation to the ordinary Friendly Institutions, that our experience is scarcely a guide. I enclose book of rules, and copy of last balance-sheet.

Abbot's Ann Provident Society - (Jas. Dear.)	- - -	Weekly allowance in sickness. Weekly allowance in old age. Medical attendance. Use of their own money as in a savings bank. Balance of own fund on death.	The Society combines the principles of the common club with that of the savings bank. A part of the sick and old age pay must be drawn from the member's own fund, and the remainder is paid from a rate levied on all the members. The duration of the pay de- pends on the amount of the member's own fund. No valua- tion, therefore, is required.	- - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -
National Deposit Friendly Society (Rev. G. R. Portal.)	2,184 on 1st Janu- ary 1875, with an in- crease since.	Sick and medical, and old age pay. After a general rate has been levied on the mem- bers, the balance goes to their credit as in a savings bank.	No - - - - -	- - - - -	- - - - -	No statistics have been made or referred to. The contribution from each member for sick and medical pay has varied each year from two to three in the shilling. Old age has not yet accrued due, but there is a balance at the credit of that fund of 377 l. 19 s. 11 d.
Royal Liver Friendly Society - (William Atherton, Chairman.)	599,077 on 31st December 1871.	Burial, medical aid, and endowment -	Complete valuation as at 31st December 1873, about to be made by Mr. T. B. Sprague.	- - - - -	Particulars will be furnished to him in a classified form. The printed forms (specimen enclosed) were agreed upon after consulta- tion with him.	It is intended to compute statis- tics of the rates of mortality and of lapsing, according to the ages of the members and the length of time they have been insured, and, if necessary, to compute fresh tables of contributions.

- - - - -	Yes (non-professional) - - -	John Coster, relieving officer of the Andover District.	The receipts and payments were all verified; the balances due to members, sick, old age, medical, management, and surplus funds declared; the annual report either drawn out or confirmed, and each member's account examined.	2 l.	—
- - - - -	No, but the accounts pass through the hands of an accountant at a regular salary, and his duty is to watch them from day to day, complete balance-sheet, &c.	The accounts are annually audited gratuitously by two gentlemen; last year by one only.	The audit was thorough, but each item could not have been examined. The accountant examines and makes up each member's pass book, and these, with the books, go to the auditor.	50 l. - - - - -	No, the features of this Society are dissimilar to those of any other, as well as its organization and ramifications.
Not yet fixed - - - - -	Yes - - - - -	Harmood, Baines & Son, professional accountants.	The audit was continuous at the head office, and every item of account examined.	For the last three years, 367 l. 10 s. per annum.	None.
3 l. 3 s. - - - - -	No; two auditors nominated by the members (Rule 9).	- - - - -	Yes; every item examined by them - - -	1 l. a year - - - - -	Professional auditors charge 1 s. per hour here, but it is too much.
- - - - -	Yes - - - - -	James Meston, Chartered Accountant, Aberdeen.	Yes - - - - -	5 guineas per annum - - -	No.
(To actuary) sum varied from 7 l. to 10 l., according to the work done.	Never had occasion; ability is not wanting as a rule in Scottish Friendly Societies, and certainly not in this.	There are three appointed annually; generally men of position and influence.	Every voucher scrutinized, and every item carefully examined.	No fee given. It is considered an honour to hold such a post.	To test the assets and liabilities of an ordinary friendly society having the three schemes, life assurance, sickness, and annuity for five years, a fair remuneration would be to give 1 l. for every 100 members in each scheme; thus, a society having 500 members and the three schemes, would pay 15 l., or for each scheme 5 l. The ordinary annual audit should be done free by one or other of the members appointed for that purpose.

No - - - - -	- - - - -	Being interested in this, and knowing that the Odd Fellows' Lodge here had been valued, I got secretary to examine books, and find that on two occasions Mr. Ratcliffe, their Permanent Secretary (Manchester Unity), did it. Fee charged 15 s. each. On one occasion,—a professional valuation,—an actuary in Edinburgh did it; no trace however of name or fee, but believed to have been 3 l. 3 s.; their strength about 300, and particulars given in a classified form according to age, and no tables of contributions prepared or revised. In the branch of Foresters here, of which I am district secretary, auditors are sometimes paid fees of 5 s., 7 s. 6 d., and 10 s. each for a very full examination of all books and accounts with vouchers. Some Courts only give a reasonable refreshment, and all auditors are chosen out of Courts from most competent members. Specimen of Court 4,793, Lamp of Lothian, Haddington: C. S. Dods, Esq., branch agent; Wm. Meerheirs, commercial traveller; George Angers, Inland Revenue clerk; and myself. In Odd Fellows Branch of Manchester Unity here they get about 10 s. each, and the following have at various times been auditors, and form a fair specimen: Wm. Martone, M.D.; George Tait, railway agent; Wm. David, merchant or traveller; Wm. Brown, clerk. In both these cases the auditors are four in number, two being a quorum. W. F. M.	- - - - -	- - - - -

They never employed an actuary. I made one on the 1st January 1871. The present value of the Society's sickness at 8 s. 7 d. weekly aliment is— £. s. d. 16,020 4 3 and the value of 2 l. 10 s. funeral money 647 3 4 £. 16,667 7 7	- - - - -	The particulars required by an actuary are all in my ledger. There have been no fresh tables prepared since 1864. I think the societies in Paisley are too small to pay actuaries or public auditors. As for auditors, there are always plenty quite qualified for that duty. They go over all the items of income and expenditure. The taking the assets and liabilities is generally done by the clerks. I have known 4 l., and at other times, if the balance was favourable, 5 l., but often nothing. I could not give any idea of what should be paid to actuaries or public auditors, but I think, from what is allowed for management, that we have nothing to spare for these officials. The societies of Paisley are all working by the Highland Society's Tables. Now, I see from the reports given in the papers, that these tables are thrown overboard, and that the tables of the Odd Fellows is well spoken of. We would require to know what tables the actuaries are to use in taking the valuations. I look upon an alteration of the tables as a very serious matter for old societies. The tables on (which) the Odd Fellows work are all made out on the principle of money being improved at 3 per cent., and the valuation stops at 70, and then annuities are introduced. I think I am not asking too much when I say that the Commission might give us tables similar to the Odd Fellows, but made out to 96 years of age, both as regards the valuation of sickness and mortality. Also the value of 1 l. annuity. If these were made out at 4 per cent., then we might examine how we stood. There is no use in us taking 3 per cent. tables when the fact is that we always receive 4 per cent. for our money. (Hoping you will excuse the length of these remarks.)	- - - - -	- - - - -

THIRD REPORT.

OF THE

ACTUARIAL COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED
BY THE LORDS COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, FOR PURPOSES CONNECTED WITH THE
"FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875."

TABLES Recommended for Temporary Use.

WE are of opinion that, pending the preparation of new tables under the Act of last Session, tables of rates of contribution, based upon Mr. Ratcliffe's tables of sickness and mortality, deduced from the experience for the years 1866-70 of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, rural town and city districts combined, may be generally adopted, for benefits usually granted by friendly societies.

We have accordingly calculated upon this basis a set of tables which we have the honour to submit to your Lordships, showing the annual contributions, payable in weekly or monthly instalments, required for securing the following benefits, viz. :—

1. Sickness allowance until 65, of 1 l. a week.
2. Sickness allowance until age 70, of 1 l. a week.
3. Deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of 1 l. a week, commencing at age 65.
4. Deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of 1 l. a week, commencing at age 70.
5. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions being payable throughout life.
6. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions ceasing at age 65.
7. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions ceasing at age 70.

To provide for an assurance of 10 l. at the death of the wife of a member, we consider that the same rate of contribution should be charged as for an assurance of a similar amount at the death of the member.

We recommend that a provision be inserted in the rules of any society, adopting the rates of contribution for sickness allowance, to the effect that the allowance to be reduced to half-pay after 12 months' full pay has been allowed, and shall be further reduced to quarter-pay after 12 months' half-pay has been allowed.

This

This condition, although not taken into account in the calculation of the rates of contribution, is rendered advisable in order to make provision for the possibility of some of the members remaining on the sick list for a longer period than is provided for in the tables. A fluctuation of this nature would have an untoward effect upon the finances of the society, when the number of members is not large enough to supply a steady basis for the operation of average.

To these tables we have added a memorandum, indicating certain classes of persons to which the rates of contribution would not be applicable, and stating certain conditions under which alone we consider that the tables may safely be adopted.

In the event of application being made at any time for a table of contributions to provide an allowance in sickness throughout the whole of life, we would suggest that the Registrar should advise the adoption of a table providing for a sickness allowance, ceasing at a certain age (65 or 70), combined with a table providing for a deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of (say) half the amount of the sickness allowance.

We have recommended the Manchester Unity tables of sickness and mortality as a basis for rates of contribution, but we are of opinion that it would not be advisable to recommend any tables for the purpose of valuation. No doubt the Manchester Unity tables would be suitable for a very large number of societies, but the actuary employed should be guided by the circumstances in each case, in selecting the proper tables to be used.

TABLES of CONTRIBUTIONS referred to in the foregoing REPORT.

MEMORANDUM.

1. These Tables are not applicable to coopers' and brewers' labourers, dock labourers, mariners, miners, plumbers and lead workers, potters, sawyers, stonemasons, watermen, nor to persons engaged in any other occupation, which, in the opinion of the committee of management of a society, is considered unhealthy in their locality.

2. The Tables do not contain any provision for expenses of management.

3. It is essential that the total funds of any society adopting these Tables be always invested at compound interest, at a rate not less than 3 per cent., so that if any portion of the fund is at the Bank not earning interest, or earning a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent., the other portion of the funds must be invested so as to yield a sufficient surplus beyond 3 per cent., to make up an average of at least 3 per cent. upon the entire funds.

4. Provision should be made in the rules of any society adopting these Tables, that the total sickness allowance for which a member should be allowed to subscribe, should not exceed three-fourths of his usual earnings; also, that a member must remain off the sick list for a period of not less than six months, before he can again claim full pay.

REPORT of the CHIEF REGISTRAR of FRIENDLY SOCIETIES, for the Year ending 31st December 1875, pursuant to 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60, s. 10 (6).

PART I.

I. INTRODUCTORY.

IN making his first Report of proceedings under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, the Chief Registrar must, in the first place, express his thanks to his colleague, the Assistant Registrar for England, and to all the members of the permanent staff of the central office, for the assistance which they have afforded in the arduous task of bringing the new Act into operation.

Although an increase of two members in the permanent staff of the office was sanctioned, as will be presently mentioned, by the Treasury on the 1st December 1875, yet, owing to various circumstances, and more particularly to the introduction of a new rule for examinations by the Civil Service Commissioners, it was not until the 31st January 1876 that the first addition to the staff was realised in the person of a messenger, nor until the 1st March that the additional copying clerk authorised to be employed entered upon his duties. Hence the work of winding up the practice of the office under the old Act, and entering upon an entirely new practice, had to be faced with the existing staff of the office, which had not been increased since 1869, and but for the most zealous help on the part of all concerned, that work could not have been mastered. As a single detail, it may be sufficient to mention that on the last day of the old Act, 31st December 1875, more than 50 sets of rules, or amendments of rules, of Friendly Societies had to be certified at the central office.

To his colleagues, the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland, the Chief Registrar's best thanks are also due for their very efficient co-operation.

For their proceedings, and the principal matters transacted by them in respect of Friendly Societies, Industrial and Provident Societies, Building Societies, and (except as to Scotland) Trade Unions,* the Chief Registrar begs leave to refer to their Reports, which follow his own.

He takes this opportunity of observing that in December 1875 he personally inspected the Scotch and Irish registries, and had every reason to be satisfied with the mode in which they were conducted. He ventures, however, to think that a public office should be assigned to the Assistant Registrar for Ireland, as it does not appear to him befitting that records of a public nature, like those of Friendly and other Societies, should be kept at the private place of business of a professional man.

II. BUSINESS OF THE CENTRAL OFFICE.

The following is a tabular statement of the rules, and amendments of rules, of different classes of societies registered or certified by the central office during the year 1875 :—

	Rules.	Amendments.
Friendly Societies	823	1,275
Industrial and Provident (Co-operative) Societies	86	65
Building Societies under the 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32	-	111
Building Societies under the 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42	† 336	105
Trade Unions	27	18
Loan Societies	24	12
TOTAL	1,296	1,586

In

* The Report on Trade Unions in Scotland has been presented separately to Parliament, the Registrar for that country considering that this course was required by Section 17 of the Trade Union Act, 1871.

† These figures include the rules of existing societies incorporated under the new Act.

Report.

In addition to the above, the rules of four societies have been certified for exemption from rates under the Scientific and Literary Societies Act, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 36.

The number of Friendly Societies registered, it will be observed, was smaller than during the previous year, which itself was below the average. This may be accounted for by the fact that legislation was pending during both years, a cause which always checks the formation of new societies; and although Industrial and Provident Societies, Trade Unions and Loan Societies, were not included in the Friendly Society Bill of 1875, still the anticipation of fresh legislation in respect to both classes of bodies, arising from their inclusion in the original Bill of 1874, had no doubt the same effect in diminishing the number registered. A very considerable increase is, on the other hand, observable in the number of Building Societies incorporated under the new Act.

dissolved.

The following is a list of dissolutions of Friendly Societies in England and Wales during the year, so far as is known to the Registrar:—

TOTAL - - -	47 Societies

Of the above-mentioned societies, two were dissolved subject to the division of their funds by award of the Registrar, viz. :—

1. Lambeth Mutual Provident Society, held at the Vestry Hall, Lambeth. This society was established in 1867. Its last report, in January 1875, stated that in the past year an unusual number of claims had been made upon the society, and the gross funds of the society showed a decrease of 37 l. 11 s. 6 d. It then decided to voluntarily dissolve and equitably dissolve its funds. The number of members was 30, and after payments of all expenses there remained a sum of 492 l. 17 s. 6 d. to be distributed. There were no sick members, and the amount was therefore awarded by the Registrar according to the class of contributions and length of membership of each member.

2. Pill Friendly Society, Easton-in-Gordano, Somerset. This society was registered in July 1869, and dissolved by voluntary agreement in May 1875. The funds available for distribution amounted to 1,045 l., which sum, after payment of 15 l. in satisfaction of the claim of the only member in receipt of sick pay, was awarded by the Registrar amongst the 95 members in proportion to the length of their membership.

The following is an Abstract of the foregoing List :

As on former occasions, it will be observed that in numerous cases the cause of dissolution has not been the insolvency of the society, but merely a determination on the part of its members to distribute its accumulated funds among themselves.

2. SOCIETIES DISSOLVED by award of the Registrar on the ground of Insolvency - - - - 4, viz. :—

dissolved.

1. General Provident Institution, Dunstable, Bedfordshire.—This society was established in 1835, and alterations of its rules were certified in 1852 and 1870. The application for dissolution stated that in consequence of the contributions being insufficient to meet the payments to sick members the sick fund had become exhausted, and that (contrary to the rules) the secretary had been withdrawing money from the burial fund to meet these claims. On examination, the society was found to be insolvent, and on 4th May 1875, an award was made by the Registrar by which the funds of the society, amounting to 556 l., were divided amongst the members in proportion to the class of contributions and length of membership of each.

2. Evesham Friendly Society, Town Hall, Evesham, Worcester.—This society was established in March 1837, and registered November 1839. Its rules provided for a quinquennial distribution of funds, but in 1873 an alteration was registered to the effect that the funds "shall not henceforth be divided."

On 31st December 1874 an application for an award of dissolution on the ground of insolvency was received by the Registrar. It was therein stated that in the years 1873 and 1874 the number of members had decreased from 114 to 55; that on the death of a member the funds of the society sustained a loss of 2 l. 5 s., in order to make up the 5 l. payable under the rules, and that half this loss was incurred on the death of a member's wife. Also that the payments to sick members resulted in an average loss per month of 1 l. 17 s. 11 d. The award of dissolution was made by the Registrar on 11th May 1875, at which time the society consisted of 51 members, and its funds amounted to 95 l. 13 s. 9 d. It directed that the four members in receipt of sick pay should each receive 6 l. 15 s. 7 d., and the remaining members, with the exception of six who had entered the society since its last division of funds in January 1867, and who were awarded certain small amounts in proportion to their length of membership, 1 l. 11 s. 7 d. each.

3. Mounts Bay Friendly Society, Duke of Cumberland, Penzance, Cornwall.—This society was established in June 1840. At the time of its dissolution it consisted of 113 members with funds amounting to 660 l. It was stated in the application that the loss to the funds caused by the inadequacy of members' contributions to meet the sick payments amounted in the previous year to 89 l. The society was declared to be insolvent, and on 28th September a proportionate sum was awarded to each member.

4. Cambrian Benefit Society, Red Lion Inn, Llanrhystidd.—The rules of this society were certified in December 1832. It applied for dissolution on the ground of insolvency, and stated that from 1865 to 1873 the excess of its annual disbursements and expenditure over its income amounted to 131 l. 12 s. 9 d. The society consisted at the time of dissolution of 136 members, of whom 15 were pensioners. After payment of all expenses the sum of 565 l. remained, out of which a certain sum was proportionately awarded to each member. It was ordered that the sums, if any, due by the respective members to the society should be deducted from the amounts awarded to them. The award was made 15th April, and the appropriation of the funds directed on 15th November following.

In the case of an application from the Souldern Friendly Society, the Registrar refused an order of dissolution, and the society was afterwards dissolved voluntarily.

III. ESTABLISHMENT OF THE REGISTRY OFFICE, AND NEW CONDITIONS OF ADMISSION.

The Friendly Societies Act, 1875, having received the Royal Assent on the 11th August, 1875, on the 13th August Mr. J. M. Ludlow, previously Registrar of Friendly Societies in England, was appointed Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, and Mr. E. W. Brabrook, Assistant Registrar of Friendly Societies for England; Mr. A. Anderson, previously Registrar of Friendly Societies in Scotland, Assistant Registrar for Scotland; and Mr. W. F. Littledale, Assistant Registrar for Ireland.

The numerous new duties* imposed on the Registry Office by the Act of 1875 rendered a reorganisation of its staff, which had indeed long been insufficient for the due performance of its functions under previously existing legislation, a matter of absolute necessity. On the 1st December 1875, the Chief Registrar was apprised that the Commissioners of the Treasury had sanctioned the following establishment for the Registry Office of Friendly Societies, viz. :—

ENGLAND.

- 1 Chief Registrar.
- 1 Assistant Registrar.
- 1 Chief Clerk.
- 2 Clerks.
- 4 Copying Clerks.
- 2 Writers.
- 1 Messenger.

SCOTLAND AND IRELAND.

2 Assistant Registrars, with an allowance for clerical assistance.

It was further stated that their Lordships would be prepared to consider the actuarial branch of the establishment after the report of the actuarial commission then sitting should have been received.

The legal business of the office was to be entrusted, for the present, to the Solicitor to the Treasury.

All fees received by the Registrar and Assistant Registrars for any service in respect of societies, or objects embraced by the Acts which are administered by the department, were to be paid into the Exchequer as from the date of their appointment.†

By a letter of 9th June 1876, the Chief Registrar was further informed that their Lordships agreed to the appointment of an actuary, with an allowance for clerical assistance; to the appointment of an additional clerk; and to the employment, so long as might be necessary, of two more writers, thus raising the total establishment of the central office to 14, with power to employ two additional writers.

No actuary to the office has, however, yet been appointed, but a gentleman of high character is understood to have been selected.

With the new establishment new conditions of admission to the Registry Office have been laid down.

The office of the Registrar of Friendly Societies had not hitherto been included in Schedule A. to the Order of Council of 4th June 1870, and appointments in it were consequently made on the nomination of the Registrar, subject to a test examination according to a scheme fixed in 1855, the maximum age of admission being 25.

On the 7th January 1876, the Chief Registrar was informed that the Commissioners of the Treasury concurred with the Civil Service Commissioners in

* For a full statement of the functions of the Registrars under the new Act, see Appendix A.

† The fees previously received by the Registrar for England, and surrendered by him on the passing of the Act, were those received from Building Societies under the Act of 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32, Loan Societies, and Savings Banks; those received from Trade Unions and from Building Societies established under the Act of 1874 having been paid by him into the Exchequer from the passing of the respective Acts under which they were received. The fees received by the Registrars for Scotland and Ireland, and surrendered by them in like manner, were those from Building Societies under both Acts and from Trade Unions. The Loan Societies Act, it may be observed, only applies to England, and all Savings Banks are certified in England, so that no fees from either class of bodies were received by those gentlemen. The total fees received by the Registry Office and paid into the Exchequer amount now to nearly 600 £ a year, of which over 200 £ are fees surrendered since the Act of 1875.

Report.

in thinking that an entirely new scheme of examination was desirable for the Registry Office, the existing one not being suitable for the enlarged staff and more important situations recently created. On the 7th February he was further informed that the system of competition must be applied to future vacancies.*

The "Regulations for the Civil Service" contained in the Order in Council of 12th February 1876, were subsequently forwarded to him, and it is by these, consequently, it is presumed, that the filling up of future vacancies in the staff will be governed, as the lately authorised increase of it is already. The age of admission for men clerks will therefore, according to the above regulations, be from 17 to 25, provided the candidates have passed their examination before they had reached 20 years of age; with the special exceptions provided in the case of writers by the 12th Regulation.

IV. NEW FUNCTIONS OF THE TREASURY IN RESPECT TO FRIENDLY SOCIETIES; THE REGULATIONS.

It may be useful to point out that a very important change is effected by the Act of 1875 in the position of the Registrars. Whilst the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland are made subordinate to the Chief Registrar, the Chief Registrar is, in the fulfilment of many of his functions, made directly subordinate to the Lords of the Treasury, by whom he is henceforth appointed, in a manner which did not obtain under former Acts.

Under the 18 & 19 Vict. the power of the Treasury was one of mere control as to expenditure. The maximum salaries of the Registrars were fixed by the Act (Sect. 5). The Commissioners of the Treasury (Sect. 8) were out of the votes to pay to the Registrars such sum as would "defray the expenses allowed by the said Commissioners from time to time for office rent, salaries of clerk, stationery, computation of tables, and for such other expenses" as might be "incurred by them respectively."

By the Act of 1875 (besides a more comprehensive enumeration of the items of expenditure which the Treasury may allow—Section 37),†

(1.) The approval of the Treasury is required before the central office can prepare and cause to be circulated model forms of accounts, balance sheets, and valuations; collect, publish, and circulate information on the subject of the statistics of life and sickness, and the application thereof to the business of Friendly Societies; publish generally or locally particulars of returns and valuations, and other information useful to members of or persons interested in Friendly Societies; cause to be constructed and published tables for the payment of sums of money on death in sickness or old age, or other contingency forming the subject of an assurance authorised under the Act which appears to be calculable—Section 10 (5).

(2.) The approval of the Treasury is required for any actuary certifying tables for annuities, before his certificate can be received—Section 11 (5).

(3.) The approval of the Treasury is required before the Chief Registrar, or the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, can cancel the registry of a society, otherwise than at its request—Section 12 (6); or can renew a suspension of registry after the first three months—Section 12 (2).

(4.) The approval of the Treasury is required before the Chief Registrar can dispense with the quinquennial return, and with the valuation, in respect of societies to whose purpose or to the nature of whose operations he deems the same inapplicable; or can dispense with the quinquennial return on condition of a direct inspection of the books of a society—Section 14 (6).

(5.) The consent of the Treasury is required before a Registrar can determine a dispute—Section 22 (a).

(6.) The

* On the other hand, the situation of charwoman in the Registrar of Friendly Societies' Office has been placed in Schedule B. to the Order of Council of 4th June 1870, and thereby exempted from the necessity of a preliminary examination of candidates before the Civil Service Commissioners. See "London Gazette" of 12 October 1875. (N.B.—There is at present no charwoman in the office, but only a "care-taker" appointed by the Office of Works.) The clerks to the Actuary will also be placed in Schedule B.

† The previous consent of the Treasury is now required for the issue of printed matter intended to facilitate the working of the Act, in many cases in which it formerly was not.

(6.) The consent of the Treasury is required before a Registrar can appoint inspectors—Section 23 (1); or call a special meeting—Section 23 (2).

(7.) The consent of the Treasury is required before the Chief Registrar can dispense with any of the consents or conditions prescribed for amalgamation or transfer of engagements—Section 24 (8 c).

In addition to the above acts of control, the Treasury has certain original powers, viz.:—

(1.) Of authorising new purposes to which the powers and facilities of the Act ought to be extended—Section 8 (5); and of limiting the application of the provisions of the Act to specially authorised societies—Section 9.

(2.) Of appointing public auditors and valuers, and determining the rates of remuneration to be paid to them—Section 35.

(3.) Of determining a scale of fees for matters transacted, or for the inspection of documents under the Act—Section 36.

(4.) Of making regulations respecting registry and procedure, the seal and forms to be used for registry, the duties and functions of the Registrar, and the inspection of documents, and generally for carrying the Act into effect—Section 38; which regulations may extend to the exercise by the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland of their functions, as respects trade unions, industrial and provident societies, building societies, and societies for purposes of science, literature, or the fine arts—Section 10 (8 a).

Of the above functions the most important is unquestionably that of making and approving regulations, without which indeed the Act could not properly have been carried into effect. A set of regulations of a general character, 64 in number, with 48 forms appended, were approved by the Treasury on the 8th December 1875.* Four more regulations, dealing with the subject of limited special authorities, with two forms, were approved on the 16th day of May 1876;† and a few alterations and additions will no doubt follow the passing of the Friendly Societies Amendment Act, 1876. The whole of the regulations as now in force will be found in Appendix B.

The above-mentioned regulations are framed on the model already adopted in the cases of Building Societies and Trade Unions. Under the general regulations, a Friendly Society wishing to register has to make an application for the purpose in a set form, which enumerates all the necessary conditions of registry, so that the attention of officers is at once directed to the requirements of the Act. Similar applications have to be made in the cases of partial or of complete amendments, and have to be supported by statutory declaration. Provision is made for the mode of recording rules already registered; of cancelling and suspending registry; of giving notice of changes in the registered office and appointments of trustees; of transferring stock under the special powers of the Registrar; for the rules of Juvenile Societies and branches; for the mode in which disputes are to be settled, inspectors appointed, or special meetings called by the Registrar; for special resolutions by societies, and for dissolution. Societies with branches are specially dealt with, and the application of the Act to Industrial Assurance Companies and unregistered Friendly Societies is provided for. A list of fees is fixed, and the mode in which fees are to be paid into the Exchequer by the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland is determined. Provision is made for the seal of the central office. Lastly, the Chief Registrar is empowered to modify the annexed forms to suit particular cases.

The regulations as to limited special authorities provide for the stating in the rules of specially authorised societies the limitations under which the Act is applied to them; for the modification of forms previously issued by authority of the Chief Registrar, to suit a limited application of the Act; for the forms of acknowledgment of registry, and of a complete amendment of rules under a limited special authority; and for authorising registry for any of the purposes specified in the Act conjointly with a specially authorised purpose.

The regulations and forms thus issued will no doubt not be all which will be required, required, but they have hitherto been sufficient for carrying out the Act, so far as the Registry Office is concerned; and although sometimes drolly misunderstood (as when a society in England, and another in Ireland, having to give notice of an appointment of trustees, the form for which requires the "description" of the trustees appointed to be inserted, sent in their physical description, in point of height, size, colour of hair, &c.), are on the whole satisfactorily complied with by the societies.

Report.

In addition to the forms appended to the regulations, the Chief Registrar has by request of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows and Ancient Order of Foresters, settled forms of application for the registry of branches of those orders, to be sent in with the notices of the establishment of such branches which are to be signed by the secretaries of the parent societies.

V. PUBLIC AUDITORS AND VALUERS, AND ACTUARIES AUTHORISED TO CERTIFY ANNUITY TABLES.

Another very important function vested in the Treasury under the Act of 1875 is that of appointing certain officers, who are directly responsible to it, viz., public auditors and valuers.

A certain number of gentlemen have been appointed to the former office, under conditions, a complete copy of which, with the names of the gentlemen appointed up to this date, will be found in Appendix C. A public auditor is bound to accept for audit the accounts of any society or branch within his district (with which must be sent the annual return), at the specified scale of fees; and may also, on special terms, accept audits from societies out of his district. All the necessary materials must be forwarded to the auditor by the society. In the event of his discovering errors in the annual return, or the books, accounts, or vouchers submitted to him, they are to be returned, at the cost of the society, for correction, unless the auditor be requested to correct them, in which case he is entitled to an additional fee. The appointments of auditors are from year to year. They are to send in to the Treasury half yearly a list containing the names of the societies audited by them during the previous half year, and the fees received from each society. It is understood that the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows and the Ancient Order of Foresters were invited by the Treasury to recommend candidates for appointment, but that only the former accepted this invitation. Several of its members consequently appear upon the list. One or two also of the auditors are, it is understood, connected with the Ancient Order of Foresters, though not recommended by it. Moreover, the auditors of the Local Government Board are authorised to exercise, subject to the sanction of that Board previously obtained, the functions of public auditors in their respective districts, but are not bound to accept any accounts for audit.

No public valuers have yet been appointed by the Treasury (see post).

Section 11 (5) of the Act of 1875, whilst retaining the principle of Section 26 of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, that societies assuring annuities to their members should have the tables of contributions for such benefit certified by an actuary, substituted for the previous requirement that the "person so certifying" should be "an actuary of some life assurance company established in London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, who shall have exercised the profession of actuary for at least five years," the simpler one, that having exercised his profession for the like period, he should be "approved by the Treasury." The following gentleman has been approved by the Treasury under this provision:—Mr. F. G. P. Neison, Great James-street, Bedford-row.

VI. SPECIAL AUTHORITIES.

By Section 8 (5) of the Act of 1875, the power, hitherto vested in the Secretary of State or the Lord Advocate, of authorising purposes to which the powers and facilities of the Friendly Societies Act ought to be extended, is vested in the Treasury, with the important addition (Section 9) that the Treasury may limit the application of the Act, as respects specially authorised societies, to any specified provisions.

The

The following purpose has been specially authorised :—

1. [16 May 1876.] “ To create funds by monthly or other subscriptions, to be lent out to, or invested for, the members of a society or for their benefit, pursuant to the Statute 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60.”

The application of the Act to societies registered for the foregoing purpose is limited to the following provisions, viz. :—

Sections 1 to 4, both inclusive; 8 (Sub-section 5) to 13, both inclusive; Sub-heads a, b, c, d, g, h, i (except so much as relates to the quinquennial valuation) of Sub-section 1, and Sub-sections 3 to 6, both inclusive of Section 14; Sub-sections 1, 3 to 6, both inclusive, and 10 of Section 15; Sub-sections 1 to 5, both inclusive, and 7 to 10, both inclusive, of Section 16; Sub-section 2 of Section 18; Sections 19 to 25, both inclusive, except so much of Sections 24 and 25 as relates to Friendly Societies; Sections 29 to 41, both inclusive; heads 1 to 9, both inclusive of Schedule II., and Schedules III. and IV.

Societies registered under this authority may take the benefit of Section 31 of the Act by embodying the same in their rules.

In addition to the above, several authorities have been granted, which differ from those granted by the Secretary of State under Section 9 of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63 (similarly worded, in this respect, to Section 8 (5) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875), in being granted to particular societies. No society has, however, yet been registered under the latter class of authorities.

It has already been stated that certain regulations (65–8), with Forms A W. and A X, have been issued respecting limited special authorities, for which reference is again made to Appendix C.

VII. INAUGURATION OF THE NEW SYSTEM: THE NEW REGISTER; THE NEW MODEL RULES, &c.

A very considerable amount of labour has been imposed upon the Registry Office in bringing the Act of 1875 into operation. A new register has had to be made, in 74 volumes folio, for England and Wales, confined to existing societies.* In addition to this, the provisions of the Act against identity or similarity of name necessitate the keeping, in all three countries, of an alphabetical list of societies. This has had to be made out in triplicate for existing societies, and is kept up by a weekly interchange between the three countries of lists of applications for registry, and a monthly one of lists of societies registered.

Again, new model rules for enabling Friendly Societies to meet the requirements of the Act have had to be prepared and issued, as also a set of such rules for branches (see Appendix D.). Special sets of model branch rules have also been settled at the request of some of the Orders (Manchester Unity, Foresters, Rechabites), as also for working men's clubs, at the request of the Working Men's Club and Institute Union.

In order to facilitate the working of the Act, a “Memorandum for the Guidance of Societies under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 60),” has been prepared by the central office, a copy of which will be found in Appendix E.

A pamphlet containing the above memorandum, followed by the principal provisions of the Acts, with references, has also been prepared, and is intended to be sold at a low price.

VIII. THE ACTUARIAL COMMISSION, AND THE FORMS OF RETURNS.

One of the most responsible duties laid upon the Chief Registrar (see Section 14 (6) of the Act) is to prescribe the form and particulars of all returns, abstracts of valuation, and other documents required for the purposes of the Act. A duty parallel with this is that laid upon the central office by Section 10 (5), with the approval of the Treasury, of preparing and causing to be circulated for the use of societies model forms of accounts, balance sheets, and valuations, as well as causing to be constructed and published tables for the payment of sums of money on death, in sickness, old age, &c.

With a view to the better performance of these functions, by a Treasury Minute of 17th August 1875, Messrs. W. P. Patten, R. P. Hardy, and A. J. Finlaison were appointed (with Mr. A. B. Adlard for secretary) "to consider and prepare the following forms:—

"1. A form of annual return of receipts and expenditure, funds and effects, showing separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of each society to the 31st of December in every year, pursuant to Section 14, Sub-section d, of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875.

"2. A form of quinquennial return of sickness and mortality, to be required from each society for the five years ending 31st December 1875. (Section 14, Sub-section l.)

"3. The form in which the abstract of a quinquennial valuation is to be made where the society appoints its own valuer, and of the return to accompany such abstract. (Section 14, Sub-section b.)

"4. A form of return to be furnished to the Registrar for the purpose of a quinquennial valuation. (Ibid.)

"5. To consider whether any, and what, tables of sickness and mortality now extant may be recommended for temporary use by the Registrar, and with what modifications (if any) pending the preparation of tables under the new Act. (Section 10, Sub-section 5 c.)

"6. To consider and prepare model forms of accounts, so far as such forms are affected by the forms for annual and quinquennial returns."

By a letter from the Treasury of 23rd October 1875, the Commissioners were further directed "to consider and report to their Lordships what fee should be fixed for the auditor's work and for valuations under the Friendly Societies Act of the last Session of Parliament," and it was suggested to them that they should consult the representatives of Friendly Societies in the matter.

In pursuance of the above Minute and direction, three Reports were presented by the Commissioners, which were laid before Parliament and ordered to be printed.

A Minute prefixed to the Reports states that the attention of the Chancellor of the Exchequer had been directed by the Chief Registrar to the importance of making public the recommendations of the Actuarial Commissioners, but that the Chancellor desired to call particular attention to the fact that such recommendations had not received the sanction of the Lords of the Treasury, who were of opinion that it would be premature to come to any decision upon so important a subject as the model forms to be proposed for general use amongst Friendly Societies until some experience had been obtained of the operation of the new Act; so that the Reports were "presented only for the sake of the information which they contain."

The first Report deals with the preparation of forms, and contains in an Appendix, 1st. A form of annual return; 2nd. A form of quinquennial return of sickness and mortality; 3rd. A set of forms for a quinquennial valuation; 4th. A set of forms of account.

The second Report contains recommendations as to the appointment of public auditors, and as to the fees to be paid to both public auditors and public valuers; and to it are appended, amongst other things, letters from the Institute of Accountants and other bodies, and from various individuals, and tabulated replies from societies to the questions addressed to them by the Commissioners as to valuations and audits. The conditions already referred to on which public auditors have been appointed are mainly based on the recommendations of the Commissioners, and the scale of fees for audits is that contained in their Report.

The third Report, which is printed as Appendix F. to the present Report, recommends for temporary use tables based on those of the Manchester Unity.

It was with great regret that the Chief Registrar, in preparing the returns for which, under Section 16 (1*f*) of the Act, he is responsible, found himself unable to adopt, without modification, the forms recommended for the purpose by the Commissioners, or to submit, on behalf of the central office, to the Treasury for their approval as model forms under Section 10 (5), the Commissioners' forms of account, balance sheets, and valuations.

The forms of the Commissioners had, no doubt, been prepared with great care, and possess great merit. In various particulars, however, they did not appear to the central office to be conformable with, or adequately to carry out, the provisions of the Act. On other points they were at variance with the experience of the office. Moreover, the forms of return seemed rather as if they had been prepared to suit those of account, than the latter to suit those of return, and these to suit the Act.

The most noteworthy departure from the recommendations of the Commissioners to which the Chief Registrar felt himself compelled was as to the quinquennial return and valuation. The Commissioners had based these on a classification of the members according to the years of birth. It appeared to the central office that whilst this principle might be adopted in the case of large societies, that of a simple enumeration of individual members was the only safe and practicable plan for the bulk of the societies.

The same considerations appeared to the central office to apply to the forms of valuation, so far at least as regards those undertaken by the Registry Office. The chances of error, or even of fraud, if it be left to the officers of societies to perform the preliminary calculations necessary for grouping the data under the years of birth, are so great that in all instances a return on the principle of individual entries will be required. These reasons, indeed, do not apply with equal force to valuations undertaken by the societies themselves. Here the valuer's character is at stake, and it may be hoped that he will have checked the calculations.

In preparing the forms of annual and quinquennial return, and the various documents for valuation purposes, for the issue of which he is responsible under Section 14 (5), the Chief Registrar adopted, as far as appeared to him practicable, the recommendations of the Commissioners:—

(1.) In the annual return, by leaving it optional to societies having a sick and funeral fund, an endowment fund, an annuity fund, and a medical aid fund, or any of them, to make such return on the principle of separate balance sheets for each fund.

(2.) In the quinquennial return, by making it optional for all societies having over 1,000 members to make their return on the principle of grouping their members according to years of birth.

(3.) In the forms for valuation by societies, through the adoption of the same principle.

Experience has shown that the Chief Registrar judged correctly in not rendering the use of forms based strictly on the Commissioners' recommendations compulsory.

In the case of the annual return, the form based upon those recommendations has been adopted by a very small number of societies.

In the case of the quinquennial return, several societies, having over 1,000 members (including the "North Staffordshire Provident," the Cannon-street Male Adult Provident of Birmingham, the "Rational," a society of some 50,000 members, &c.), have preferred to avail themselves of the form prepared by Mr. Brabrook, which is based on individual entries, on the ground that their books not being framed on the principle of classifying their members according to the years of birth, the labour of making such a classification would be too considerable and costly for them to undertake.*

IX. WORKING OF THE ACT.

In bringing into operation any measure which modifies extensively previous legislation, misconceptions and misconstructions of all sorts have always to be expected.

* This objection affords a sample of the small practical difficulties which have to be taken account of in dealing with large numbers of persons, such as those interested in Friendly Societies. In most, even of the best societies, the practice is to register the age at entry. To ask in such cases the year of birth is to require in each instance a subtraction from the year in which the member was registered at the age of entry, amounting in the case of large burial societies to hundreds of thousands of such calculations.

Report.

expected. Amongst those which have attended the working of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, it may be useful to mention a few.

In some quarters great discontent has been expressed with the regulations as giving more power to the Registrar, whereas the effect of them is obviously to limit at every step the Registrar's authority.

Notwithstanding the express provision of Section 6, that "every society now subsisting whose rules have been registered, enrolled, or certified under any Act relating to Friendly Societies or Cattle Insurance Societies, shall be deemed to be a society registered under this Act," the impression has been largely prevalent that existing societies were required to re-register in order to bring themselves within the Act. A converse mistake, but of much rarer occurrence, has been that societies could take themselves off the register if the provisions of the new Act did not suit them. One society went so far as to say that it never would have registered itself if it had thought that it could not get its registry cancelled; the fact being that the power of cancelling registry in certain circumstances (which it is the duty of the Registrar not to exercise for the mere sake of releasing a society from its statutory obligations) is one created for the first time by the new Act.

Again, notwithstanding that the definition of the term "branch" in Section 4, and the provisions of Section 29, obviously distinguish a "branch" from a "society," it was in many instances believed that Section 6, the very object of which is to preserve to all societies already on the register all their existing privileges, had the effect of turning into legal branches the lodges and courts of orders hitherto registered as societies.

Notwithstanding the express provision of Section 35 of the Act, that the employment of public auditors is not compulsory on any society, it appears in many cases to have been supposed that the accounts, or at least the returns of societies, must be audited by them. On the other hand, nothing has been more difficult than to convince a vast number of societies that under Section 14 (5), their annual returns must be in the prescribed form, and that it will no longer suffice to send up to the Registry Office anything which the society chooses to call its last annual report.

The directions on the annual returns which come in continue to show a frequent confusion between the Registrars of Friendly Societies and the Registrars General. On the other hand, the Registrars of Births and Deaths are frequently supposed to be under the control of the Registrars of Friendly Societies, as indeed also the public auditors.

On the whole, however, the Act appears to have been not unwillingly received, nor unintelligently carried out, by the bulk of the societies.

The Chief Registrar is of opinion that the new machinery for payments on the death of children, created by Section 28 of the Act, has been very beneficial. Very great good, he also considers, has been done by the provisions for a more stringent audit, by the requirement of uniform forms of returns, and by the appointment of public auditors. There is clear evidence from various quarters and in various ways that societies are paying much greater attention to their accounts, and in many cases calling in the help of public accountants, when not of public auditors. The public auditors themselves, through the steps which they have taken to make their appointments known to the societies, by advertisements or by printed circulars, are bringing home to the societies their obligations in the way of audits and returns, as they never have been brought home to them before. And although these officers are in nowise responsible to the Registry Office, the correspondence between it and them is beginning to be extensive. If in one or two instances perhaps these gentlemen may have been inclined to stretch unduly their authority, or to expect too much from that of the Registrars, on the whole the Chief Registrar is disposed to rate very highly the value of the new element which they introduce into Friendly Society administration, and would be glad to see it extended throughout the country.

But the Chief Registrar cannot help saying that the views of those who deemed the provisions of the Act too indulgent towards societies have not so far been justified by experience. Whilst the correspondence of the office has greatly increased, there has been unquestionably a great falling off in the number of applications by new societies, and in the number of rules which, after having been returned with corrections by the office, have been sent up finally finally for registry. No doubt the general depression of trade and industry has had much to say to the decrease in the number of new societies formed, which is not confined to Friendly Societies. But nothing has been more common than for Friendly Societies to send in applications for registry with the heads relating to quinquennial returns, valuations, and the right of members to demand an investigation of affairs struck out. The same has taken place with applications for complete amendments of rules, and in both cases it has frequently happened that when the omissions were supplied the rules failed eventually to reach the point of registry. The number of applications for registry is however now decidedly increasing as compared with the earlier months of the year.

X. THE AFFILIATED ORDERS: THE FRIENDLY SOCIETIES AMENDMENT ACT, 1876.

The falling off in the number of new societies registered under the Act has no doubt in great measure been caused by the difficulties which unfortunately arose in the application of the Act to that class of bodies to which it was intended to be more especially beneficial, viz., the affiliated orders; such difficulties however being owing, the Chief Registrar ventures to think, far less to the Act itself than to the necessities of a transition from an older system to a newer one.

To understand these difficulties, it must be borne in mind that whilst the affiliated orders claim to be single federated societies, and often bear the title of "unities" (Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, &c., &c.), the now repealed Act of 1855, as carried out by the Registrars of Friendly Societies, never recognised this constitution. Sect. 49 of that Act, bearing that the word society should "extend to and include every branch of a society, by whatever name it may be designated," taken in conjunction with other sections of the Act, was held by them to mean that a lodge or court separately registered had absolute power so to alter its rules and to change its name as to cast off all dependence on the order. And although words were allowed to be inserted in the rules of lodges or courts, to the effect that the objects and rules of the lodge, &c., should be carried into effect "in conformity with and subject to the general rules" of the order and the rules of the particular district to which such lodge, &c., belonged—sometimes in terms more express still as to the binding effect of the order and district rules—such provisions were virtually ignored at the Registrar's Office, no reference ever being made in respect of any amendment of rules or other proceeding of a lodge or court to the general or district rules, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such proceeding was in conformity with them.

It is obvious that such a position,—created, it must be observed, at the instance of the orders themselves,—was an essentially false one for them. Their so-called branches were allowed to be in apparent subordination to the order, whilst they were really independent of it. They seemed fast; they were loose. The moral tie between them had no legal validity.

In the course of their investigations, the Friendly Societies Commissioners found this question frequently coming up before them. The permanent Secretary of the Foresters expressed a wish that the hands of the central authorities should be strengthened (Q. 524). Members of the Manchester Unity complained of the 49th section of the Act, and desired that the whole society might be treated as one (Qs. 558, 23,767, 23,773; and see Sir G. Young's Report, Appendix, pp. 41. 52). The Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen's Friendly Society gave elaborate evidence as to the difficulty of keeping up the unity of their society, whilst the branches were separately registered, and could make their own rules, varying from those of the society at large (Qs. 2,555, &c. and Coll.). The Druids (as reported by Mr. Lyulph Stanley, Assistant Commissioner, Report, p. 14) were incensed that the Registrar should not allow districts to make rules for the regulation of their lodges. A trustee of the Albion Nottingham Unity of Odd Fellows (as reported by Sir George Young, Assistant Commissioner, Report, p. 72) maintained that a branch was a branch, and a society a society, and that if branches might do as they pleased, registration was of no use.

To meet these complaints, a clause as to "societies with branches" (70), together with the definition of "branch," in Section 4, were introduced into the original Bill of 1874. The effect of Clause 70 was, however, prospective in respect of branches, as is that of Section 29 of the existing Act, which corresponds to it. The deputations from the affiliated orders having, however, expressed their desire that means should be provided of bringing in their existing lodges, &c. as legal branches under the Act, the machinery of cancelling and suspending registry was introduced into the amended Bill of 1874, which enabled the Registrar, amongst other things, to cancel the registry of a society at its request. The result of this would be that any lodge or court of an affiliated order registered as a separate society might by request obtain the cancelment of its registry, and would then be free to re-register as a branch. By analogy with dissolution every cancelling of registry was by the Bill to be advertised in the "Gazette." When, moreover, the Bill was re-introduced in 1875, an amendment by a private Member was accepted, adding as a further condition an advertisement in a local paper.

Foreseeing the expense to which the process of transforming their existing so-called branches into legal ones would subject the affiliated bodies, the Chief Registrar in October 1875 called the attention of the Treasury to the expediency of sanctioning a reduced scale of charges for the advertisements of societies under the Friendly Societies Act in the London and other Gazettes, urging that unless the then scale of payments were considerably reduced, such advertisements were likely to prove a heavy tax upon societies, and to hinder them from availing themselves of the benefits of the law. Eventually the cost of such advertisements was reduced to a fixed charge of 5s. Over the advertisements in the local papers, however, no control could be exercised.

Seeing how greatly the new system would strengthen the affiliated societies, the executive bodies of the two great orders called upon all their existing (so-called) branches to become branches within the meaning of the Act by cancelling and re-registry. Difficulties, however, both technical and moral, as well as pecuniary, were often involved in the change of status.

It appeared to the central office that the same body could not consistently with the Act be a "branch" of two separate registered societies, although there was nothing to prevent its being a subordinate branch (a twig as it were) of another branch of a society. Consequently in those societies which are organised in districts, and these again in lodges or courts, it became necessary that the registry of the district should first be cancelled, and this re-registered as a branch, before any subordinate branches could be registered as belonging both to it and to the order. It followed again that, since the position of a branch as a mere portion of a society subordinate to its general body was now recognised, expressions formerly admitted as virtual surplusage in rules, implying that a registered society was a branch of or subordinate to another society, could no longer be allowed to pass.

Moreover, it appeared that in a large number of the existing courts and lodges the feeling in favour of a real unity was far weaker than had been supposed, perhaps by all parties; that what may be termed the "fast and loose" position, in which the former were placed by the previously existing law, was really the one which many preferred; that they shrank from, in some cases even vehemently opposed, the conversion into a legal tie of the merely moral one which bound their orders together.

In short, the change of position which their executive bodies sought to enforce upon them was very imperfectly understood by a vast number of the members, disliked by others, openly opposed by some. The cost of advertisements afforded one obvious objection to the conversion; that of new rules was another. By lumping together the expense of printing, of attendances at committees, &c., &c., huge totals were rolled up, which were said to represent for the orders the cost of coming under the new Act, and in many instances the responsibility for this expenditure was thrown upon the Chief Registrar, notwithstanding all the pains taken by him, on all fitting occasions, to impress upon the societies that as far as the Registry Office was concerned no compulsion was put upon any existing registered society to become a branch; that it might remain a separate society as long as it chose to do so.

It was clear then that the machinery provided for enabling the transition of the so-called branches already existing as registered societies to the condition of branches under the Act of 1875 had not proved to fulfil adequately its purpose. To meet the difficulty an amendment Bill was framed, which has since become law (39 & 40 Vict. c. 32), and in its statutory form will be found in Appendix G. Besides formal clauses, this provides that a society registered before 1st January 1876 may, by a resolution passed by three-fourths of the members present and entitled to vote at any general meeting, of which notice specifying the intention to propose such resolution has been given according to the rules, determine to become a branch under the Friendly Societies Acts of any other registered society, and also, if thought fit, of any registered branch thereof; and if the rules of such society do not comply with all the provisions of the principal Act (that of 1875), and of the Treasury Regulations in respect of branches, the meeting at which such resolution is passed may amend such rules so as to bring the same in compliance with the principal Act, and with the Treasury Regulations—Section 3 (1). On due evidence, as by the next subsection is provided, of such resolution and amendment, if any, the Registrar, if he finds that the provisions of the Act and of the Regulations have been complied with, is to cancel the registry of the society, and register it as a branch—Section 3 (2), without the necessity of any advertisement—Section 3 (3); and the rules of a society so becoming a branch, except so far as they are contrary to any express provision of the principal Act or of the Regulations, are, as amended, to continue in force as the rules of the branch—Section 3 (4).*

By the 4th section, nothing in the Acts contained is to prevent any registered society or branch from contributing to the funds, or taking part by delegates or otherwise in the government of any other registered society or registered branch, as may be provided in the rules of the former, without becoming a branch under the Acts.

The clauses following are of minor importance. Section 6 declares in what cases the word "society" in the Act of 1875 includes a branch. Section 7 provides that Section 14 (2) of the Act of 1875 (requiring registered societies to pay money on death only on the production of a registrar's certificate) shall not apply to deaths at sea. Section 8 enacts, that whenever application is made at one time for more certificates than one of the same birth or death for the purposes of and in the manner prescribed by Section 15 (9), or Section 28 (3) of the Act of 1875, the sum charged for every certificate after the first shall not exceed 6*d.*, and allows the Registrar, when required to fill up a form of application, to demand a sum not exceeding 3*d.* for so doing. Section 9 makes it a sufficient compliance with Section 14 (1*b*) of the Act of 1875 (requiring every member or person interested to be supplied with a copy of the annual return) if a society supplies a balance-sheet or other document, duly audited, containing the same particulars as to receipts and expenditure, funds, and effects, as the annual return. Sections 10 and 11 introduce certain amendments on previous practice contained in the Industrial and Provident Societies Bill of this Session (see post), allowing nomination at death to an officer or servant of the society, if a relation of the nominator, and requiring notice to the central office of proceedings and orders to set aside dissolutions.

It will be seen that the Act in question, which leaves the whole framework of the Act of 1875 entirely untouched, works, as respects its main purpose, in two ways:—

1st. By providing a greatly simplified machinery through which existing societies can convert themselves into branches.

2nd. By enabling a connexion to be legally kept up by way of contribution and participation in government between a body which does not choose to register as a branch of another body, and that other body. In other words, a Court of Foresters or Lodge of Odd Fellows may retain a separate registry, and yet contribute to the funds of a district, and send delegates to the general meeting of the order, if the latter allows it to do so.

Since the Bill was introduced, certain modifications of Regulation 53, and of certain of the forms, have been submitted by the Chief Registrar to the Treasury for approval, all such modifications, with one exception, having been framed at the suggestion of the affiliated orders.

It is to be hoped that these provisions will be adequate to suit all parties.

Before quitting this part of the subject, the Chief Registrar may observe that the

the difficulties which have attended the attempt to adapt the law to the peculiar constitution of the affiliated orders would all have been obviated if the provision for permissive incorporation contained in the original Bill of 1874 had not been objected to by one of those bodies. Under the corporate form not the slightest difficulty would have existed in recognising the separate personalities of the order, the district, the lodge, or court, and yet in allowing the latter to be members of the former. It is the absence of individuality involved in the form of representation by trustees which has been the great obstacle to the legal recognition of the peculiar organisation of these great bodies.

The Chief Registrar feels, however, confident that when once the friction of transition has ceased, the machinery of the new Acts will be found far better adapted than that supplied by any previous legislation to the sound development of these organisations, which exercise so large an influence on the well-being of our working and lower middle classes.

It is indeed too soon to venture an opinion as to what may be termed the attractive power of the new Acts. But if they really improve the condition of about 26,000* existing bodies, place them on a firmer footing, render them more worthy of support, it may confidently be predicted that in the course of a few years any temporary falling off in the creation of new societies will be amply made up for.

XI. PROCEEDINGS OF THE REGISTRARS GENERAL: INSURANCE OF CHILDREN.

Before quitting the subject of Friendly Societies, the effect of those provisions of the Act of 1875, which relate to insurances on death, has to be specially considered.

Section 14 (2) of the Act of 1875 prohibits the payment of money by any registered society on the death of any member or other person whose death is, or ought to be, entered in any register of deaths, except upon the production of a certificate of such death under the hand of the registrar of deaths, or other person having the care of the register in which such death is, or ought to be, entered.

Section 15 (9) enacts that for the purpose of the Act a certificate of the birth or death of any member of or person insured, or to be insured, with a registered Friendly Society, shall be given under his hand by the Registrar of Births or Deaths, or other person having the care of the register of births or deaths, in which such birth or death is entered, for a sum not exceeding one shilling, in place of all fees or payments in respect of the same, on application being made for the same, in such form and under such regulations as shall be approved of by the Registrar General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, for England, Scotland, and Ireland respectively.

Section 28 (2) enacts that "no society" shall pay any sum on the death of a child under 10 years of age, except to the parent of such child, or to the personal representative of such parent, and upon the production by such parent or his personal representative of a certificate of death issued by the registrar of deaths, or other person having the care of the register of deaths, containing the particulars thereafter mentioned; and by Sub-section (3) of the same section "the sum charged by the registrar of deaths for each such certificate shall not exceed one shilling."

A difference is observable in the scope of these three enactments. The first applies to all registered societies, and would include, therefore, payments on death by a benevolent society, working men's club, or specially authorised society. The second is confined to registered Friendly Societies. The last is general.

In other words, for persons aged 10 years and upwards, the production of a certificate of death is only imperative on a registered society, and the benefit of the shilling certificate of such deaths is confined to registered Friendly Societies. For children under 10 the law applies to all insurances made without an insurable interest, by whatever kind of society, and all are alike entitled to the shilling shilling certificate. The benefit of the shilling certificate of birth is confined to registered Friendly Societies.*

* The making out of the new register has brought out the fact that the number of existing societies had been under-estimated. They are at least 24,000 in England and Wales, to which may be added about 2,000 more for Scotland and Ireland.

Forms of applications and certificates, as well as instructions to registrars and others having the custody of registers of births and deaths as to their duties under the Act, have been prepared and issued by the respective Registrars General. Copies of those issued by the Registrar General for England, which have been substantially adopted by the Registrars General for Scotland and Ireland, will be found in Appendix H.

The Registrar General for England was kind enough to consult the Chief Registrar as to the forms and regulations, and adopted various modifications proposed by him.

On one point, however, the Chief Registrar felt himself compelled to dissent from the course taken by the Registrar General.

Under the repealed enactment of the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, s. 2, the primary legal condition for the payment of money on the death of a child under 10 years of age was the production of a certificate signed by a qualified medical practitioner, stating the probable cause of death of such child; the words "qualified medical practitioner," by the effect of Section 37 of the Medical Act of the same Session, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, meaning a person registered under that Act.

By Section 28 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, the avowed object of which was to provide greater security for the lives of children, the important change is made of substituting the production of a Registrar's certificate of death as a primary legal condition for that of the medical certificate. But the Registrar's certificate itself can only be issued on one of the four following classes of evidence: (1) the previous entry of the cause of death in the register of deaths on the certificate of a coroner; (2) such previous entry, on the certificate of a registered medical practitioner, who attended such deceased child during its last illness; (3) the production of a certificate of the probable cause of death under the hand of a registered medical practitioner; (4) other satisfactory evidence.

Of these four conditions, the third corresponds to the previous law. The first and second afford a still higher kind of evidence. The fourth (introduced, it is understood, at the suggestion of the Registrar General for England, in place of the words "except on production of such medical certificate of the probable cause of death as the registrar of deaths shall deem sufficient," which stood previously in the Bill) may be either useful or the reverse, according to the manner in which it is interpreted and carried out.

The following is the paragraph of the Registrar General's "Instructions" on this point:—

"The Registrar General desires that in every case in which the issue of a certificate of the death of a child depends upon the production of 'satisfactory evidence,' of the probable† cause of such death, the registrar will exercise the utmost caution in determining whether the evidence produced is really 'satisfactory.' A statutory declaration of the probable cause of death by a person who is not a parent of the child, and is not interested in any moneys to be received at its death, may be accepted as satisfactory evidence; but where a statutory declaration is not produced, the Registrar may accept the next best evidence he can obtain, such as the statement of an unregistered medical attendant, or of a person who was in attendance on the deceased child during his last illness, but is not a parent of the child, and is not interested in the money to be received."

Whilst, as already stated, believing the requirement of a certificate by a registrar of death, in place of a mere medical certificate of a child's death, to be in itself exceedingly beneficial, the Chief Registrar cannot but look with apprehension to the very wide construction which the Registrar General has put upon the term "other satisfactory evidence." It appears from the Registrar General's Instructions that a registrar of deaths may accept the evidence of a herbalist or of a nurse as "satisfactory," such evidence being thus placed on the same footing with the certificate of a registered medical practitioner. And since the cheapest mode of procedure is generally the one which will in the long run be preferred, it is to be feared that as soon as the state of things is understood,

* It is made a complaint by some registered Friendly Societies that the obligation to pay money only on a certificate of death, in the case of persons above 10, is not extended to unregistered societies. It is overlooked that such bodies labour under various disadvantages from which registry frees them, e.g., that of not being exempt from the onerous provisions and penalties of the Life Assurance Companies Acts.

† The italics are those of the Instructions.

Report.

understood, registered medical men will less and less be applied to in such cases.*

The requirement of the registrar's certificate has indeed brought out the fact that the insurance of children beyond the legal limits has been practised in the manufacturing districts to an extent which the Chief Registrar feels himself justified in calling enormous. Although for the last 21 years (ever since the passing of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63) it has been penal for the officers of any society† knowingly to pay any sum which should raise the whole amount receivable from one or more than one society for the funeral expenses of a child under five years to a sum exceeding 6 l., or of a child between five and ten years to a sum exceeding 10 l., the Registrars of Friendly Societies have since the coming into operation of the new Act received letters from officers of societies, as well as from individual members and registrars of deaths, which show a perfectly amazing ignorance of the late law on the part of those whose business it was to carry it out.

The following are instances of alleged over-insurance:—

Sub-district of Dukinfield.—Child under 5 l. insured in three societies for 6 l. in each, total 18 l.; i.e., three times the legal amount (registrar of deaths, informant).

Great Harwood.—Many children are in two or three societies, and can receive from 10 l. to 15 l. before five years old (registrar of deaths, informant). A prevalent opinion amongst agents for registered societies is that a child entered in four societies in the old year can draw 5 l. out of each, say 20 l. in all, for a child under five (the same).

Hyde.—Child of eight or nine years old, insured in "Benevolent" Society for 6 l., in "Philanthropic" for 9 l. 5 s., in "Royal Liver" for 5 l., total 20 l. 5 s.; i.e., more than double the legal amount.

Saddleworth.—Child of 13 months old, insured in two societies for 4 l. in each (conviction at petty sessions). There are a great number of children in two or more societies for 4 l. in each (registrar of deaths, informant).

Sheffield.—Child aged four insured for 8 l. (registrar of deaths, informant).

Manchester.—Child under five insured for 8 l. in burial societies (letter from parent); child two years old insured for 7 l. 10 s. in two societies (secretary of one of the societies); children aged four and three insured for 8 l. in two societies 4 l. in each (letter from parent); children insured in three societies for 15 l., or 16 l. in all each (letter from parent).

Over Darwen.—The secretary of a burial society asks on behalf of his committee, if the new Act affects children insured previously to 1st January, as the child may be a member of one, two, or three societies, and at the death of such child the parents expected 12 l. or 14 l.

Bolton.—Two children under five years insured in two companies for 7 l. each and 8 l. each (letter from parent); child insured at birth in three societies and the Prudential for 6 l. 10 s. in all (secretary of society).

Rusholme, Lancashire.—Child under five insured in two societies for 3 l. each, and in a third for 5 l. (letter from secretary of society).

Preston.—Child insured in Prudential and two Friendly Societies for 11 l. 5 s.; died three weeks over five years of age (letter from parent).

Bramley,

* The danger arising from the acceptance of such evidence as above mentioned is the greater that, in his official "memorandum respecting the registration of the causes of death," the Registrar General "requests that no Registrar will retain in his possession any written statement of the cause of death furnished by an unregistered medical practitioner, but that after having made the entry, he will return the paper to the informant."

† I.e., whether registered or unregistered. If any special enactments are required for the protection of the lives of children against the temptations of the burial insurance system, they should extend to all bodies practising that system. Accordingly, on examination of the wording both of the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 10, and of the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, s. 2, which repealed it, it will be found that the wording is throughout wide enough to include unregistered societies: "In any society in which a sum of money may be insured payable on the death of a child under 10 years of age." . . . "No trustee or officer of any society." (18 Vict.) "In any society" . . . "if any trustee or officer of such society." (21 Vict.) It is the same with the Act of 1875, and accordingly it has been held in several cases, both in England and Scotland, that the words "any society" in Section 28 of the Act of 1875, include unregistered societies.

Bramley, near Leeds.—Child under five insured in two Friendly Societies for 5 l. and 4 l. (letter from officer of society).

Leeds.—Child under five insured with three companies for 3 l. in each (letter from registrar of deaths).

One mode in which the operation of the Act has been eluded has been by paying the legal amount on the required Registrar's certificate, and then handing over a further sum to the applicants as a present. A conviction at the suit of the Chief Registrar has been obtained in a case of this description at Blackburn, where the "Refuge Society" had paid 8 l. 10 s., instead of 6 l., on the death of a child under 10 years of age.

In some cases the law was openly defied by unregistered societies. The societies in Forfar held a meeting, and passed a resolution "That the members of the different societies be warned to refuse to take certificates of registration of children's deaths (being 10 years and under) from the registrar, for the purposes of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and instruct the treasurers of the various societies to pay funeral money, as formerly, without such certificates, and resolve, at joint expense, to defend any action for penalties which may be raised against any of the treasurers." It is satisfactory to be able to add that the point was raised, and that Sheriff Robertson gave judgment against the society. The opposition of the bodies in question to the requirement, however, still continues, and the rules of one of them, with which the Registrar has been supplied, exhibit an ingenious contrivance for eluding the Act, in the manner indicated above, by means of a "benevolent or charitable fund," out of which the committee are authorised "to pay, or to order payment of such sums to such members as they may deem expedient, over and above what is provided for in the rules." And in a case tried before Mr. Sheriff Robertson, it was held that the Act does not apply "to a discretionary charity given by a benefit committee." The sum in question in the case (15 s.) was indeed so small as not to involve the mischiefs against which Section 28 of the Act is directed. (Further details of the case in question will be found post, in the Report of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland.)

A society at Hyde, the Chief Registrar is informed, published a report stating that they would pay money on a doctor's certificate, and not on that of the registrar, although they had been represented on an amalgamated committee of Friendly Societies, formed in Hyde, to watch the late Bill, and were therefore perfectly cognisant of the law. Another body at Great Harwood, the Chief Registrar is also informed, sent round a circular to their members, stating that they did not require a certificate from the registrar of deaths, and that they would continue to pay as much as they thought proper to either children or adults.*

In the last case, the ground taken, the Chief Registrar understands, was that the society in question was a Trade Union, to which, by Section 5 of the Trade Union Act, 1871, "the Friendly Societies Acts, 1855 and 1858, and the Acts amending the same," do not apply. To obviate all doubt on the subject, Section 2 of the Trade Union Act Amendment Act, 1876, enacts that, "notwithstanding anything in Section 5 of the principal Act contained, a Trade Union, whether registered or unregistered, which insures or pays money on the death of a child under 10 years of age, shall be deemed to be within the provision of Section 28 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875."

The Chief Registrar feels himself constrained to say that the frequency with which sums, exceeding the legal limit, are now shown to have been paid on the death of children in Lancashire and Yorkshire, appears to him to give a new importance to the question discussed by the Friendly Societies Commissioners in Part I. of their Fourth Report (see paragraph 56 and following), of "the bearing of burial benefits on infant mortality," as it is impossible for him to doubt that the

* The following is an instance which appears to the Chief Registrar to be worthy of imitation, where a society has, in its own interest, endeavoured to throw some additional protection over the lives of assured children. In rules submitted for registry by the Leek Benevolent Burial Society, is the following provision:—"Provided always, that if, upon the report of any person, it appears to a majority of the committee of management, after due inquiry, that any deceased member under the age of 14 years, had not been provided with proper and timely medical aid during sickness, or had not otherwise received proper care and attention, adequate food, clothing, or lodging (see 31 & 32 Vict. c. 122, s. 37), at any time within three months next before his or her death, no money shall be paid by the society on account of the death of such member."

Report.

the sums illegally received by insurers have been largely in excess of the cost of burial.* The obligation of obtaining a certificate of death from the registrars affords, indeed, a means by which accurate statistical data might be obtained on the subject of the comparative mortality of uninsured and insured children, and with this view he suggested to the Registrar General that the registrars of deaths should be called upon to report to him at least once a year, for publication in his Reports, the number of certificates granted by them under the Friendly Societies Acts, distinguishing the different classes of certificates of death, and also those granted for payments by Friendly Societies, and by Industrial Assurance Companies, and giving particulars of all cases in which such certificates

* In support of this view, the Chief Registrar begs leave to subjoin a table of the amount of funeral expenses as authenticated by statutory declaration in cases of intestate depositors in Post Office Savings Banks, which have been referred to him by the Post Office in his capacity of Counsel to the Post Office Savings Banks (a function which he will probably soon cease to exercise, see post), from which it will appear that whilst the law allows 10*l.* to be insured for the funeral expenses of a child between 5 and 10, in only five cases which have come before him have the funeral expenses of a person above that age exceeded that sum; that the mean cost of 28 such funerals in England, excluding parish funerals, has been 6*l.* 5*s.* 11*d.*; that the mean cost of two such funerals in Scotland, excluding a parish funeral, has been 5*l.* 19*s.* 4*d.*; and that of four such funerals in Ireland, 4*l.* 19*s.* 8*d.*, or less than the sum allowed by law for the expenses of a child under five; giving for mean cost throughout the United Kingdom, 6*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.* Whilst on this subject the Chief Registrar may also mention the fact that, although in the references on intestacy above-mentioned certificates of death under the Friendly Societies Acts have frequently passed through his hands, these have been invariably for adults only, although cases of deposits in the names of infants are numerous:—

In one case, indeed, the sum paid appears to have amounted to 21*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*, but the depositress, a hospital nurse, having no next of kin, had expressly destined her deposit for the purpose. It is not, therefore, returned in the above list, but the addition of this sum to the total would leave the mean cost still largely below the statutory maximum for a child under 10.

certificates are granted upon "satisfactory evidence." It appeared to the Chief Registrar that such reports, besides their value as statistical information on a grave subject, would help greatly towards the efficient carrying out of the Friendly Societies Acts, and might afford a useful check on the results of returns of mortality and valuations. On the ground, however, of the inadequate pay of the registrars, the Registrar General refused to require any such reports. Assuming this to be a sufficient reason, the Chief Registrar cannot but think that the object is one of sufficient moment to deserve that the means of attaining it should occupy the consideration of Parliament, since, until it be definitely ascertained whether or not burial insurance does affect infant mortality, all legislation on the subject must be mere working in the dark.*

Besides the subject of the over-insurance of children, the registrars of Friendly Societies have been largely applied to for advice by registrars of deaths, by officers and by members of societies, in respect of the enactments bearing on certificates of death, and the Chief Registrar has been in communication, both personally and in writing, with the Registrar General for England, on subjects connected with those enactments.

It cannot be denied that the obligation to produce a registrar's certificate in all cases of death, though the cost of such certificate be reduced, is very impatiently borne by a large number of registered societies. This impatience has been hitherto aggravated by the circumstance that, notwithstanding the limitation of the cost of certificates, by the Act of 1875, "to a sum not exceeding one shilling, in place of all fees or payments in respect of the same," sums varying in amount (in some cases alleged to reach 2 s. 9 d. and 3 s.) have been charged by different registrars; and the Registrar General for England stated, in a printed memorandum, dated 14th March 1876, that the registrars of births and deaths were entitled to refuse granting the certificate until the application in legal form was presented to them; and that when, as a favour, they were asked, by those who could not themselves write, to fill up the application, he allowed them to receive "a fee of 3 d., or perhaps in some cases 6 d., when a large sum was to be received."

Section 8 of the Act of 1876, which, as before stated, reduces the price of registrars' certificates to 6 d. for every certificate after the first, where more than one are applied for at the same time, and allows the registrars to charge not exceeding 3 d. for filling up the application, when "required" so to do, will, it is to be hoped, by the concessions which it makes to both parties, put a stop to the agitation on this subject.

XII. FRIENDLY SOCIETIES IN THE COLONIES.

By the courtesy of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the Agent General for Victoria, the Chief Registrar has been favoured with a very interesting report by Mr. H. H. Hayter, the Government Statist for that Colony, on the Statistics of Friendly Societies there for the year 1874, a brief abstract of which will be found in Appendix I. The Chief Registrar takes this opportunity of stating that the Central Office will always be glad to receive statistical information of the same description from Colonial officers holding a similar position to their own.

XIII. INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES: THE NEW BILL.

The Friendly Societies Bill, 1874, it will be remembered, as originally introduced, sought to bring into one system all the different classes of societies with which a Registrar of Friendly Societies has to do. Although the operation of the Bill was afterwards limited, as is that of the Act of 1875, to Friendly Societies, and to the bodies most nearly cognate to them, a further portion of the original scheme has been sought to be carried out in relation to Industrial and Provident Societies, by the Industrial and Provident Societies Bill, 1876, which, having passed through all its stages, only now awaits the Royal Assent, and which is for the most part a copy of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (see Appendix K).

It

* It may be observed that since registrars of deaths are already required to send to the Registrar General quarterly returns of the births and deaths registered, all that would be needed would be, to add the particulars suggested to such returns.

Report.

It is a striking illustration of the cumbrousness of piecemeal legislation, that whereas, in the original Friendly Societies Bill of 1874, the provisions specially affecting Industrial and Provident Societies were comprised in two clauses of about two-and-a-half pages altogether the present Industrial and Provident Societies Bill, which, with scarcely an exception, covers the same ground, contains 26 clauses and four schedules, making up 30 pages.

Industrial and Provident Societies are now brought within the general system of Friendly Societies in respect of their registry, the subordination of the assistant registrars to the Chief Registrar, and his own subordination to the Treasury. Among the specific provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, which are now, with some trifling alterations, applied to Industrial and Provident Societies, are those as to the registry of societies doing business in more than one country, Clause 7 (6); the acknowledgment of registry; the right of appeal from the refusal to register a society or an amendment of rules, Clause 7 (8, 9), and Clause 9 (3); the cancelling or suspension of registry, Clause 8; the audit of accounts and annual returns, Clause 10 (1, c, d); the keeping of balance sheets and auditors' reports hung up, Clause 10 (1, g); offences, Clause 10 (3, 4); the recording of documents, Clause 10 (6); the transfer of stock where trustees are absent, &c., Clause 11 (8); the membership of minors, Clause 11 (9); the settlement of disputes according to the rules, implying the legality of arbitration, Clause 14 (1), or by the registrar or by justices, Clause 14 (2-6); the special powers of the registrar to be exercised on application from members, Clause 15; special resolutions, and proceedings which may be taken thereon, Clause 16; dissolution by instrument, Clause 17 (1, 3); the penalty for falsification, Clause 18 (1); summary procedure and appeals, Clause 19; public auditors, Clause 21; fees, Clause 22; regulations, Clause 23; and the application of the Act to the Channel Islands, Clause 26. On the other hand, one or two provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, are omitted, for no very apparent reason, such as the provision for dissolution by award of the Chief Registrar; and the section as to the application of the Act to the Isle of Man. Scotland and Jersey are also excepted from the provisions as to the discharge of mortgages by receipt indorsed, Clause 12 (8).

One or two amendments on the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, may be noticed.

The provision as to the right of nomination after death for sums not exceeding 50*l.* is greatly improved, by re-introducing the old test of relationship to limit the exclusion of officers and servants of a society from benefiting by the nomination of a member, power being given to members of 16 years and upwards to nominate any person, not being an officer or servant of the society, "unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator," Clause 11 (5). This amendment, as before observed, has been embodied in the new Friendly Societies Act of the Session, and a similar clause has also been introduced in the new Trade Union Act.

A useful addition to the clause as to dissolution, which has also been embodied in the Friendly Societies Act of the Session, is one which requires notice to be sent to the central office of any proceeding to set aside a dissolution and of any order to set it aside, Clause 17 (3*f*).

Apart from the provisions which have been adopted from Friendly Societies legislation, one or two important changes are wrought by the new Act in the law of Industrial and Provident Societies.

The business of banking had remained till now excepted from those which might be legally carried on by an Industrial and Provident Society. That exception is now removed, but no society with any withdrawable share capital is allowed to carry on a banking business, Clause 10 (2*a*); and every society which does so must, twice a year, at stated periods, make out and keep conspicuously hung up at every place of business belonging to it a statement in the form in the 3rd schedule to the Act, or as near thereto as circumstances admit, Clause 10 (2*b*). It is an offence to carry on the business of banking with any withdrawable share capital, or not to make out and keep conspicuously hung up the required statement, Clause 10 (3*d*). The taking deposits of not more than 5*s.* in any one payment, nor more than 20*l.* from any one depositor, payable on not less than two clear days' notice, is not to be deemed banking; but no society taking such deposits can pay off any withdrawable capital while any claim due on account of any such deposit is unsatisfied, and commits an offence by so doing, Clause 10 (2*c* and 3*d*).

A serious

A serious change in the status of co-operative bodies is effected by the omission of all provision for exemption from stamp duties; a change of which the propriety can scarcely be contested in respect of large bodies, such as those which are now authorised to enter upon banking operations, but which may bear hardly on small working men's stores in country places.

The provision as to the exemption of societies from income tax is greatly simplified, Clause 11 (4).

The new provision as to the register of members or shares, Clause 11 (11), removes the doubt which existed under the old Act as to whether any register was evidence which did not comply with the prescriptions of the Companies Act.

A useful provision as to the making, varying, or discharging of contracts, Clause 11 (12), is adopted from Section 37 of the Companies Act, 1867.

Investments in the shares or on the security of other Industrial and Provident Societies and of companies are regulated, and investments in the shares or on the security of Building Societies are for the first time allowed and assimilated to the former, Clause 12 (4). All corporate bodies are allowed to hold shares in Industrial and Provident Societies, Clause 12 (5).

The provision as to the liability of members on winding up is also improved, Clause 17 (2); and the date of notice of application for withdrawal is fixed as that of the determination of membership in respect of withdrawable capital, ibid (2 e).

On the other hand the provision as to the discharge of mortgages by receipt endorsed is unaccountably varied from that required by the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1871, which only rendered necessary the authentication of the document by the seal of the society and the secretary's countersign (and which had been followed in the original Friendly Societies Bill of 1874), through the substitution of the signatures of two members of the committee, with the secretary's countersign; Clause 12 (8), but see Clause 11 (12 e).

It may be mentioned as a somewhat singular circumstance that the seldom-resorted-to remedy of a mandamus was applied for to compel the Chief Registrar to register certain amendments of rules of the Civil Service Supply Association, Limited, whilst the above-mentioned Bill was going through its last stages, and when it was certain that it would remove several, if not all, of the objections held by the Central Office to the amendments proposed.

XIV. TRADE UNIONS: THE NEW ACT.

Besides the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, a Bill to amend the Trade Union Act, 1871, has also been introduced in the present Session, and has passed into law (see Appendix L). This is also, to a great extent, an adaptation, though only a partial one, of the provisions of the Friendly Societies Act of 1875. Trade Unions are expressly brought within Section 28 of that Act, as to payments on the death of children (Section 2). Following Section 16 (3) of the Friendly Societies Act, words are introduced which enable the real and personal estate of a branch to be vested in the trustees of the union at large (Section 2). A provision is introduced similar to Section 15 (6) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, for the transfer of stock by direction of the Registrar in case of the absence, bankruptcy, &c., lunacy, death, or removal of a trustee (Section 4). Jurisdiction in case of offences under Section 12 of the Trade Union Act is enabled to be exercised, by analogy with Section 33 (1) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, either by the court for the place where the registered office is situate or where the offence was committed (Section 5). Following Section 11 (6) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, provision is made for the registry and recording of rules of Trade Unions doing business in more than one country (Section 6). Trade Unions are taken out of the Life Assurance Companies Act (Section 7). Provisions are introduced, answering to, if not always strictly following, Sections 12, 15 (8), 15 (3), and 24 (2 and 3) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, for the withdrawal or cancelling of registry, the membership of minors, nomination, change of name and amalgamation (Sections 8-12). The rules of Trade Unions are required in future to provide for dissolution; and notice of every dissolution is required to be sent to the Central Office, or in the case of Trade Unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland (Section 14). A provision (Section 15) as to penalties is enacted, similar to those of Section 14 (3 and 4) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875. Last, not least, the vexatious definition of a Trade Union contained in Section 23 of the Trade Union Act, 1871, which makes illegality under the previous law a sine quâ non of legalisation under the Act is got rid of. If the Act passes, to be registered as a Trade Union a body will from thenceforth only require to be a "combination, whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters, or between workmen and workmen, or between masters and masters, whether such combination would or would not, if the principal Act" (i. e., the Act of 1871) "had not been passed, have been deemed to be an unlawful combination by reason of some one or more of its purposes being in restraint of trade" (Section 16).

Report.

It must be observed that the new Trade Union Act does not, like the Industrial and Provident Societies Bill, embody the administrative machinery of the Friendly Societies Act. The registrars under it remain, as under the Building Societies Act, independent of each other. The power of making regulations remains vested in the Home Secretary instead of being transferred to the Treasury. Thus, out of four closely connected types of bodies, the law as to two is administered by a consolidated registry office, under the supervision of the Treasury; and as to the other two, by three independent registry offices, under the supervision of the Home Department; the same public servants, however, being employed in all four cases. And, as if to make the anomaly greater, each pair of types is divided between incorporated bodies and bodies represented by trustees; Building Societies, which belong to the Home Department pair, having most affinities with Co-operative Societies, which belong to the Treasury pair, and conversely Trade Unions with Friendly Societies.

Trade Unions, like Industrial and Provident Societies, were included in the Friendly Societies Bill of 1874. The sections of the Trades Union Act Amendment Act, 1876, which answer to those of the Friendly Societies Act, amount to 10. A single section of the Bill of 1874 dealt with their special characteristics. Piecemeal legislation (in this case only of partial application) is, as respects Trade Unions, responsible for 9 superfluous sections.

By means of the Industrial and Provident Societies Bill, 1876, and the Trades Union Act Amendment Act, 1876, much of the breadth of the Friendly Societies Bill of 1874 will be restored, but at a total cost of about 35 superfluous sections, and of the anomalies above pointed out.

A set of new regulations under the Trades Union Acts, rendered necessary by the passing of the Act of 1876, has been submitted by the Central Office for approval to the Secretary of State for the Home Department.

XV. BUILDING SOCIETIES.

The regulations for Building Societies made by the Secretary of State, on the 23rd November 1874, have been revoked, and a new set issued (March 1876), with forms appended, which assimilate closely to those of the Treasury under the Friendly Societies Act. A copy of these will be found in Appendix M.

By 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, s. 40, every society under that Act is, once in every year at least, to prepare an account of all its receipts and expenditure since the preceding statement, and a general statement of its funds and effects, liabilities and assets, showing the amount due to the holders of the various classes of shares respectively, to depositors and creditors for loans, and also the balance due outstanding on their mortgage securities (not including prospective interest), and the amount invested in the funds and other securities. A copy of this account is to be sent to the Registrar within 14 days after the meeting at which it is presented.

It will be seen that Building Societies are not required, as Friendly Societies, Trade Unions, Industrial Societies, and Loan Societies are, to make up their accounts and returns to the 31st December in every year. The abstract of those received since the last Report has been returned to the House of Commons in compliance with their order.

Where the account has not appeared to be in compliance with the Act, letters similar to the following have been addressed to the societies, and the Chief Registrar is glad to state that, in nearly all cases, the societies have readily complied with his requirements, and have undertaken that future accounts shall be prepared in the manner indicated:—

Registry of Friendly Societies, Central Office,
28, Abingdon-street, S.W.,
London, 187

Sir,

WITH reference to the statement of account of your society, I have to call your attention to the following:—

1. All premiums, bonuses, or commissions deducted from or paid as a consideration for advances are of the nature of prospective interest, and should not be taken account of as assets.

2. A statement of all the receipts and expenditure of the society during the year should be furnished.

I have to request that you will furnish a corrected statement attested by the auditors, pursuant to 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, s. 40.

I am, &c.

E. W. Brabrook,
Assistant Registrar for England.

XVI. LOAN SOCIETIES; REPRESENTATIONS OF THE LEEDS JUSTICES.

The Friendly Societies Bill of 1874 provided for the repeal of the Loan Societies Act, and would have re-enacted its principal provisions, accompanying them with efficient penalties; Loan Societies, moreover, being brought into the general system of the Friendly Societies.

That an amendment of the law on this subject is urgently needed appears from the following memorial of the Leeds Justices to the Home Secretary, communicated by him to the Chief Registrar in the first instance, and of which a copy was subsequently forwarded to the latter by the clerk to the justices:—

To the Right Honourable R. A. Cross, M.P., Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department.

The Memorial of the Justices of the Peace for the Borough of Leeds, in Meeting assembled on the 24th day of February 1876,

(LOAN SOCIETIES.)

Sheweth,

1. THAT there are in the Borough of Leeds about 22 Loan Societies, established under the Act 3 & 4 Vict. c. 110, for making loans of not exceeding 15*l.* each to the industrial classes, under which Act the sums due from defaulters are made recoverable before justices of the peace, though a concurrent jurisdiction is reserved to the County Courts.

2. That none of these societies in Leeds resort to the County Court, but all of them insist upon having their cases tried before the justices.

3. That it is a common practice by most of the societies in this borough to make illegal and oppressive charges upon persons who have obtained loans; and it is within the knowledge of your memorialists that unscrupulous agents of the societies have been emboldened in such practices, because the Act (by Section 23) limits the penalties for overcharging to matters connected only with the granting of the loan, and further, because the penalties themselves (being the penalties for usury) were singularly inapplicable to such cases from the first, and have been now a long time repealed (17 & 18 Vict. c. 90).

4. That your memorialists, after long experience (and it would appear from the published returns that the experience of the Leeds Bench in these matters is more extensive than that of any other provincial city or town), are certain that, in the majority of cases, the operation of the Loan Societies works great mischief and misery among the poorer classes. Loans are granted in a wholesale and reckless manner by most of the societies, who depend for the ultimate recovery of the sums so advanced upon the power of the magistrate and the policeman. As some evidence of this, it may be stated that while the whole number of distress warrants issued for the recovery of one entire collection of all the poor rates, highway rates, gas rents, and water rents throughout the borough of Leeds amounted to 534, the number of distress warrants issued for Loan Societies in the borough in 1875 was no less than 771, each of these latter warrants generally including two or three persons as principals and sureties.

5. That in the opinion of your memorialists, the procedure before justices is not at all adapted for the recovery of debts due to these societies. The justices have no power to allow payment into court, nor payment by instalments, which in many cases is the most desirable course. Further, the alternative of imprisonment on failure of distress is incidental to the magisterial jurisdiction, and thus the anomaly exists that whilst in all other cases imprisonment for simple indebtedness has been abolished, the criminal gaol remains in these cases alone as the ultimate means of recovering mere debts.

6. That it appears to your memorialists inexpedient and objectionable to make magistrates and policemen the special instruments for collecting these debts, when the County Court is an efficient tribunal, and obviously the only proper one, having officers and machinery well adapted for the purpose. . . . *

Your memorialists, therefore, respectfully urge these considerations upon your notice, with the object of obtaining an amendment of the law:—

(1st.) By wholly abolishing the jurisdiction of justices under the Loan Societies Act, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 110 (leaving the cases to be taken to the County Court), or at least by making it optional with the justices to exercise their jurisdiction or not under that Act.

(2nd.) By providing efficient and summary penalties on societies guilty of taking or demanding any sum not expressly authorised by the Act. . . .

And your memorialists will ever pray, &c.

Signed on behalf of the Justices present at the said meeting, (signed) W. Bruce, Chairman.

The memorial was accompanied by a letter from the clerk to the justices (Mr. John Thornton), dated 10th May 1876, in which that gentleman says:—

The justices desire me to say that these societies are in the constant practice of charging their borrowers sums for letters demanding repayment, and very many such cases have been before the justices. Unfortunately the poor persons thus defrauded are left by the Act without any practical redress whatever. It is true the Act (by Section 23) professes to give a penalty for overcharging; and indeed expressly meets the case of charging for letters, but the penalty is preposterously inapplicable. It seems like mockery to tell these people that their remedy is to sue for the penalties of usury. (The penalties for usury were repealed 20 years ago.) The town of Leeds seems to be the principal seat of Loan Societies. It is said that, according to the printed returns, Leeds furnishes about one-eighth of all the summonses issued under the Act, and about one-fifth of the distress warrants. The justices have energetically protested for many years against the jurisdiction which the Act imposes on them, and have communicated with their Members, and with the late Registrar (Mr. Tidd Pratt). Lately the justices memorialised the Home Secretary to abolish the magisterial jurisdiction, leaving the cases to be taken to the County Court, which has at present concurrent jurisdiction. There seems to be no reason at all why these debts ought to be recoverable elsewhere than in the County Courts, and probably had the County Courts been established as now when the Loan Societies Act was passed, no other jurisdiction would have been thought of.

The justices request me to trouble you with a copy of the memorial above mentioned, and with copies of their letters to the borough Members; accordingly I beg to submit them herewith. I am also requested to state the strong opinion of the justices that, whatever else is done, there should be provided at the earliest moment an efficient summary remedy for punishing the oppressive overcharges now being generally made by the Loan Societies, notwithstanding all remonstrances.

The letters to the borough Members further state as follows:—

At the request of the Leeds Borough Justices, I beg respectfully to address you on the subject of The Loan Societies Act (1840), 3 & 4 Vict. c. 110, passed for the purpose of enabling the societies to make loans to the industrial classes.

The justices have been convinced for many years that this Act is a fruitful source of improvidence and misery to the poorer classes, and that any good it may do is trifling in proportion to the mischief which it works. Holding these views the justices would gladly hail the repeal of the Act.

The Central Office entirely concur with the Leeds justices as to the mischievous effects of the Loan Societies Act.

The special authority granted by the Treasury on the 16th May 1876 (see ante, p. 13) will indeed, they trust, allow scope for the growth of a more respectable class of societies in future. But in the meanwhile, societies under the Loan Societies Act continue to be formed, and the central office is powerless to prevent their multiplication, whatever may be the opinion of the Registrars as

* The omitted portions of the memorial deal with the estreating of recognisances, a subject which does not concern the Registry Office.

as to the results of their proceedings. They sincerely trust that Her Majesty's Government will see fit to take up the question, and to place legislation on the subject of Loan Societies on a really just and beneficial footing.

That the subject is one of no inconsiderable magnitude is shown by the following figures, extracted from the return of Loan Societies for the year 1875:

Number of Societies making returns - - - - -	291
Number of Members - - - - -	22,776
Amount actually advanced and paid by Depositors or Shareholders during the year -	128,512
Sums in Borrowers' hands on 31st December - - - - -	308,178
Amount circulated in the year - - - - -	457,723
Number of Applications for Loans in the year - - - - -	90,388
Number of Borrowers to whom Loans were granted - - - - -	83,768
Amount paid for Forms of Application and Inquiry - - - - -	5,263
Amount paid for Interest by Borrowers or Sureties in the year - - - - -	23,228
Expense of Management in the year - - - - -	13,859
Net Profits, after paying Expenses of Management - - - - -	13,523
Loss during the Year - - - - -	1,617
Number of Summonses issued during the year - - - - -	6,028 for
Number of Distress Warrants issued during the year - - - - -	1,269
Amount recovered - - - - -	11,460
Amount of Costs incurred by Society in recovering Loans - - - - -	1,678
Amount of Costs paid by Borrowers or Sureties - - - - -	1,444

It may be observed that the number of returns from Loan Societies diminishes every year, although new societies are constantly being formed; this can hardly be attributed to any other cause than that no steps have ever been taken to enforce the returns by prosecution.

XVII. SAVINGS BANKS AND POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANKS.

The rules of Savings Banks, since the new Friendly Societies Act as before, have been certified by the Chief Registrar in his capacity of barrister under the Savings Banks Acts, s. 10 (4) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, transferring to the central office only those functions and powers theretofore vested in the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks or Friendly Societies as respects loan societies, building societies, and societies for purposes of science, literature, or the fine arts. The Chief Registrar has also been the counsel to the National Debt Commissioners, and to the Post Office Savings Banks.

Acting in part on the report of the committee appointed to inquire into the system upon which the legal business of the Government is conducted, the Government have lately brought in a "Bill to amend the law respecting the powers and duties vested in the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks," which will be found in Appendix N. The effect of this will be, in part accordance with the original Friendly Societies Bill of 1874, to transfer to the Registrar of Friendly Societies (i. e., the central office in England, and the Assistant Registrars in Scotland and Ireland) the power of certifying rules and alterations or amendments of rules of savings banks, and the arbitration of disputes under the Savings Banks or Post Office Savings Banks Acts; whilst certain other functions of the barrister, viz., those of determining whether persons holding or interested in deposits on more than one account have deposited money fraudulently, and giving authorities for payment in cases of illegitimacy, are to be transferred to such persons as the Treasury may appoint. The Treasury are authorised to direct by warrant the payment of fees (not exceeding 1 l.) upon certificates and authorities, and upon awards, &c., all such fees to be paid into the Exchequer. The draft of every such warrant is to be laid before both Houses for 40 days before it is made (which will prevent any being issued before next year), and the Public Offices Fees Act, 1866, as to collection by stamps, is to apply to fees payable under Section 3 of the Act.

In the meanwhile, the appointment of the Chief Registrar as counsel to the National Debt Office has been determined, leaving him invested for the present with all the statutory duties of the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks, to only one of which, it may be observed, any remuneration is attached.

The Chief Registrar may take this opportunity of observing that the laws relating to Savings Banks and Post Office Savings Banks appear to him greatly to need consolidation and amendment. By a singular anomaly, the newer institution institution (the Post Office Savings Bank) is to a great extent governed by the repealed Savings Banks Acts of the 9 Geo. 4, c. 92, the 3 Will. 4, c. 14, and the 7 & 8 Vict. c. 83, instead of by the one now in force of the 26 & 27 Vict. c. 87. Both institutions, moreover, reproduce in a great degree in their constitution an obsolete pattern of Friendly Society, none of the improvements in legislative machinery which experience has suggested for the latter class of bodies, having been made available. The privilege of nomination for small sums, for instance, now granted to members of Friendly Societies, of Industrial and Provident Societies, and of Trade Unions, is one entirely adapted to Savings Banks, and which if put in operation, would remove probably the great majority of the difficulties which now arise in cases of the intestacy of depositors. As between Savings Banks and Post Office Savings Banks again, the law of forfeiture of double deposits, whether in the same or different banks, justifiable as to the former, so long as a comparatively high rate of interest is allowed, becomes one of extreme hardship as to the latter, from all investments in which the State derives a profit. The Chief Registrar ventures also to think that the Post Office regulations as to savings banks require emendation in several respects.

Report.

In concluding this Report, the Chief Registrar cannot forbear from recording his sense and that of his colleague at the central office, of the advantage which has at the outset of the new system been derived not only by the Registry Office, but by Friendly Societies throughout the country, from the presence at the Exchequer of a Minister so conversant with the subject as the late Chairman of the Friendly Societies Commission, and from the attention which in the midst of graver cares still, he has been able to bestow upon the matter. The task of carrying the new Act into operation must have been an arduous one in any case; but for the above circumstance, the Chief Registrar would almost have felt it a hopeless one.

London, 9 August 1876.

(signed) J. M. Ludlow,
Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies.

XVIII. REPORT by the ASSISTANT REGISTRAR of FRIENDLY SOCIETIES for Scotland to the CHIEF REGISTRAR of FRIENDLY SOCIETIES, for the Year 1875.

IN terms of Section 10, Sub-section 8 (e) of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland has the honour to submit the following Report for last year to the Chief Registrar:—

The Act referred to, which repeals the previously existing Statutes relating to Friendly Societies, did not come into operation till 1st January 1876, excepting as to Sections 10, 37, and 38. These sections, dealing with the registry office, salaries, and regulations, were appointed to take effect from the date of the passing of the Act, 11th August 1875. In virtue of Section 10, which provides for the appointment of a Chief Registrar for the United Kingdom, with Assistant Registrars for England, Scotland, and Ireland, the then Registrar of Friendly Societies for Scotland was appointed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to the newly-constituted office of Assistant Registrar of Friendly Societies for Scotland, by letter dated 13th August 1875. The functions allotted by this section to the Assistant Registrar are similar to those previously discharged by the Registrar, subject to the qualification of his subordination to the Chief Registrar.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

During the year 1875, 63 new societies were registered in Scotland, and 65 societies received certificates of alterations of rules: total, 128 certificates. Seven societies deposited their rules under Section 44 of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63.

Four societies were dissolved by agreement under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 13, and the dissolutions were advertised in the "Edinburgh Gazette" in terms of 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58, s. 3, viz.:—

1. "The Friendly Society of Brethren of the Old Lodge, St. John's, Lanark, No. 21," otherwise called "The Old Lodge, St. John's, Lanark, No. 21, Friendly Society," Lanark. Established 13th April 1841. Dissolution advertised 19th February 1875. Number of members 21. Amount of funds not stated.

2. Friendly Society of Penicuik, Penicuik, Edinburghshire. Established 26th October 1833. Originally instituted in 1797. Dissolution advertised 5th March 1875. Number of members 183. Amount of funds 2,392*l*.

3. Dunkeld Operative Lodge of Freemasons' Friendly Society, Dunkeld, Perthshire. Established 14th June 1842. Originally instituted in 1783. Dissolution advertised 28th May 1875. Number of members 64. Funds about 670*l*.

4. Glasgow United Hairdressers' and Ropemakers' Friendly Society, Glasgow. Established 18th September 1849. Dissolution advertised 19th October 1875. Number of members 53. Funds not stated.

No awards were made by the Registrar under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 58.

Five Societies sent notice of dissolution to the Registrar by letter, viz.:—

1. George Kinloch Division, No. 321, of the Order of the Sons of Temperance Friendly Society, Wesleyan School-room, Ward-road, Dundee. 24th February 1874.

2. Eden Lodge of Free Gardeners' Friendly Society, Kirkcaldy, Fife. 1872.

3. Glasgow Philanthropic Friendly Society of Hairdressers, 67, Ingram-street, Glasgow. 29th March 1875.

4. Dundee Operative Tailors' Sick and Funeral Benefit Society, 51, Overgate, Dundee. 1875.

5. Mossend Division of the Order of the Sons of Temperance Friendly Society, School-room, Mossend, Lanarkshire. 1875.

Forms for the annual return for 1875, and for the quinquennial return of sickness and mortality for the years 1871-1875, were issued to 835 societies. Form B of the quinquennial return for optional use by societies having 1,000 members was sent, in addition to the other forms, to 22 societies; 439 annual, and 247 quinquennial, returns have been received. The forms addressed to 75 societies were returned through the Dead Letter Office. Many societies, assuming a continuance of the permission accorded by 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63 (now repealed), sent copies of their last annual report instead of the prescribed return. These reports were in all cases sent back to the societies, with an intimation calling attention to the requirements of the new Act. A large proportion of the returns, both annual and quinquennial, were forwarded in so unsatisfactory a shape as to necessitate their being sent back for correction and amplification. It may be observed as an unfortunate, though unavoidable circumstance, that the time for making the quinquennial return should have coincided with the commencement of the new Act, whereas it could have been wished that the officers of societies had had the opportunity of becoming familiar with the new form of annual return, and generally with the working of the new Act, before being called upon for this return, which they are apt to regard as a fresh obligation imposed upon them by the recent legislation. While making every allowance, however, for the difficulties experienced by the officers of societies, many of whom are little accustomed to business, the discrepancy between the number of registered societies and the number of returns received, is so great as to point to the desirability of enforcing the returns by prosecution.

Towards the close of last year, in view of the approaching commencement of the new Act, an alphabetical list of presumably-existing societies in Scotland was, by direction of the Chief Registrar, prepared and forwarded to the central office for incorporation in a general index of Friendly Societies. This list, which was made up to 30th November 1875, embraced 836 societies. About the same time the Assistant Registrar availed himself of the provision of Section 3 of the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, to apply to the clerks of the peace throughout Scotland for the transcripts of rules of Friendly Societies which had been filed with the rolls of the sessions of the peace since 1793, the date of the first Friendly Societies Act. There is evidence of an application for the rules of societies enrolled under 10 Geo. 4, c. 56, i.e., subsequently to 1829, having been made in 1847 by Mr. Cleghorn, the first Registrar of Friendly Societies for Scotland, under 9 & 10 Vict. c. 27, and of the receipt of the rules of various societies in compliance therewith; but there does not appear to have been any application made by the Registrar under 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, previous to the one now reported. The result of this application was that there were received from the clerks of the peace for the shires of Aberdeen, Ayr, Clackmannan, Lanark (upper, middle, and lower wards), Peebles, and Selkirk, the rules of between 600 and 700 Friendly Societies. Some clerks of peace returned for answer that they had no such rules in their custody, while others either disregarded the application, or failed to transmit any rules. The rules received did not arrive in time to be available for the list of societies above mentioned. So far as the Assistant Registrar has as yet examined them, he finds that the rules transmitted include many which ought properly to have been sent in reply to the application in 1847, and some which he has identified with societies already on the register. A large proportion he believes to belong to societies which have altogether disappeared, though it is not improbable that others may prove to be existing societies, which have lost sight of their position as societies under Statute.

The Assistant Registrar has had much correspondence in connexion with the working of the new Act. Some idea of this may be formed from the fact that the number of letters received in the office during the first six months of the current year was nearly double, and the number dispatched more than double of those received and dispatched during the corresponding period of last year. Among the points involved may be specially mentioned the distinction between "societies" and "branches" introduced by the Act, and the provisions of the Act as to production of a certificate under the hand of the registrar of deaths, before payment of money on death. In alluding to this subject it should be stated that shortly before the commencement of the Act the Registrar General of Births, Deaths, and Marriages for Scotland prepared and issued to the local registrars instructions, with forms of application, and of certificates adapted to the requirements of the Act similar to those issued by the Registrar General for England.

Many inquiries have been received by the Assistant Registrar as to the bearing of Section 28, regarding payments on death of children in the case of unregistered societies. To these he has answered that the section applies to unregistered equally equally as to registered societies, and he is glad to be able to report that decisions* have been given to that effect in the Sheriff Courts of Forfar and Dundee. His attention has, however, been called to a case† just decided in the former court, in which the sheriff has held that the production of the certificate is not requisite where the payment is made at the discretion of a committee of the society, and is not exigible as a matter of right. This case, like the others, is that of a yearly society, and it is alleged that the rules have been altered with the intention of evading the operation of the section in question.

The Assistant Registrar regrets that, so far as he has learned, only three appointments of public auditors under the Act (Section 35) have been made in Scotland. The gentlemen appointed are Charles Prentice, Esq., C.A., 55, Castle-street, Edinburgh; and the Hon. Francis J. Moncreiff, C.A., 45, Frederick-street, Edinburgh, for the Edinburgh district, including the shires of Linlithgow, Edinburgh, Haddington, Peebles, Selkirk, Roxburgh, and Berwick; and R. Moody Stuart, Esq., C.A., Dundee, for Forfarshire.

While reserving the details of transactions under the new Act till next year, it may be stated, in conclusion, that applications thereunder have been received for the registry of 34 new "societies" or "branches," and that several large English societies have recorded their rules in Scotland, so as to entitle them to the privileges of the Act in this country. No existing societies have cancelled their registry with a view to registry as branches, and it remains to be seen what will be the effect of the increased facilities afforded them for so doing by the Amendment Act of this Session.‡

INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT (CO-OPERATIVE) SOCIETIES.

During the year 18 new societies were registered. One society, previously registered under the Act of 1852, obtained a certificate of registration under that of 1867, and 29 societies received certificates of alterations of rules; total, 48 certificates.

Forms for the annual return were issued to 292 societies, and returns were received from 237 societies. The following is an abstract of the results derived from these. The details, together with lists of new societies, and of societies dissolved, will be found in the Return on the subject recently made by the Assistant Registrar in accordance with an Order of the House of Commons, dated 14th February 1876.

BUILDING SOCIETIES.

During the year 8 new societies, and 12 societies under 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32, received certificates of incorporation under the Building Societies Act, 1874. Seven societies received certificates of alterations of rules, and 5 received certificates of change of name under the Act of 1874. Three societies received certificates of alterations of rules under the Act of Will. 4. Total, 35 certificates.

The impediment (noticed in last year's Report as pressing especially upon societies in Scotland) to the incorporation, under the Act of 1874, of societies certified under 6 & 7 Will. 4, c. 32, the names of which do not end with the words "Building Society," has fortunately been removed by the revocation of the Regulations originally issued by the Secretary of State, and the wording of the new Regulation affecting the subject so as to avoid the difficulty. The new Regulations are dated March 1876.

LITERARY AND SCIENTIFIC SOCIETIES.

One society, the Arbroath Museum Society, obtained a certificate under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 36, exempting it from local rates. An application by another society, a "Song School" in Aberdeen, was refused, as not falling within the scope of the Act.

Thirty-one amendments to rules of Benefit Societies were also certified.

The Newry Provident Co-operative Society, Limited, at 43, Lower North-street, Newry, was certified under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, on 7th May 1875.

One amendment to rules was also certified under these Acts.

The Belfast Sailors' Institute and Workmen's Reading Rooms, at 18, Dock-street, Belfast, was certified under 6 & 7 Vict. c. 36, on 31st December, 1875.

Amendments to the rules of two Annuity Societies and of two Loan Societies were also certified.

Notice was received of the illegal dissolution of the Portadown Tenters' and Dressers' Friendly Benefit Society, on the 1st April, 1875.

The following societies were dissolved, and notice thereof published in the "Dublin Gazette" :—

The Loyal Invincible Lodge of Odd Fellows, No. 5,497, Manchester Unity, at No. 1, Fountain-street, Bessbrook, county Armagh.

The Shipwrights' Friendly Society, at New Quay Passage, west, county Cork.

Forty-five notices of the appointment of trustees were received, and 16 notices of change in meeting places, and six treasurers' bonds.

Belfast Union Building Society, at 48, Corporation-street, Belfast; certificate dated 19th January 1875.

Report.

Belfast Economic Building, 21, Chichester-street, Belfast; certificate dated 28th January 1875.

Coleraine Building Society, Town Hall, Coleraine; certificate dated 24th March 1875.

Cork Investment Land and Building Society, 35, South Hall, Cork; certificate dated 27th April 1875.

Kingstown Tradesmen's Benefit Building Society, Eblana-avenue, Kingstown; certificate dated 28 January 1875.

Kingstown St. Michael's Benefit Building Society, 63, Upper George's-street, Kingstown; certificate dated 11th February 1875.

Magherafelt Building Society, Town Hall, Magherafelt; certificate dated 1st September 1875.

Workingmen's Benefit Building Society, 4, Wentworth-place, Dublin; certificate dated 8th March 1875.

There were not any new Building Societies registered during the year 1875.

TRADE UNIONS.

THE following Trade Unions, and the rules thereof, were registered during the year 1875 :—

The Regular Operative Silversmiths' Society of the City of Dublin, 2, Corn-market; registered 7th April 1875.

FUNCTIONS OF THE REGISTRARS.

THE separation between the three registry offices having been put an end to by the new Act, and a central office consisting of more than one officer having been established for England, certain distinctions have now to be made between the functions of "the Registrar," i.e., the Central Office in England, and the Assistant Registrars in Scotland and Ireland; II. the Central Office; III. the Chief Registrar; and IV. the Assistant Registrars.

In the following analysis, functions which can only be performed by the Registrars themselves are indicated by an asterisk, the remainder being capable of being performed by clerks. Functions created by the new Act are printed in italics. A dagger † indicates alterations in practice.

Whenever the word "examine" is used, it implies that if the result of the examination is not satisfactory the document is returned to the society, and when received again, re-examined to see if it is duly corrected; a process which may have to be gone through more than once.

The analysis does not include functions exercised in respect of Trade Unions or Industrial and Provident Societies, with which it would be premature to deal until the issuing of regulations under the Trade Union Act, and the Industrial and Provident Societies Act of the present Session.

I.—FUNCTIONS OF THE REGISTRAR.

A.—As respects SOCIETIES under the FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875.

1.—In respect of the Registry of Societies.

- 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60,
s. 11 (1). (a.) To receive applications for registry of societies, examining whether they are in Form A. prescribed by Regulation 1, are duly signed, and are accompanied by two copies of the rules duly signed, and by a list of the secretary and trustees or officers to sue and be sued;
- Section 11 (5). And in the case of a society insuring annuities, whether they are accompanied by a certificate of the Tables, by an actuary † approved by the Treasury.
And in the case of a society with branches, whether they are accompanied by a list of every branch, the place where it is established, and the trustees or officers to sue and be sued, and by copies of the branch rules not intended to be identical.
- Section 11 (3). (b.) To examine, by search of the whole list of societies, whether the proposed name of the society is identical with that of any other registered society (in the three kingdoms), *or is likely to deceive the members or the public as to its identity.
- Section 13 (1). (c.) * To examine whether the rules of the society contain the provisions required by Schedule II. to the Act;
- Section 30 (13). And in the case of a society receiving contributions by means of collectors at more than 10 miles from the registered office, whether they contain all the provisions of Section 30 of the Act;
- Section 15 (8). And in the case of a juvenile society, whether they comply with Regulations 19 and 20;
Reg. 65. And in the case of a society registering under a limited special authority, whether the limitations are all stated in the rules.
- Sections 8, 18, 27,
15 (8), &c. (d.) * To examine whether the rules are in other respects conformable to the Act, e.g., by not assuring benefits other, or higher in amount than those allowed by the Act; by not including members below and above 16 years of age at once, or any members below three years of age, &c. &c.
- Section 11 (7). (e.) In respect of specially authorised societies, to receive the fee of 1l. prescribed by Regulation 58.
- (f.) * If all is correct, to issue an † acknowledgment of registry under Schedule IV., or in the case of a society registered under a limited special authority in Form AW., prescribed by Regulation 7.

2.—In respect of the Registry of Branches.

- Section 29 (3). (a.) To receive notices of the establishment of branches; examining whether they are in Form AR. prescribed by Regulation 50, are duly signed, and are accompanied by branch rules duly signed.
- (b.) * To

- (b.) * To examine whether the society is capable of having branches under the Act. Section 29 (2).
 (c.) * To examine whether the branch rules comply with Regulation 51.
 (d.) * To examine whether they are, in other respects, conformable to the Act (as above).
 (e.) * If all is correct, to issue an acknowledgment of registry, in form prescribed by the Friendly Societies Amendment Act, 1876 (Schedule). Section 29 (5).

3.—In respect of the Registry of Amendments of Rules of Societies.

(a.) To receive applications for partial amendments of rules; examining whether they are in Form B. prescribed by Regulation 3, are duly signed, and are accompanied by two copies of the existing rules duly marked, and two copies of the amendment duly signed, and by a statutory declaration, in Form C. prescribed by Regulation 3. Section 13 (2).

(b.) * To examine whether the partial amendments are † not contrary to the provisions of the Act. Section 13 (4).

(c.) To receive applications for complete amendments of rules; examining whether they are in Form D. prescribed by Regulation 3, are duly signed, and are accompanied by two copies of the existing rules, two copies of the new rules duly signed, and by a statutory declaration in Form C., as aforesaid.

(d.) * To examine whether the new rules contain the provisions required by Schedule II. to the Act, having an eye to the same points as to registry of original rules in the case of—

A society receiving contributions by means of collectors at more than 10 miles from the registered office (see above, 2, c);

A juvenile society (ibid.);

A society registered under a limited special authority.

(e.) * To examine whether the new rules are in other respects conformable to the Act; e. g., by not assuring benefits other or higher in amount than those allowed by the Act; by not including members below and above 16 at once, unless by virtue of a rule or custom in existence on the 1st January 1876, or any members below three years of age, unless by virtue of the like rule or custom, &c., &c.

(f.) In respect of specially authorised societies, to receive the fee of 10s. prescribed by Regulation 58.

(c.) * By the authority of the Chief Registrar, to make complaint of fraud or misappropriation. Section 16 (9).

(d.) * For the Chief, or any other Assistant Registrar, to hear and determine disputes, as specified ante, IV., B.

(e.) * By written appointment of the Chief Registrar, to investigate the affairs of a society where application is made for investigation with a view to dissolution, with all powers as in cases of dispute. (See ante, III., B. 1.) Section 25 (8a).

(f.) * To sue for penalties. (See ante, IV., A. 1.)

(g.) * To authenticate documents. (See ante, IV., A. 2.)

B.—Special Functions of the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland.

(a.) * Subject to any regulations under the Act, to exercise all functions transferred to them by Section 10 (8a.) (See ante, I, 16.)

(b.) To send to the Central Office copies of all such documents registered or recorded by them as the Chief Registrar directs. Section 10 (8b).

(c.) To record documents and matters sent for record from the Central Office, and such other documents and matters as the Act provides. Section 10 (8c).

(d.) * To circulate and publish, or transmit between societies and the Central Office, such information and documents as the Chief Registrar, with the approval of the Treasury, directs. Section 10 (8d).

(e.) * To report to the Chief Registrar as he directs. Section 10 (8e).

(f.) * In subordination to the Chief Registrar, to exercise all functions in respect of disputes, the cancelling or suspension of registry, applications for the appointment of inspectors or the calling of special meetings, and changes of name, as are specified ante, III. B. and III. C.; but, except as to disputes, only as respects societies registered and doing business exclusively in their respective countries.

(g.) * Under the direction of the Chief Registrar, to cancel registry of society registered or amalgamated with or transferring all engagements to company. Section 21 (8).

(h.) To keep record of all fees received by them by virtue of the Act and of the Regulations. Reg. 59.

(i.) To pay such fees at least twice a year into the Bank of England, under a receivable order in Form AF., provided by Regulation 59.

(j.) To send, at the same time, a list of fees so paid to the Chief Registrar.

Appendix (A.)

C.—Special Functions of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland.

(a.) * In cases of dispute, if necessary, to issue order for recovery of documents, in Form V. prescribed by Regulation 26.

(b.) * To issue order for recovery of documents and examination of havers, in Form V. prescribed by the same regulation.

In addition to the above definite functions and powers, a large and increasing amount of correspondence has to be carried on, personal applicants have to be received, and advice has to be given in matters affecting the relations of the societies to the Registrars; inquiries from the Post Office as to whether Friendly Societies and their trustees are registered; from the National Debt Office as to the dissolution of societies, &c., have to be answered. Regulations under the various Acts have also almost invariably been drafted in the office. Under instructions from the Treasury, reports have to be made on applications for special authorities, in prescribed forms.

It will be observed that no independent powers of initiation are by the Friendly Societies Acts given to the Registrars, with the single exception of the determining forms of returns, s. 14(5). They can take no general measures in the way of circulating model forms of statistics, or preparing tables, may cancel or suspend beyond three months the registry of no society in invitum, dispense with no quinquennial return or valuation, appoint no inspectors, call no special meetings, hear no disputes, dispense with none of the legal conditions of amalgamation or transfer of engagement without the consent or approval of the Treasury; and although not an express statutory condition, such consent is in fact necessary for any prosecution. Moreover, the cancelling or suspension beyond three months in invitum is the only one of the above cases in which an application from a society or certain of its members appears not to be the sine qua non of any action respecting it. For the appointment of inspectors, the calling of special meetings, or dissolution by award, an application from a definite proportion or number of the members is a pre-requisite, whilst for the determination of a dispute the consent of the parties is necessary, and even this is insufficient where the rules forbid recourse to the Registrar.

The power of settling disputes, however, appears to debar the Registrars from giving advice ex parte in matters which might come before them for decision.

APPENDIX (B.).

TREASURY REGULATIONS AND FORMS.

Appendix (B.)

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875.

38 & 39 VICT. c. 60.

REGULATIONS APPROVED BY THE TREASURY.

IN pursuance of the powers vested in their Lordships by the above-mentioned statute, the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury make and approve of the following regulations:—

Application to Register Societies or Amendments of Rules.

(1.) Every application to register a society under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (in these Regulations termed "the Act"), shall be in Form A. subjoined to these regulations, and shall be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the registered office of the society is intended to be. Section 11 (2).

(2.) An amendment of the rules of a society may be either—

(a.) A partial amendment, consisting of the addition of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, to the existing rules, or the substitution of a new rule or rules, or part of a rule or rules, for any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, or a rescission of any of the existing rules, or any part thereof, without any substitution, or more than one or all of these modes; or,

(b.) A complete amendment, consisting of the substitution of an entire set of rules for the existing set of rules.

(3.) An application to register a partial amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society, in Form B. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, accompanied by a statutory declaration* in Form C. hereto annexed, and by a printed copy of the existing rules marked to show where the alterations occur, and what they are, and by the following documents:— Section 13 (2).

(a.) If the partial amendment consists of the addition or substitution of a new rule or rules, two copies of such new rule or rules, each copy being marked O, and signed by three members and the secretary.

(b.) If the partial amendment consists of the rescission of any of the rules without any substitution, two copies of the resolution for such rescission, each copy being marked O, and signed by three members and the secretary.

(4.) An application to register a complete amendment of rules must be made by the secretary of the society in Form D. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form C. annexed hereto, and by a copy of the existing rules, and by two copies of the new rules, each copy being marked P, and signed by three members and the secretary.

Recording of Rules already Registered.

(5.) An application to record in one country rules, or amendments of rules, registered in another, shall be made by the secretary or other officer of the society in Form E. or F.* hereto annexed, and shall be accompanied by a copy of such rules or amendments under the seal of the central office, or the signature of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be. Section 11.

Cancelling and Suspension of Registry.

(6.) Every request to cancel registry shall be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland or Ireland exclusively, to the Assistant Section 12.

* Where proceedings are taken for cancelling registry under the Friendly Societies Amendment Act, 1876, no application or declaration is required for any amendment of rules which may become necessary in connection therewith. (See post, p. 109.)

Appendix (B.)

Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, in Form F. annexed hereto, and shall name some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that the cancelling of registry shall be published, and shall be accompanied by the sum requisite to defray the expense of such publication, and by the further sum of [five shillings]* for publication of such cancelling in the "Gazette."†

(7.) Where application is made to cancel registry under the compulsory powers of the Registrar, the Registrar may require such application to be made in duplicate in such form, and to be supported by such statutory declaration as the Chief Registrar may direct, and shall transmit one copy of such application to the Treasury for their consent.

(8.) Notice before cancelling or suspension of registry shall be in Form G. annexed hereto.

(9.) The cancelling of registry shall be in Form H. annexed hereto.

(10.) The suspension or renewal of suspension of registry shall be in Form I. annexed hereto.

Registered Office.

Section 14 (1a).

(12.) Every notice of a change in the situation of the registered office of a society shall be sent to the Registrar of the country wherein the society is registered within fourteen days after every such change in Form K. annexed hereto. Notice of the situation of the registered office of a society on first registry shall be deemed to be given by the rule providing for the place of office. The place of business of a society enrolled or certified before the 1st January 1876, as stated in the rules thereof, or in any notice of change duly sent to the Registrar, shall be deemed to be the registered office of the society until notice of change duly sent as herein provided is received by the Registrar.

Trustees.

Section 14 (1b).

(13.) All resolutions appointing trustees shall be sent to the Registrar of the country wherein the society is registered, within fourteen days after the date of the meeting whereat any such resolution was passed, in Form L. annexed hereto.

Nominations.

Section 15 (3).

(14.) Every registered society (except as in the Act is provided) shall keep a record or register of all nominations made by the members, and of all revocations and variations of the same, and for the recording or registering of every such nomination, revocation, or variation the rules of the society may require the member nominating to pay a sum not exceeding 3d.

Transfer of Stock.

Section 15 (6).

(15.) Every application to the Chief Registrar to direct a transfer of stock shall follow as near as may be Form M. annexed hereto, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form N. annexed hereto, or as near thereto as the facts admit, and by the certificate of the stock in respect of which the application is made.

(16.) Before making the application the society shall submit to the Chief Registrar for examination a draft copy on foolscap paper, written on one side only, of the proposed application and declaration.

(17.) The Chief Registrar, before directing the transfer, may require such further proof of any statement in the application as may seem to him to be necessary.

(18.) The Chief Registrar shall give his direction in Form O. annexed hereto, so framed in each case as to suit the particular circumstances.

Juvenile Societies.

(19.) Societies and branches consisting wholly of members between three and 16 years of age, may be registered, provided they are,—

Section 15 (8).

(a.) In connection with some school or institution, and managed by the teachers and managers thereof, or a committee appointed by them; or,

(b.) In connection with some registered Friendly Society or a branch of a registered Friendly Society, and managed by its committee and officers, or persons appointed by them.

(20.) The rules of every such society or branch shall contain provisions for the following matters, in addition to those required by Schedule II. of the Act, and Form A. to these regulations:—

1. Whether or not parents and guardians of members shall be entitled to be present

* See ante, p. 18.

2. The giving of security by the treasurer.

3. The investment of the funds in a savings bank, in the public funds, or on Government security, but not otherwise.

4. Where it is in connection with a registered society or branch, the acceptance of a member into such society or any branch thereof, or into such branch, upon attaining the age of 16, and where it is in connection with a school or institution, the payment to a member arriving at the age of 16 of a share of the accumulated funds, if any, or his admission into an adult society, if any.

Disputes.

(21.) The reference of a dispute to the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be written on foolscap paper in duplicate in Form P. annexed hereto. Section 22.

(22.) Such Registrar, upon receipt of the reference, shall transmit one copy of it to the Treasury for their consent.

(23.) Every notice of hearing by the Chief or Assistant Registrar, and every requisition for the attendance of parties and witnesses, and the production of books and documents, shall be in Form Q. annexed hereto.

(25.) If an order for discovery is necessary it shall be in Form S. annexed hereto.

(26.) In Scotland, if a warrant for recovery of documents and examination of havers is necessary, it shall be in Form T. or U. annexed hereto.

(27.) The determination and order of the Chief or Assistant Registrar shall be in Form V. annexed hereto, or as near thereto as the circumstances of the case may in his judgment allow.

Inspectors and Special Meetings.

(28.) An application for appointment of inspectors or for calling a special meeting shall be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland and Ireland exclusively, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, written on foolscap paper, in duplicate, in Form W. annexed hereto, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form X. annexed hereto, by three at least of the applicants. Section 23.

(29.) The Chief or Assistant Registrar may, immediately upon receipt of the application, transmit one copy to the Treasury for their consent, or may, before such transmission, give notice of the application to the society, and send to the Treasury any answer the society may make.

(30.) The appointment of inspectors shall be in Form Y. annexed hereto, or as near thereto as circumstances may allow.

(31.) The notice of special meeting shall be in Form Z. annexed hereto.

(32.) The chairman of the special meeting shall report to the Chief or Assistant Registrar as he may direct.

Special Resolutions.

(33.) Every application for approval of change of name must be made in duplicate in Form AA. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AB. annexed hereto. If approved of, the word "approved" shall be written at the foot or end of each such copy, and the same shall be signed by the Chief Registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be. Section 24 (2) and Section 11 (3).

(34.) Every application to register a special resolution for the amalgamation of societies must be made by each of the societies in duplicate in Form AC. annexed hereto; and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by statutory declarations from officers of each society in Form AB. No acknowledgment of registry shall be given to either society until special resolutions in the like terms have been submitted for registry by the other or others. Section 24 (3).

(35.) Every application to register a special resolution for the transfer of the engagements

Appendix (B.) ments of a society to another must be in duplicate in Form AD. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms AB. and AE.

Section 24 (4). (36.) Every application to register a special resolution for converting a society into a company must be in duplicate in Form AF. annexed hereto, and must be sent to the Central Office accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AB.

Section 24 (4). (37.) An application for registry of a special resolution for amalgamation with a company, or for transfer of engagements to a company, shall be in duplicate in Form AC. or AD., as the case may be, with the necessary modifications to suit the facts, and shall be accompanied by statutory declarations in Forms AB. and AG.

Section 24 (6). (38.) A special resolution shall be registered by writing at the foot or end of each copy of the same the word "registered," and by affixing to the same the seal or stamp of the Central Office.

(39.) Where the special resolution is for conversion into, amalgamation with, or transfer of all the engagements of a society to a company, the following words shall be added:—
"The registry of the _____ Society is hereby cancelled (or directed to be cancelled)."

Chief Registrar."

(40.) Where a special resolution is registered, passed by a society which is registered or does business in Scotland or Ireland, the Central Office shall forthwith apprise the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be, of the same having been so registered, and the Chief Registrar shall, where necessary, give directions for cancelling the registry of such society.

Dissolution.

Section 25 (2).

(41.) The instrument of dissolution shall be in Form AH. hereto annexed, and shall be signed in duplicate and accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form AI. hereto annexed, and by a statement naming some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that notice of the dissolution shall be published, and by the sum requisite to defray the expenses of such publication, and by the further sum of [five shillings] for the like publication in the "Gazette."

(42.) The Registrar shall return one of the duplicates to the society, with an acknowledgment of registry in Form AK. hereto annexed.

(43.) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution shall be signed, declared to, and registered in like manner.

(44.) The advertisement of dissolution by instrument shall be in Form AL. hereto annexed.

(45.) Every application for dissolution by award of the Chief Registrar shall be in Form AM. hereto annexed, and shall name some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, wherein it is desired that notice of the award shall be published, and with it shall be sent the sum requisite to defray the expenses of such publication, and the further sum of [five shillings] for the like publication in the "Gazette."

(46.) The notice of investigation shall be in Form AN. hereto annexed, and the award in Form AO.

(47.) The award of the Chief Registrar for distribution of funds shall be in Form AP. hereto annexed.

Societies with Branches.

Section 29.

(49.) No branch of a society can be registered under this Act which is already registered as a separate society, nor is any such branch to be included in any list of branches under Section 29, unless and until its separate registry has been cancelled.

(50.) When the registry of any such branch as a separate society is cancelled with a view to its registry as a branch after the society of which it is a branch has been registered as a single society, notice for such registry must be given in Form AR. as on the establishment of a new branch.*

(51.) In registering branch rules the Registrar shall see—

1st. That the objects of the branch are not other than those, or one or more of those of the society.

2nd. That provision is made for the control of the central body of the society over the branch.

3rd.

* This does not apply to a cancelling of registry under the Friendly Societies Amendment Act, 1876.

3rd. That there is a separate fund administered by the branch, or by a committee or officers appointed by the branch.

4th. That the matters specified in Schedule II. to the Act, except as to annual and quinquennial returns to the Registrar, are provided for, so far as the same are applicable to the branch in respect of any separate fund or funds.

(52.) Branch rules produced with the application for registry of a society with branches must be signed by three members and the secretary of the same.

(53.) An application to register an amendment of branch rules must be made by the secretary of the branch, but the statutory declaration in support thereof must be made by an officer of the society in Form AS. annexed hereto.

(54.) Notice of any change in the place where a branch is established, and of any appointment of a new trustee of a branch, or officer to sue and be sued on behalf of the same, shall be sent by the society to the Registrar of the country in which the society is registered, within three months after such change of place or appointment in Forms AT. and AU. annexed hereto respectively.

(55.) Notice of the establishment of a new branch by a society under Section 29 (3) of the Act shall be in the Form AR. annexed hereto.

(56.) The annual and quinquennial returns of a society with branches, and the valuation of the same shall include all branches of the society registered under this Act.

Application of the Act to Industrial Assurance Companies and to Unregistered Friendly Societies.

(57.) For the purposes of the Act, so far as its provisions apply to Industrial Assurance Companies or to Unregistered Friendly Societies, the memorandum and articles of association of any Industrial Assurance Company registered under the Companies' Acts, or the instrument constituting any company not so registered, and the rules, laws, or regulations of any Unregistered Friendly Society, shall be deemed to be the rules of such company or society respectively; the registered office under the Companies' Acts, or the principal place of business of such company or society respectively, shall be deemed to be the registered office of the same under the Act; and the directors of any company shall be deemed to be included in the expression "the committee or managers" thereof.

Fees.

(58.) The following fees shall be payable for matters to be transacted, and the inspection of documents under this Act:—

	£. s. d.
For the acknowledgment of registry of a specially authorised society - - - - -	1 - -
For the acknowledgment of registry of every amendment of the rules of the same - - - - -	- 10 -

Appendix (B.)

Any notice of the establishment of a branch, or the rules of the same, or any amendment thereof.

Any instrument of dissolution, or any amendment therein.

Any document or copy of document supplied to a public department.

Any document in respect of which a fee is already chargeable, under or by virtue of the Act and of any other statute.

The Chief Registrar may also dispense with the fee for inspection of documents in cases where he may consider it for the public interest to do so.

Payment of Fees by Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland.

Section 36.

(59.) The Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland shall respectively keep record of all fees received by them by virtue of the Act or of these regulations, and shall pay such fees from time to time, at least twice a year, into the Bank of England, under a receivable order in Form A.V. hereto annexed, to the cash account of H.M.'s Paymaster General for the credit of Registrars of Friendly Societies.

(60.) They shall at the same time send to the Chief Registrar a list of all fees so paid by them from time to time.

(61.) The Chief Registrar shall then cause such fees to be paid into H.M.'s Exchequer, and shall at the same time send a receipt for the said fees to the Assistant Registrar whom it may concern.

Seal of Central Office.

Section 38.

(62.) The seal of the Central Office shall bear the Royal Arms with the words "Registry of Friendly Societies," around or above, and the words "Central Office" below.

(63.) The seal of the Central Office shall be deemed a sufficient signature of the Registrar of Friendly Societies, or the Registrar of Building Societies for England, or of the barrister appointed to certify the rules of Savings Banks or Friendly Societies, for the purposes of Section 10, Sub-section (4) of the Act.

Modification of Forms.

FURTHER REGULATIONS.

Limited Special Authorities.

(65.) Where a limited application of the provisions of the Act is authorised for any purpose by the Treasury, such limitation shall be stated, whether by way of enumeration or exception, in the rules of every society registered for such purpose.

Section 9.

(66.) The forms annexed to Regulations 1 to 54 may be modified by authority of the Chief Registrar, to suit any limited application of the provisions of the Act by special authority of the Treasury.

(67.) The acknowledgment of registry, and of a complete amendment of rules of a specially authorised society, where the application of the provisions of the Act is limited, shall be in Forms AW. and AX., hereto annexed.

(68.) A society may be registered for any of the purposes specified in the Act, conjointly with any specially authorised purpose. If the special authority is a limited one, such society shall not, in respect of any of its purposes, be entitled to any of the privileges or exemptions of the Act beyond such as are contained in the provisions specified in the special authority, but shall, notwithstanding anything in such special authority contained, be subject, in respect of any purposes other than those specially authorised, to the same duties and obligations as if it were not a specially authorised society.

APPENDIX (C).

Appendix (C.) CONDITIONS under which PUBLIC AUDITORS will hold their APPOINTMENTS under the FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT of 1875.

(With the Appointments made for 1876.)

1. The country will be divided into districts, and public auditors for each district appointed.
2. The public auditor is bound to accept for audit the accounts of any society within his district which applies to him (the term "society" to include a branch of a society), at the scale of fees hereafter mentioned, the society complying with the terms of these instructions.
3. A society desirous of submitting its accounts to a public auditor must forward all the necessary materials to his office or place of residence, in order to save travelling expenses and loss of time. It will be the duty of the auditor, when applied to, to impress this upon the society. He is not bound to leave his office for the purpose of the audit.
4. The society must, at the same time, forward to the auditor the annual return or general statement of the receipts and expenditure funds and effects of the society, made up in the form for the time being required under the Friendly Societies Act.
5. The auditor is to verify the annual return with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto, and either to sign the same as found by him to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or specially to report to the society in what respects he finds it incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law.
6. The work of the auditor will be strictly confined to auditing, but he has under the Act a right of access to all the books and accounts of the society. In the event of his discovering errors in the annual return, or the books, accounts, or vouchers submitted to him, they are to be returned (at the cost of the society) for correction, unless the auditor be requested by the society to correct the inaccuracies, in which case he is entitled to claim an additional fee, to be arranged between him and the society.
7. The auditor shall, in all cases, make a report to the society upon the accounts and other documents submitted to him, and, in case he has called for explanation or information from the directors or committee of management, he shall state whether such explanations or information have been given, and whether they have been satisfactory.
8. Rates of payment:—

For auditing the accounts of Friendly Societies, the scale of payment shall be—

	£.	s.	d.
For societies consisting of not more than 100 members - - -	1	1	-
For societies with over 100 members but not exceeding 500 members, in respect of each 100 members or part thereof - - -	1	1	-
For societies consisting of over 500 members in respect of the first 500 members, with an additional 10 s. 6 d. in respect of each additional 100 members or part thereof. No fee; however, to exceed 52 l. 10 s. unless by special arrangement - - -	5	5	-

9. The scale of fees applies only in cases where the society is located within the district assigned to the auditor employed. If a society employs an auditor appointed for any other district, special terms may be arranged.

The auditor may accept audits on terms lower than those of the above scale.

10. Auditors shall hold their appointments from year to year, beginning on the first day of January 1876.

11. They shall send in half-yearly to the Treasury a list containing the names of the societies audited by them during the previous half-year, and the fees received from each society.

12. The scale of fees above laid down will only remain in force for the year 1876. At the

the end of that time it will either be confirmed or altered in such manner as the Treasury may direct.

Appendix (C.)

13. Auditors are requested to make themselves acquainted with the provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, which affect the exercise of their functions. Their attention is particularly directed to Sections 14 and 32 of the Act.

14. The following is the arrangement of districts for the year 1876 :—

APPENDIX (D).

MODEL RULES.

(1).—RULES FOR SOCIETIES.

The following Form of Rules is prepared for the purpose of assisting Friendly Societies in complying with the provisions of the Act 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60. The blanks may be filled with such numbers as the society may decide upon:—

[N.B.—The Regulations referred to in these Rules are the Regulations made and approved of by the Treasury under the Act.]

Appendix (D.)

I. CONSTITUTION OF SOCIETY.

The society is a Friendly Society, composed of persons over 16 years of age.*

II. NAME OF SOCIETY AND PLACE OF REGISTERED OFFICE.

The society shall be called "The"

Its registered office is in England, and is at No. _____ Street, _____, in the county of _____.

In the event of any change in the situation of the registered office, notice of such change shall be sent within 14 days thereafter to the registrar in manner and form provided by the Treasury Regulation in that behalf; Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1a).

III. OBJECTS AND PURPOSES, ADMISSION OF MEMBERS, CONDITIONS OF BENEFIT, &c.

(1.) Objects for which the society is established.—*This society is established to provide, by voluntary subscriptions of the members, with [or without] the aid of donations, for the relief or maintenance of the members, their husbands, wives, children, fathers, mothers, brothers, or sisters, nephews or nieces, and wards being orphans, during sickness or other infirmity, whether bodily or mental; in old age, being any age after [fifty†] years, and in widowhood; and for the relief or maintenance of the orphan children of members during their minority. For insuring money to be paid on the death of a member, or for the funeral expenses of the husband, wife, or child of a member or the widow of a deceased member; for the relief or maintenance of the members when on travel in search of employment or when in distressed circumstances.

(2.) Purposes for which the funds shall be applicable.—All moneys received on account of contributions, donations, admissions, fines, or otherwise, shall be applied towards carrying out the objects of the society, according to the rules and tables (if any) thereof; any officer misapplying the funds shall repay the same and be excluded, without prejudice to his liability to prosecution for such misapplication.

(3.) Terms of Admission of Members.—*

* Here should be stated in what manner a candidate for membership is to be proposed and elected; what entrance fee, if any, he is to pay; what classes of persons, if any, are not to be eligible for membership, &c.

* Here should be stated with respect to each benefit, what are the contributions payable to assure it, for how long they must be paid before a member is to be entitled to the benefit, and in what manner a member is to make and prove his claim, &c.

(4.) Conditions under which Members may become entitled to benefits.—*

No money shall be paid by the society upon the death (elsewhere than at sea) of a member or other person whose death is or ought to be entered in any register of deaths, except upon the production of a certificate of such death under the hand of the registrar of deaths, or other person having the care of the register of deaths in which such death is or ought to be entered, Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (2); nor upon the death of a child under 10 years of age, except upon the production of such certificate of death as is required by Section 28 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and otherwise in conformity with the provisions of the said Act.

(5.) Fines and forfeitures to be imposed on Members.—*

* Here is to be stated the amount of every fine, the cause for which it is to be inflicted, and the authority empowered to inflict it. A rule which imposes a fine or forfeiture not of a fixed or limited amount is not in accordance with the Act.

* Here should be stated how often, when and where, meetings are to be held; what notice is to be given of them; by whose authority and how meetings are to be specially called, and upon what requisition; whether any and what number of members is necessary to constitute a quorum, either generally or in any particular cases; who is to take the chair; what are the qualifications of voters; whether votes may be given by proxy, and how questions on which there is an equality of votes are to be decided.

IV. MEETINGS. RIGHT OF VOTING.*

V. NEW RULES AND ALTERATION OF RULES.

No new rule shall be made nor any of the rules herein contained or hereafter to be made shall be amended, altered, or rescinded, unless with the consent of a majority of the members present at a general meeting of the society specially called for that purpose.

VI. APPOINTMENT

VI. APPOINTMENT AND REMOVAL OF COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT, TREASURER, TRUSTEES, AND OTHER OFFICERS.

At a special meeting of the society to be called as soon as practicable after the registry of the society, there shall be elected by a majority of the members then present a committee of management consisting of ten persons, a treasurer, secretary [two officers to sue and be sued, two auditors*], and three trustees. The committee of management, treasurer, and secretary shall continue in office until the general annual meeting of the society, unless previously removed by a resolution of the major part of the members present at any meeting called for that purpose; and at every annual meeting a committee of management, treasurer, and secretary shall be appointed for the ensuing year, or, in failure thereof, those last appointed shall be considered as again appointed; and in case any member of the committee of management, treasurer, or secretary shall die or be removed prior to such annual meeting, the committee of management shall appoint a person to fill the vacancy. The trustees [and officers to sue and be sued] shall continue in office during the pleasure of the society, and be removable at a general meeting; and, in case of a vacancy, another shall be elected by a majority of members at a meeting called for that purpose. A copy of every resolution appointing a trustee shall be sent to the registrar within 14 days after the date of the meeting at which such resolution was passed, in the form prescribed by the Treasury Regulation in that behalf.

* Auditors need not be appointed if the accounts are audited by a public auditor.

VII. POWERS AND DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

1. The committee of management shall meet on every _____ at the hour of _____. Any (six) of the committee of management duly assembled at any such meeting shall form a quorum, and shall have full power to superintend and conduct the business of this society according to the rules provided for the Government thereof, and shall in all things act for and in the name of this society; and all acts and orders under the powers delegated to them shall have the like force and effect as the acts and orders of this society at any general meeting. Every question at such meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes, and if the votes are equal the chairman shall have a casting vote. Any (two) of the committee of management may call a special meeting thereof, by giving (seven) clear days' notice in writing to the secretary, but at such special meeting no other business than that specified in the notice shall be taken into consideration. The committee of management shall convene all the meetings of the society, on such requisitions as are herein mentioned.

2. The treasurer shall, in the month of _____ in every year, and also when required by a general meeting, or by the trustees or committee of management, upon demand made, or notice in writing given to him or left at his last or usual place of residence, render a just and true account of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the society: and shall also, on the like demand or notice, pay over all moneys and deliver all property for the time being in his hands or custody to such persons as a general meeting, or the committee of management, or the trustees appoint. He shall be responsible for such sums of money as may from time to time be paid into his hands by the secretary, or by any person on account of this society; he shall balance his cash account monthly, and supply the secretary with a duplicate thereof, and shall, if required, attend every general meeting. He shall, before taking upon himself the execution of his office, give security, pursuant to the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 20 (1.)

3. The secretary shall give his attendance at all meetings of this society; he shall record correctly the names of the members of the committee of management or trustees there present, and the minutes of their proceedings, which he shall transcribe into a book to be authenticated by the signature of the chairman as the proceedings of the meeting; he shall receive proposals for admission, and demands for allowances of every description granted by the rules; he shall keep the accounts, documents, and papers of the society in such manner and for such purposes as the committee may appoint, and shall prepare all returns and other documents required by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, or the Treasury Regulations, to be sent to the registrar. The secretary shall, on all occasions, in the execution of his office, act under the superintendence, control, and directions of the committee of management.

4. The trustees shall be admitted to all meetings of the committee of management, and shall be at liberty to take part in the proceedings thereof, and vote on any question under discussion.

5. In case any trustee being removed shall refuse or neglect to assign or transfer any property of the society as the committee of management shall direct, he shall (if he be a member) be expelled the society, and shall cease to have any claim on the society on account of any contributions paid by him, without prejudice to any liability to prosecution which he may have incurred.

[In a society with branches, the composition of the central body must also be stated, and the conditions under which a branch may secede from the society.]

Appendix (D.)

VIII. COPIES OF RULES.

It shall be the duty of the committee of management to provide the secretary with a sufficient number of copies of the rules, to enable him to deliver to any person on demand a copy of such rules on payment of a sum not exceeding 1s. [*for non-members, and 6d. for members], and of the secretary to deliver such copies accordingly.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 13 (5).

* If no distinction is intended, the words in brackets may be omitted. Any other figures not exceeding 1s. may be inserted.

IX. KEEPING AND AUDITING OF ACCOUNTS.

(1.) The committee of management shall cause the accounts of the society to be regularly entered in proper books.

(2.) Separate accounts shall be kept of all moneys received or paid on account of every particular fund or benefit assured by the society, for which a separate table of contributions payable is adopted, distinct from all moneys received and paid on account of any other benefit or fund.

(3.) A separate account shall also be kept of the expenses of management of the society, and of all contributions on account thereof.

(4.) The committee of management shall, once at least in every year, submit such accounts, together with a general statement of the same and all necessary vouchers up to the then last, for audit, either to one of the public auditors appointed under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, or to two or more persons appointed as auditors by the members at the meeting next before each yearly meeting of the society, and shall lay before every such meeting a balance sheet (which either may or may not be identical with the annual return, but must not be in contradiction to the same), showing the receipts and expenditure, funds, and effects of the society, together with a statement of the affairs of the society since the last ordinary meeting, and of their then condition. Such auditors shall have access to all the books and accounts of the society, and shall examine every balance sheet and annual return of the receipts and expenditure, funds, and effects of the society, and shall verify the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto, and shall either sign the same as found by them to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or shall specially report to the meeting of the society before which the same is laid in what respects they find it incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (b. c.).

X. ANNUAL RETURNS.

1. Every year before the 1st June the committee of management shall cause the secretary to send to the registrar the annual return, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, required by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, of the receipts and expenditure, funds, and effects of the society, and of the number of members of the same, up to the 31st December then last inclusively, as audited and laid before a general meeting, showing separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of the society, together with a copy of the auditor's report, if any.

2. Such return shall state whether the audit has been conducted by a public auditor appointed under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and by whom, and if such audit has been conducted by any person or persons other than a public auditor, shall state the name, address, and calling or profession of each of such persons, and the manner in which, and the authority under which, they were respectively appointed.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 d.).

3. It shall be the duty of the committee of management to provide the secretary with a sufficient number of copies of the annual return, or of a balance sheet or other document duly audited, containing the same particulars as to the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society as are contained in the annual return, for supplying gratuitously every member or person interested in the funds of the society, on his application, with a copy of the last annual return, or of such balance sheet, or other document as aforesaid of the society for the time being, and it shall be the duty of the secretary to supply such gratuitous copies on application accordingly.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 h.).

XI. QUINQUENNIAL RETURNS.

Within six calendar months after the expiration of every five years succeeding the 31st December 1875, the committee of management shall cause a return, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar, of the sickness* and mortality experienced by the society during the five years preceding the 31st December then last past to be sent by the secretary to the Registrar.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 e.).

* If the society does not insure against sickness, the words "sickness and" to be left out.

XII. VALUATIONS.

1. Once at least in the five years next following the 1st January 1876,* and so again within six calendar months after the expiration of every five years succeeding the date of the

* If the society is registered after 31 December 1875,

Appendix (D.)

instead of the words
"1st January 1876," insert "the date of the registry of the society."

2. It shall be the duty of any valuer appointed by the society, at the cost of the society, to make a report to be signed by him, and which shall also state his address and calling or profession, on the condition of the society, and also an abstract of the results of his valuation, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar.

3. On receiving such report it shall be the duty of the committee of management to call forthwith a special meeting of the society for the purpose of receiving the same, and to lay such report and the abstract thereof before such meeting; to cause the secretary to forward such report and abstract to the Registrar within the six months aforesaid, together with a return containing such information with respect to the benefits assured and contributions receivable by the society, and to its funds and effects, debts and credits, as the Registrar may from time to time require.

4. If the society is to be valued by an actuary appointed by the Registrar, it shall be the duty of the committee of management to cause the secretary to send to the Registrar a return, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar, of the benefits assured and contributions receivable from all the members of the society, and of all the funds and effects, debts and credits, accompanied by such evidence in support thereof as the Chief Registrar shall prescribe.

XIII. INSPECTION OF BOOKS.

1. The books and accounts of the society shall be open to the inspection of any member or person having an interest in the funds of the society at all reasonable times, at the registered office of the society, or at any place where the same are kept [*except that no such member or person, unless he be an officer of the society, or be specially authorised by a resolution of the society to do so, shall have the right to inspect the loan account of any other member without the written consent of such member.]—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 g.).

* If the society does not grant loans to members, the words in brackets to be left out.

2. It shall be the duty of the committee of management to keep a copy of the last annual balance sheet of the society for the time being, together with the report of the auditors, if any, and of the last quinquennial valuation for the time being, always hung up in a conspicuous place at the registered office of the society.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 i.).

XIIIa. DIVIDING SOCIETIES.

If the society is a dividing one, a rule should be inserted:—

It shall be the duty of the committee of management to see that all claims upon the society existing at the time of any division of the funds thereof are met and provided for before any such division takes place.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 11 (4).

XIV. INVESTMENT OF FUNDS, HOLDING OF LAND, &c.

1. So much of the funds of the society as may not be wanted for immediate use, or to meet the usual accruing liabilities, shall, with the consent of the committee of management, or of a majority of the members of a society present and entitled to vote at a general meeting, be invested by the trustees in such of the following ways as such committee or general meeting shall direct; namely, in any savings bank, in the public funds, or with the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, or upon Government or real securities in Great Britain or Ireland.*

[* Any other securities upon which it is proposed the funds should be invested should here be specified.]

or in the purchase of land, or in the erection or alteration of offices or other buildings thereon as after mentioned.—Friendly Societies Acts, 1875, s. 16 (1).

2. The committee of management, with the consent of a special meeting of the society called for the purpose, may, in the name of the society, purchase or take on lease in the names of the trustees any land,* and may sell, exchange, mortgage, lease or build upon the same (with power to alter and pull down buildings and again rebuild), and no purchaser, assignee, mortgagee, or tenant shall be bound to inquire as to the authority for any sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease by the trustees, and the receipt of the trustees shall be a discharge for all moneys arising from or in connexion with such sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 16 (2).

* If the extent or value of the land is to be limited, add here "not exceeding acres" (stating quantity) or "not exceeding in value £." (stating value).

3. Mortgages or other assurances for securing money to the society may be vacated by a receipt indorsed, signed by the trustees, and countersigned by the secretary, in the form contained in the 3rd schedule to the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 [or if a special form be provided, in the form herein specified, or in the form specified in the schedule to these rules].—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 16 (7).

Appendix (D.)

XV. LOANS TO MEMBERS.

[If a loan fund is intended to be established, it must be stated whether the same is to be formed out of the contributions or deposits of the members, or by both means, and whether moneys may be advanced to members on their personal security, with or without sureties; also, to what extent not exceeding 200*l.* a member shall be capable of holding any interest in the loan fund; to what amount loans may be granted, such amount not to exceed, together with any moneys for the time being owing by a member to the society, the sum of 50*l.*; and to what total amount, not to exceed two-thirds of the total sums for the time being owing to the society by the members who have borrowed from the loan fund, moneys may be held by the society on deposits from its members.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 18.]

XVI. ACCUMULATING SURPLUS OF CONTRIBUTIONS FOR MEMBERS' USE.

[If it is intended that the surplus contributions of any of the members to the funds of the society which may remain after providing for any assurance in respect of which the same are paid, should be accumulated at interest for the use of such members, a rule must be made for this purpose, and for the withdrawal of such accumulations from time to time.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 19.]

XVII. NOMINATION.

1. The secretary shall keep a book in which he shall register or record all nominations made by members of the society aged 16 years or upwards, by writing, signed by them, delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society, of any person or persons not being officers or servants of the society (unless any such officer or servant be the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator), to whom any moneys payable by the society on the death of such members not exceeding 50*l.* shall be paid.

2. The secretary shall in like manner record or register all revocations or variations of such nominations by the nominator, made in writing, and signed and delivered or sent as aforesaid.

3. The nominator shall pay 3*d.* to the management fund for the recording or registering of every such nomination, revocation, or variation.

4. The secretary neglecting to ask a new member to nominate within three calendar months of his admission to pay a fine of 3*d.*

5. All nominations, revocations, or variations to be in the following form:—

(1.) Nomination.

Friendly Societies Act, 18 Friendly Society, registered pursuant to the

I hereby nominate* _____, in the county of _____, to receive the money payable at my death under the rules of the society above named.

_____ Signature.
_____ Witness.

(2.) Revocation.

I hereby revoke the above nomination.

_____ Signature.
_____ Witness.

(3.) Variation.

I hereby vary the above nomination as follows:—

I nominate _____, of _____, in the county of _____, to receive [one-half] of the money payable at my death as aforesaid in lieu of the above named.

_____ Signature.
_____ Witness.

—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 15 (3).

XVIII. VOLUNTARY

* The nomination may be to any person, not being an officer or servant of the society (unless such officer or servant is husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator), but cannot be made for any sum exceeding 50 l.

XVIII. VOLUNTARY DISSOLUTION.

Appendix (D.)

Voluntary dissolution of society.

The society may at any time be dissolved by the consent of five-sixths in value of the members, including honorary members, if any, testified by their signatures to some instrument of dissolution in the form provided by the Treasury Regulations in that behalf, and also by the written consent of any person for the time being receiving or entitled to receive any relief, annuity, or other benefit from the funds of the society, unless the claim of such person be first duly satisfied, or adequate provision made for satisfying such claim; the value of members to be ascertained by giving one vote to every member, and an additional vote for every five years that he has been a member, but to no one member more than five votes in the whole.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 25 (1, 3, 7).

XIX. APPLICATIONS FOR INSPECTION, SPECIAL MEETINGS, OR DISSOLUTION.

It shall be the right of one-fifth of the total number of members, or if the number of members shall at any time amount to 1,000, and shall not exceed 10,000, it shall be the right of 100 members, or if the number shall at any time exceed 10,000, it shall be the right of 500 members, by an application in writing to the Chief Registrar,* signed by them in the forms respectively provided by the Treasury Regulations in that behalf—

(a.) To apply for the appointment of one or more inspectors to examine into the affair of the society, and to report thereon.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 23 (1);

(b.) To apply for the calling of a special meeting of the Society.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 23 (2).

Either such application to be made upon such notice to the society, and to be supported by such evidence for the purpose of showing that the applicants have good reason for requiring such inspection to be made or meeting to be called, and that they are not actuated by malicious motives in their application, as the Chief Registrar shall direct;

(c.) Or to apply for an investigation into the affairs of the society with a view to the dissolution thereof;

Such application as last aforesaid to set forth that the funds of the society are insufficient to meet the existing claims thereon, or that the rates of contribution fixed in the rules of such society are insufficient to cover the benefits assured, and the grounds upon which such insufficiency is alleged.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 25 (8).

XX. DISPUTES.

1. If any dispute shall arise between a member, or person claiming through a member, or under the rules of the society, and the society, or any officer thereof, it shall be referred to arbitration.

2. At the second meeting of the society after the registry of the same,* five arbitrators shall be elected, none of them being directly or indirectly interested in the funds of the society; and in each case of dispute the names of the arbitrators shall be written on pieces of paper and placed in a box or glass, and the three whose names are first drawn out by the complaining party, or by some one appointed by him or her, shall be the arbitrators to decide on the matter in difference. In case of a vacancy, or vacancies, another arbitrator, or other arbitrators, shall be elected at a general meeting;

or,

If any dispute, &c. (as above) it shall be referred to justices pursuant to the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 22 (c.)

RULE TO BE INSERTED IN RULES OF SOCIETIES REGISTERED UNDER SPECIAL AUTHORITY OF 16TH MAY 1876.

The society is subject to the provisions of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, except so much thereof as relates to quinquennial returns and valuations (Section 14, Sub-section 1, e, f, and part of i); to certificates of death (Section 14, Sub-section 2, and Section 15, Sub-section 9); to exemption from stamp duty (Section 15, Sub-section 2); to priority on the death, bankruptcy, &c. of officers (Section 15, Sub-section 7); to the membership of minors (Section 15, Sub-section 8); to copyholds (Section 16, Sub-section 6); to investments with the National Debt Commissioners (Section 17); to loans on assurances on the life of members (Section 18, Sub-section 1); to the dissolution of Friendly Societies (Section 25, Sub-section 1, c, and Sub-section 7); to militiamen and volunteers (Section 26); to the limitations of benefits (Section 27); and to payments on the death of children (Section 28).

* If the society is registered and does business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, instead of the words "chief registrar" insert the words "assistant registrar for Scotland," or, "for Ireland," as the case may be.

* Or "after the registry of these rules" or "amendments," if the society had been certified before 1 January 1876.

(2.) BRANCH RULES.

THE following form of Rules is prepared for the purpose of assisting branches of Friendly Societies in complying with the provisions of the Act 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60. The blanks may be filled with such numbers as the society may decide upon:—

[N.B.—The regulations referred to in these rules are the regulations made and approved of by the Treasury under the Act.]

I. NAME, PLACE, AND CONSTITUTION OF BRANCH.

It is composed of persons over 16 years of age.*

II. NAME AND PLACE OF BRANCH.

The branch shall be called "The* _____ of the [of the district*] _____ Society [herein called the order*], and all the rules of the order [and of the district], and all amendments thereof duly registered, shall be as binding on the branch as if the same were herein inserted.

It is established in England, at No. _____, _____ Street, _____, in the county of _____.

In the event of any change in the place of the branch, notice of such change shall be sent within seven days thereafter to the secretary of the order.

III. OBJECTS AND PURPOSES, ADMISSION OF MEMBERS, CONDITIONS OF BENEFIT, &c.

(1.) Objects for which the branch is established.—This branch is established to provide, by voluntary subscriptions of the members, with [or without] the aid of donations, for the following objects, being those, or some of those, of the order, viz.:—(a) The relief or maintenance of the members, their husbands, wives, children, fathers, mothers, brothers or sisters, nephews or nieces, and wards, being orphans, during sickness or other infirmity, whether bodily or mental; in old age, being any age after [fifty] years, and in widowhood. (b) The relief or maintenance of the orphan children of members during their minority. (c) Insuring money to be paid on the death of a member, or for the funeral expenses of the husband, wife, or child of a member, or the widow of a deceased member. (d) The relief or maintenance of the members when on travel in search of employment, or when in distressed circumstances.

(2.) Purposes for which the funds shall be applicable.—All moneys received on account of contributions, donations, admissions, fines, or otherwise, shall be applied towards carrying out the above-mentioned objects, according to the rules and tables (if any) thereof. Any officer misapplying the funds shall repay the same and be excluded, without prejudice to his liability to prosecution for such misapplication.

(3.) *Terms of Admission of Members.

(4.) Conditions under which members may become entitled to benefits.—*

No money shall be paid upon the death (elsewhere than at sea) of a member or other person whose death is or ought to be entered in any register of deaths, except upon the production of a certificate of such death under the hand of the registrar of deaths, or other person having the care of the register of deaths in which such death is or ought to be entered, Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (2); nor upon the death of a child under ten years of age, except upon the production of such certificate of death as is required by Section 28 of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and otherwise in conformity with the provisions of the said Act.

(5.) *Fines and forfeitures to be imposed on members.

(6.) Contribution to the fund under the control of the central body; Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 29 (2).—This branch shall contribute [through the district] the sum of _____ to the _____ fund under the control of the central body of the order.

(7.) Control of the central body over this branch: Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 4.—In all matters not provided for by the rules of the branch [and of the district,] the branch shall be under the control of the central body of the order, subject to the rules of the order.

IV. MEETINGS—RIGHT OF VOTING.*

* Or "unity," or "institution," or "society," &c., &c., according to the usual designation of the parent body.

* No person under the age of 16 years may be a member of a branch unless it is one consisting wholly of members under 16.

* If the branch is not to be in district, words relating to a district are to be omitted.

* So much of this rule as is not intended to be adopted by the branch should be omitted, and if the society has, and the branch is to have any other of the objects authorised by the Act, they should be stated, following closely the words of Section 8 of the Act, as in this model.

* Any other age after 50 may be stated.

* Here should be stated in what manner a candidate for membership is to be proposed and elected; what entrance fee, if any, he is to pay; what classes of persons, if any, are not to be eligible for membership, &c.

* Here should be stated with respect to each benefit, what are the contributions payable to assure it, for how long they must be paid before a member is to be entitled to the benefit, and in what manner a member is to make and prove his claim, &c.

* Here is to be stated the amount of every fine, the cause for which it is to be inflicted, and the authority empowered to inflict it. A rule which imposes a fine or forfeiture not of a fixed or limited amount is not in accordance with the Act.

* Here should be stated how often, when and where, meetings are to be held; what notice is to be given of them; by whose authority and how meetings are to be specially called, and upon what requisition; whether any and what number of members is necessary to constitute a quorum, either generally or in any particular cases; who is to take the chair; what are the qualifications of voters; whether votes may be given by proxy, and how questions on which there is an equality of votes are to be decided.

V. NEW RULES, AND ALTERATION OF RULES. *

Appendix (D.)

No new rule shall be made, nor any of the rules herein contained, or hereafter to be made shall be amended, altered, or rescinded, unless with the consent of a majority of the members present at a general meeting of the branch specially called for that purpose.

VI. APPOINTMENT AND REMOVAL OF TRUSTEES, COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT, TREASURER, AND OTHER OFFICERS.

This branch shall have [three] trustees, and on the death, resignation in writing, or removal of any of the trustees named in the application for registry of the branch, others shall be appointed in their stead by a special meeting of the court. There shall also be a committee of management consisting of ten persons, a treasurer and secretary [and two auditors*]. The committee of management, treasurer, and secretary, shall continue in office until the general annual meeting of the branch, unless previously removed by a resolution of the major part of the members present at any meeting called for that purpose; and at every annual meeting a committee of management, treasurer, and secretary, shall be appointed for the ensuing year, or in failure thereof, those last appointed shall be considered as again appointed; and in case any member of the committee of management, treasurer, or secretary, shall die, or be removed prior to such annual meeting, the committee of management shall appoint a person to fill the vacancy. The trustees shall continue in office during the pleasure of the branch, and be removable at a general meeting; and, in case of a vacancy, another shall be elected by a majority of members at a meeting called for that purpose. A copy of every resolution appointing a trustee shall be sent to the secretary of the order within [7] days after the date of the meeting at which such resolution was passed.

* Auditors need not be appointed if the accounts are audited by a public auditor.

VII. POWERS AND DUTIES OF OFFICERS.

1. The committee of management shall meet on every _____ at the hour of _____. Any (six) of the committee of management duly assembled at any such meeting shall form a quorum, and shall have full power to superintend and conduct the business of this branch according to the rules provided for the government thereof, and shall in all things act for and in the name of this branch; and all acts and orders under the powers delegated to them shall have the like force and effect as the acts and orders of this branch at any general meeting. Every question at such meeting shall be decided by a majority of votes, and if the votes are equal the chairman shall have a casting vote. Any (two) of the committee of management may call a special meeting thereof, by giving (seven) clear days' notice in writing to the secretary, but at such special meeting no other business than that specified in the notice shall be taken into consideration. The committee of management shall convene all the meetings of the branch on such requisitions as are herein mentioned.

2. The treasurer shall, in the month of _____ in every year, and also when required by a general meeting, or by the trustees or committee of management, upon demand made, or notice in writing given to him or left at his last or usual place of residence, render a just and true account of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the branch, and shall also, on the like demand or notice, pay over all moneys and deliver all property for the time being in his hands or custody to such persons as a general meeting, or the committee of management, or the trustees appoint. He shall be responsible for such sums of money as may from time to time be paid into his hands by the secretary, or by any person on account of this branch; he shall balance his cash account monthly, and supply the secretary with a duplicate thereof, and shall, if required, attend every general meeting. He shall, before taking upon himself the execution of his office, give security, pursuant to the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 20 (1).

3. The secretary shall give his attendance at all meetings of this branch; he shall record correctly the names of the members of the committee of management or trustees there present, and the minutes of their proceedings, which he shall transcribe into a book to be authenticated by the signature of the chairman as the proceedings of the meeting; he shall receive proposals for admission, and demands for allowances of every description granted by the rules; he shall keep the accounts, documents, and papers of the branch in such manner and for such purposes as the committee may appoint, and shall prepare all returns and other documents, required by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, or the Treasury Regulations, to be sent to the Registrar. The secretary shall, on all occasions, in the execution of his office, act under the superintendence, control, and directions of the committee of management.

4. The trustees shall be admitted to all meetings of the committee of management, and shall be at liberty to take part in the proceedings thereof, and vote on any question under discussion.

5. In case any trustee being removed shall refuse or neglect to assign or transfer any property of the branch as the committee of management shall direct, he shall (if he be a member) member) be expelled the branch, and shall cease to have any claim on it on account of any contributions² paid by him, without prejudice to any liability to prosecution which he may have incurred.

VIII. COPIES OF RULES.

* If no distinction is intended, the words in brackets may be omitted. Any other figures not exceeding 1 s. may be inserted.

It shall be the duty of the committee of management to provide the secretary with a sufficient number of copies of the rules, to enable him to deliver to any person on demand a copy of such rules on payment of a sum not exceeding 1 s. [*for non-members, and 6 d. for members], and of the secretary to deliver such copies accordingly.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 13 (5).

IX. KEEPING AND AUDITING OF ACCOUNTS.

(1.) The committee of management shall cause the accounts of the branch to be regularly entered in proper books.

(2.) Separate accounts shall be kept of all moneys received or paid on account of every particular fund or benefit assured by the branch, for which a separate table of contributions payable is adopted, distinct from all moneys received and paid on account of any other benefit or fund.

(3.) A separate account shall also be kept of the expenses of management of the branch, and of all contributions on account thereof.

(4.) The committee of management shall, once at least in every year, submit such accounts, together with a general statement of the same and all necessary vouchers up to the 31st December then last, for audit, either to one of the public auditors appointed under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, or to two or more persons appointed as auditors by the members at the meeting next before each yearly meeting of the branch, and shall lay before every such meeting a balance sheet, showing the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the branch, together with a statement of the affairs of the branch since the last ordinary meeting, and of their then condition. Such auditors shall have access to all the books and accounts of the branch, and shall examine every balance sheet of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the branch, and shall verify the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto, and shall either sign the same as found by them to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or shall specially report to the meeting of the branch before which the same is laid in what respects they find it incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (b, c).

X. ANNUAL RETURNS.

1. Every year before the 1st June the committee of management shall cause the secretary of this branch to send to the secretary of the order an annual return, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the branch, and of the number of members of the same, up to the 31st December then last inclusively, as audited and laid before a general meeting, showing separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of the branch, together with a copy of the auditor's report, if any.

2. Such return shall state whether the audit has been conducted by a public auditor appointed under the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and by whom, and if such audit has been conducted by any person or persons other than a public auditor, shall state the name, address, and calling or profession of each of such persons, and the manner in which, and the authority under which, they were respectively appointed.

XI. QUINQUENNIAL RETURNS.

* If the branch does not insure against sickness, the words "sickness and" to be left out.

Within six calendar months after the expiration of every five years succeeding the 31st December 1875, the committee of management shall cause a return, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar, of the sickness* and mortality experienced by the branch during the five years preceding the 31st December then last past to be sent by the secretary of the branch to the secretary of the order.

XII. VALUATIONS.

1. Once at least in the five years next following the date of the registry of the branch, and so again within six calendar months after the expiration of every five years succeeding the date of the first valuation to be made under these rules, the assets and liabilities of the branch (including the estimated risks and contributions) shall be valued in manner provided by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 f).

2. It shall be the duty of any valuer appointed by the branch at the cost of the branch, to make a report to be signed by him, and which shall also state his address and calling or profession, on the condition of the branch, and also an abstract of the results of his valuation, in the form prescribed by the Chief Registrar.

3. On

3. On receiving such report it shall be the duty of the committee of management to call forthwith a special meeting of the branch for the purpose of receiving the same, and to lay such report and the abstract of the results of valuation before such meeting; and to cause the secretary to forward such report and abstract to the Registrar within the six months aforesaid, together with a return containing such information with respect to the benefits assured and contributions receivable by the branch, and to its funds and effects, debts and credits, as the Registrar may from time to time require.

XIII. INSPECTION OF BOOKS.

1. The books and accounts of the branch shall be open to the inspection of any member or person having an interest in the funds of the branch at all reasonable times, at the place where the branch is established, or at any place where the same are kept.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 g).

2. It shall be the duty of the committee of management to keep a copy of the last annual balance sheet of the branch for the time being, together with the report of the auditors, if any, and of the last quinquennial valuation for the time being, always hung up in a conspicuous place at the office of the branch.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 i).

3. It shall be the duty of the committee of management to provide the secretary with a sufficient number of copies of the annual return, or of some balance sheet or other document duly audited containing the same particulars as to the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the branch, for supplying gratuitously every member or person interested in the funds of the branch, on his application, with a copy of the last annual return, or of such balance sheet or other document as aforesaid, for the time being, and it shall be the duty of the secretary to supply such gratuitous copies on application accordingly.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 14 (1 h).

XIV. INVESTMENT OF FUNDS, HOLDING OF LAND, &c.

1. So much of the funds of the branch as may not be wanted for immediate use, or to meet the usual accruing liabilities, shall, with the consent of the committee of management, or of a majority of the members of the branch present and entitled to vote at a general meeting, be invested by the trustees in such of the following ways as such committee or general meeting shall direct: namely, in any savings bank, in the public funds, or with the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt, or upon Government or real securities in Great Britain or Ireland,*

[* Any other securities upon which it is proposed the funds should be invested should here be specified.]

or in the purchase of land, or in the erection or alteration of offices or other buildings thereon as after mentioned.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 16 (1).

2. The committee of management, with the consent of a special meeting of the branch called for the purpose, may in the name of the branch purchase or take on lease in the names of the trustees any land,* and may sell, exchange, mortgage, lease or build upon the same (with power to alter and pull down buildings and again rebuild), and no purchaser, assignee, mortgagee, or tenant shall be bound to inquire as to the authority for any sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease by the trustees, and the receipt of the trustees shall be a discharge for all moneys arising from or in connection with such sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, s. 16 (2).

* If the extent or value of the land is to be limited, add here "not exceeding acres" (stating quantity) or "not exceeding in value £." (stating value).

XV. NOMINATION.

1. The secretary shall keep a book in which he shall register or record all nominations made by members of the branch aged 16 years or upwards, by writing, signed by them, delivered at or sent to the office of the branch, of any person or persons not being officers or servants of the branch (unless any such officer or servant be the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator) to whom any moneys payable by the branch on the death of such members not exceeding 50 l. shall be paid.

2. The secretary shall in like manner record or register all revocations or variations of such nominations by the nominator, made in writing, and signed and delivered or sent as aforesaid.

3. The nominator shall pay 3 d. to the management fund for the receiving or registering of every such nomination, revocation, or variation.

4. The secretary neglecting to ask a new member to nominate within three calendar months of his admission to pay a fine of 3 d.

5. All nominations, revocations, or variations to be in the following form:—

(1.) Nomination.

Branch of the _____ Friendly Society, registered pursuant to the Friendly Societies Act, 18 _____

I hereby nominate _____, in the county of _____, to receive the money payable at my death under the rules of the branch and society above named, not exceeding 50 l.

Signature.

Witness.

Appendix (D.)

(2.) Revocation.

I hereby revoke the above nomination.

Witness. _____ Signature,
_____ 18 .

(3.) Variation.

I hereby vary the above nomination as follows:—

I nominate _____, of _____, in the county of _____, to receive [one-half] of the money payable at my death as aforesaid in lieu of the above named.

Witness. _____ Signature,
_____ 18 .

Friendly Societies Act, 1875, section 15 (3).

XVI. VOLUNTARY DISSOLUTION.

of branch.

With the consent of the central body of the order, the branch may at any time be dissolved by the consent of five-sixths in value of the members, including honorary members, if any, testified by their signatures to some instrument of dissolution in the form provided by the Treasury Regulations in that behalf, and also by the written consent of every person for the time being receiving, or entitled to receive, any relief, annuity, or other benefit from the funds of the branch, unless the claim of such person be first duly satisfied, or adequate provision made for satisfying such claim; the value of members to be ascertained by giving one vote to every member, and an additional vote for every five years that he has been a member, but to no one member more than five votes in the whole.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Section 25 (1, 3, 7).

XVII. APPLICATIONS FOR INSPECTION, SPECIAL MEETINGS, OR DISSOLUTION.

It shall be the right of one-fifth of the total number of members, or if the number of members shall at any time amount to 1,000, and shall not exceed 10,000, it shall be the right of 100 members, or if the number shall at any time exceed 10,000, it shall be the right of 500 members, but with the consent in all cases of the central body of the order, by an application in writing to the Chief Registrar,* signed by them in the forms respectively provided by the Treasury Regulations in that behalf—

* If the branch is registered and does business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, instead of the words "chief registrar" insert the words "assistant registrar for Scotland," or, "for Ireland," as the case may be.

(a.) To apply for the appointment of one or more inspectors to examine into the affairs of the branch, as respects any separate fund or funds of the same, and to report thereon.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Section 23 (1);

(b.) To apply for the calling of a special meeting of the branch, in respect of any matter relating to such separate fund or funds.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Section 23 (2);

Either such application to be made upon such notice to the branch, and to be supported by such evidence for the purpose of showing that the applicants have good reason for requiring such inspection to be made or meeting to be called, and that they are not actuated by malicious motives in their application, as the Chief Registrar shall direct;

(c.) Or to apply for an investigation into the affairs of the branch with a view to the dissolution thereof;

Such application as last aforesaid to set forth that the funds of the branch are insufficient to meet the existing claims thereon, or that the rates of contribution fixed in the rules of such branch are insufficient to cover the benefits assured, and the grounds upon which such insufficiency is alleged.—Friendly Societies Act, 1875, Section 25 (8).

XVIII. DISPUTES.

1. If any dispute shall arise between a member, or person claiming through a member, or under the rules of the branch, and the branch, or any officer thereof, it shall be referred to arbitration.

2. At the second meeting of the branch, after the registry of the same,* five arbitrators shall be elected, none of them being directly or indirectly interested in the funds of the branch; and in each case of dispute the names of the arbitrators shall be written on pieces of paper and placed in a box or glass, and the three whose names are first drawn out by the complaining party, or by some one appointed by him or her, shall be the arbitrators to decide on the matter in difference. In case of a vacancy, or vacancies, another arbitrator, or other arbitrators, shall be elected at a general meeting;

or,

APPENDIX (E).*

MEMORANDUM for the Guidance of Societies under the FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 60).

Appendix (E.)

1. TO SOCIETIES ALREADY ENROLLED OR CERTIFIED:—

You need not be again registered under the new Act (see, however, hereafter as to orders).

You become on the 1st January 1876 “registered societies,” enjoying all the privileges, and subject to all the requirements of the new Act, and your rules remain valid, unless contrary to some express provision of the Act. When you wish to amend your rules the Registrar will supply you with a form of application for the purpose.

Branches of Orders.—Although so called, you do not become branches within the meaning of the Act until registered as such, and you cannot be registered as such until your present registry is cancelled. Till then, you remain separate societies. You only remain such as long as you please, but whilst you are such, no future amendments will be passed which imply that you are branches only, under the control of the central body. (See also post, 3.)

When you are registered as branches you will be legally under the control of the central body of the order, although you must continue to have a separate fund under the administration of the branch. If you wish to have your registry cancelled for the above purpose, the Registrar will supply you with a form of request.

Orders.—You will probably find it advisable to re-register yourselves as societies with branches, if you wish to have the character of single societies, the central body of which shall have legal control over the branches.† Forms of application for this purpose will be obtained from the Registrar.

Even if the order itself does not re-register, it will in most cases be advisable that its districts should have their registry cancelled and re-register as branches under the Act. The Act does not appear to allow of the same body being a branch of two registered societies, although there is nothing to prevent its being a branch of another branch of a registered society. Consequently a lodge or court now unregistered of a registered district could not be registered as a branch of the order without dropping all legal connection with the district as a superior authority; but if the district be itself re-registered as a branch, there is nothing to hinder a lodge or court from being registered as a branch both of the district and of the order.

Collecting Societies.—All societies receiving contributions by means of collectors at a greater distance than 10 miles from their place of business (which is to be deemed their registered office until changed) are subject, as from 1st January 1876, to all the provisions of Section 30 of the Act. Any rules contrary to such provisions, for instance, rules throwing members out of benefit without a written or printed notice, allowing collectors to be officers or members of the committee, or to vote or take part in meetings, providing for general meetings at longer intervals than one year, excluding the jurisdiction in disputes of the county courts or of a court of summary jurisdiction, &c. have ceased to be in force from the same period.

Societies insuring Money on Death.—If you insure money on the deaths of children under 10 years of age you are specially affected by Section 28 of the Act, and can make no such contracts otherwise than under the provisions of that section. Certificates of death by the registrars of death are henceforth requisite in all cases, and forms of such certificates can be obtained from such registrars.

2. TO SOCIETIES WHOSE RULES ARE DEPOSITED, BUT NOT CERTIFIED:—

All rights attaching to the deposit of your rules will cease on 31st December 1878, after which time the deposit will afford no protection. No further rules can be deposited.

3. TO LODGES, COURTS, &c., OF ORDERS NOT ON THE REGISTER BY 1ST JANUARY 1876:—

If you wish to be registered as separate societies, as has been the law hitherto, you can only be admitted to do so by leaving out from your rules all that would show that you are branches of an order. If you choose to be registered as branches of a registered society you may have your own trustees, and must have a fund administered by the branch,

* An amended edition of this memorandum has been prepared to suit the new Act.

† On further consideration, the re-registry of the order itself has not appeared to be necessary, provided its rules (which may be amended for the purpose) satisfy all the conditions which the Act appears to require for a society with branches.

Appendix (E)

branch, or by a committee or officers appointed by it. Your amendments of rules will then have to be supported by a declaration of an officer of the society (not of the branch), and your notices of change of place and of appointment of trustees or officer to sue and be sued, will have to be sent in to the Registrar through the society; nor will you have any separate annual or quinquennial return to make (except through your orders), as the annual and quinquennial returns of a society must include those of all its registered branches.

4. TO INDUSTRIAL ASSURANCE COMPANIES:—

You are included within Section 28 of the Act, and also, if you receive contributions by means of collectors at a greater distance than 10 miles from your registered office, within Sub-sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 11, 12, and 13 of Section 30.

5. TO PERSONS ABOUT TO FORM SOCIETIES:—

In order to register a society an application in a special form is now requisite in all cases (as it was already for building societies and trade unions). This form will be supplied by the Registrar on application.

6. GENERALLY:—

Regulations for carrying the Act into effect have been made, and forms prescribed by the Treasury. Copies of such regulations and forms may be obtained from the Registrars.

The Registrars having privilege of postage, your communications with them on matters relating to the working of the Act if marked outside—“ON HER MAJESTY’S SERVICE,” or O. H. M. S., need not be stamped. All forms will also be supplied gratis, but in certain cases (see Regulation 58) fees are now payable in respect of Friendly Societies.

The Registrars will be prepared to do their best for putting the Act into useful operation. But it is not their duty, nor is it possible for them to advise nearly 25,000 societies, still less 4,000,000 of members of those societies, as to the proper conducting of their business, the carrying out or legal interpretation of their rules, the duties of their officers, or the individual rights and liabilities of members. Nor would it be proper for them to express opinions on such matters on the representations of either a society or a member, seeing that under the new Act disputes may by consent of both parties be referred to them, which they have no right to prejudge.

In writing to the Registrars the following addresses will be sufficient:—

For England—

“ The Registrar of Friendly Societies,
“ 28, Abingdon-street, Westminster,
“ London, S.W.”

O. H. M. S.

or if the communication has to be addressed to the Chief Registrar,

“ The Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies,
“ 28, Abingdon-street, Westminster,
“ London, S.W.”

O. H. M. S.

For Scotland—

“ 43, New Register House, “ Edinburgh.”

O. H. M. S.

For Ireland—

“ 9, Upper Ormond Quay, “ Dublin.”

O. H. M. S.

PRINCIPAL ALTERATIONS EFFECTED BY THE NEW ACT.

1. One Registry Office for the three kingdoms, consisting of a Chief Registrar and Assistant Registrars subordinate to him in England, Scotland, and Ireland. Section 10.

2. Rules no longer to be certified as being in conformity with law; an acknowledgment of registry to be given in place of the certificate. Section 11 (7).

3. Societies not to be registered under names likely to deceive the members or the public as to their identity. Section 11 (3).

4. Old age defined to commence at 50; annuities grantable up to 50 l.; the certificate of any actuary approved by the Treasury allowed for annuity tables; purposes slightly extended (insurance up to 15 l. of tools and implements against fire allowed, &c.). Section 8.

5. Dividing societies may be registered. Section 11 (4).

6. Deposit of rules by unregistered societies no longer allowed; advantages of deposit to cease after 31st December 1878. Section 7.

7. Registry may be cancelled on request, or cancelled or suspended in case of fraud, mistake, &c. Section 12.

8. Appeal given to a court of law from the Registrar's refusal to certify, and from cancelling or renewed suspension. Sections 11 (8 and 9), 12 (4).

9. Applications for registry to be signed by seven members at least; new provisions as to registry. Section 11 (1), &c.

10. Registered office required. Section 14, 1 (a).

11. Yearly audits required, and powers and duties of auditors defined. Section 14 (1 c).

12. Annual returns in specified forms required in all cases. Section 14 (1 d).

13. Valuations required every five years. Section 14 (1 f).

14. Public auditors and valuers to be appointed by the Treasury, but their employment not compulsory. Section 35.

15. Various provisions to secure to members and persons interested a knowledge of their rights and obligations, and of the affairs of societies. Sections 13 (5), 14 (1 g, h, i).

16. Power to Chief Registrar, on the application of a certain proportion or number of members, to order inspection of the affairs of a society, or the calling of special meetings. Section 23.

17. No payments on death to be made except upon certificates of registrars of death, &c., but the cost of certificates of birth or death limited to 1 s. Sections 14 (2), 15 (9).

18. Right of nomination in favour of any person not an officer or servant of the society, but only to be exercised by persons 16 years old or upwards. Section 15 (3).

19. Minors under 16 not to be members of any future adult society. Special regulations as to societies and branches composed only of minors between three and 16. No minor under three to be a member of any future society. Section 15 (8).

20. Investments (except in juvenile societies) may be made on any security (not personal) which the rules may direct. Section 16 (1).

21. Power to acquire land to any amount, and to build, &c., if the rules so provide, with certain privileges as to copyholds and the discharge of mortgages. Section 16 (2, 6, 7).

22. Power to form a loan fund, for the benefit of members only, under certain restrictions. Section 18 (2).

23. Greater facilities of prosecution for fraud and misappropriation. Sections 16 (9), 33.

24. Option to societies of conducting legal proceedings in the names of officers to sue and be sued instead of trustees. Section 21 (1).

25. Societies may be sued by members, or those claiming from them through any local officer who receives contributions. Section 21 (2).

26. Disputes may be referred by consent to the Registrar, unless the rules forbid such reference. Section 22 (a).

27. Special resolutions required for changes of name, amalgamations, transfers of engagements, or conversions into a company. Section 24.

28. Societies authorised to dissolve at fixed periods; an instrument of dissolution substituted for the agreement for dissolution. Section 25.

29. The number of members who can apply to the Registrar for an award of dissolution greatly reduced. The Registrar empowered to dissolve on evidence that contributions are insufficient to cover benefits, without waiting for actual insolvency. Section 25 (8).

30. Payments on the death of children under 10 only to be made on the certificate of a registrar of deaths, and under more stringent conditions. Section 28.

31. Societies with branches, i.e., affiliated orders, legally recognised as such, and special provisions made for registering them. Section 29.

Appendix (E.)

32. Stringent provisions as to collecting societies (or industrial assurance companies) where they collect at a greater distance than 10 miles from the registered office or principal place of business. Section 30, and Regulation 57.

33. A more complete system of penalties, generally of from 1 l. to 5 l., but which may rise to 50 l. in cases of falsification. Sections 14 (3, 4), 32.

34. An appeal given from the convictions and orders of magistrates. Section 33 (6).

35. Special provisions in some respects for cattle insurance societies, benevolent societies, and working men's clubs. Sections 11 (4), 14 (6), 15 (3), 16 (2), 25 (1).

37. The Treasury empowered to allow specially authorised societies to have legally binding rules and enforceable contributions. Section 31.

38. Special provisions for applying the Act to the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man. Sections 40, 41.

39. The Treasury authorised to make regulations for carrying the Act into effect. Section 38.

APPENDIX (F).[Appendix (F.)

THIRD REPORT of the Actuarial Commissioners appointed by the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for Purposes connected with the "FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875."

TABLES Recommended for Temporary Use.

WE are of opinion that, pending the preparation of new tables under the Act of last Session, tables of rates of contribution, based upon Mr. Ratcliffe's tables of sickness and mortality, deduced from the experience for the years 1866-70 of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows, rural, town, and city districts combined, may be generally adopted for benefits usually granted by Friendly Societies.

We have accordingly calculated upon this basis a set of tables, which we have the honour to submit to your Lordships, showing the annual contributions, payable in weekly or monthly instalments, required for securing the following benefits, viz. :—

1. Sickness allowance until 65, of 1 l. a week.
2. Sickness allowance until age 70, of 1 l. a week.
3. Deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of 1 l. a week, commencing at age 65.
4. Deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of 1 l. a week, commencing at age 70.
5. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions being payable throughout life.
6. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions ceasing at age 65.
7. Assurance of 10 l. at death, the contributions ceasing at age 70.

To provide for an assurance of 10 l. at the death of the wife of a member, we consider that the same rate of contribution should be charged as for an assurance of a similar amount at the death of the member.

We recommend that a provision be inserted in the rules of any society, adopting the rates of contribution for sickness allowance, to the effect that the allowance to be reduced to half-pay after 12 months' full pay has been allowed, and shall be further reduced to quarter pay after 12 months' half pay has been allowed.

This condition, although not taken into account in the calculation of the rates of contribution, is rendered advisable in order to make provision for the possibility of some of the

the members remaining on the sick list for a longer period than is provided for in the tables. A fluctuation of this nature would have an untoward effect upon the finances of the society, when the number of members is not large enough to supply a steady basis for the operation of average. Appendix (F.)

To these tables we have added a memorandum, indicating certain classes of persons to which the rates of contribution would not be applicable, and stating certain conditions under which alone we consider that the tables may safely be adopted.

In the event of application being made at any time for a table of contributions to provide an allowance in sickness throughout the whole of life, we would suggest that the Registrar should advise the adoption of a table providing for a sickness allowance, ceasing at a certain age (65 or 70), combined with a table providing for a deferred annuity (or superannuation allowance) of (say) half the amount of the sickness allowance.

We have recommended the Manchester Unity tables of sickness and mortality as a basis for rates of contribution, but we are of opinion that it would not be advisable to recommend any tables for the purpose of valuation. No doubt the Manchester Unity tables would be suitable for a very large number of societies, but the actuary employed should be guided by the circumstances in each case, in selecting the proper tables to be used.

TABLES of CONTRIBUTIONS referred to in the foregoing REPORT.

MEMORANDUM.

1. These Tables are not applicable to coopers' and brewers' labourers, dock labourers, mariners, miners, plumbers and workers, potters, sawyers, stonemasons, watermen, nor to persons engaged in any other occupation, which, in the opinion of the committee of management of a society, is considered unhealthy in their locality.

2. The Tables do not contain any provision for expenses of management.

3. It is essential that the total funds of any society adopting these Tables be always invested at compound interest, at not less than 3 per cent., so that if any portion of the fund is at the Bank not earning interest, or earning a lower interest than 3 per cent., the other portion of the funds must be invested so as to yield a sufficient surplus beyond 3 per cent. to make up an average of at least 3 per cent. upon the entire funds.

4. Provision should be made in the rules of any society adopting these Tables, that the total sickness allowance for a member should be allowed to subscribe, should not exceed three-fourths of his usual earnings; also, that a member remain off the sick list for a period of not less than six months, before he can again claim full pay.

APPENDIX (G).

THE FRIENDLY SOCIETIES AMENDMENT ACT (1876).

Appendix (G.)

(39 & 40 Vict. c. 32.)

An Act to amend the Friendly Societies Act, 1875.—24th July 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend on some points the Friendly Societies Act, 1875:—

Be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. This Act shall be construed as one with the Friendly Societies Act, 1875 (herein termed "the principal Act"), and may be cited as "The Friendly Societies Amendment Act, 1876," or together with the principal Act as "The Friendly Societies Acts."

Construction of Act.
Short title.

2. In this Act the term "Treasury regulations" means any regulations made and approved by the Treasury and for the time being in force under and by virtue of the principal Act.

Meaning of "Treasury regulations."

3. With respect to the conversion of registered societies into branches the following provisions shall have effect:

Conversion of registered societies into branches.

(1.) A society registered before the First day of January One thousand eight hundred and seventy-six may, by a resolution passed by three fourths of the members or delegates present and entitled to vote at any general meeting, of which notice specifying the intention to propose such resolution has been duly given according to the rules, determine to become a branch under the Friendly Societies Acts of any other registered society, and also, if thought fit, of any registered branch thereof; and if the rules of such society do not comply with all the provisions of the principal Act and of the Treasury regulations in respect of the registry of branches, the meeting at which such resolution is passed may amend such rules so as to bring the same in compliance with the principal Act and with the Treasury regulations.

(2.) A copy of the rules of such first-mentioned society marked to show the amendments, if any, made at such meeting, and two copies of such resolution as aforesaid, and of such amendment of rules, if any, each signed by the chairman of the meeting and by the secretary of the society so determining to become a branch of any other society, and countersigned by the secretary of such other society, shall be sent to the registrar, and if the registrar finds that such rules, with or without such amendment as aforesaid, comply with the provisions of the Act and of the Treasury regulations, he shall cancel the registry of such first-mentioned society and register the same as a branch of such other society, and also, if so specified in the resolution before mentioned, of any branch of such other society, without further request or notice, and shall register such amendment of rules without further application or evidence, and until such registry such resolution as aforesaid shall not take effect.

(3.) No advertisement of any cancelling of registry under this section shall be requisite.

(4.) The rules of a society which becomes a branch under this section shall, so far as the same are not contrary to any express provision of the principal Act or of the Treasury regulations, and subject to any amendment thereof as hereinbefore provided, continue in force as the rules of such branch until amended.

4. Nothing in the principal Act or in this Act contained shall prevent any registered society or branch from contributing to the funds or taking part by delegates or otherwise in the government of any other registered society or registered branch of a society, as may be provided in the rules of such first-named society or branch, without becoming a branch under the Friendly Societies Acts of such other society or branch.

Registered societies may contribute to funds of other societies.

5. The acknowledgment of registry of a branch, and of any amendment of the rules of a branch, shall be in the forms provided in the schedule to this Act.

Forms of acknowledgment of registry for branches.

6. It is declared that the word "society" extends to a registered branch in sub-sections (5) and (6) of section 13, sub-sections (2), (3), and (4) of section 14, sub-sections (1) to (7), both included, (9) and (10) of section 15, sub-sections (1), (6), (7), (9), and (10) of section 16, sections 17, 19, and 20, sub-sections (2) and (4) of section 21, sections 22, 26, 28, 30, 31, 32, and 33 of the principal Act.

Term "society" when to include registered branch.

Appendix (G.)

As to deaths at sea.

Amendment in fees payable on certificates of births or deaths.

What shall be sufficient distribution of annual return.

Amendment of sub-sections (3) and (6) of s. 15 of principal Act.

Notice of proceedings or order to set aside dissolution.

Correction of misprint in Schedule II.

7. Section 14, sub-section (2) of the principal Act shall not apply to deaths at sea.

8. Whenever application is made at one time to any registrar or other person having the care of any register of births or deaths for more certificates than one of the same birth or death for the purposes of and in the manner prescribed by section 15, sub-section 9, or section 28, sub-section 3 of the principal Act, the sum charged for every such certificate other than the first shall not exceed 6 d.; and whenever the registrar or other person having the care of the register is required by the person applying for any certificate of birth or death to fill up the form of application, he may demand a sum not exceeding 3 d. for so doing.

9. It shall be a sufficient compliance with Section 14, sub-section (1), sub-head (h) of the principal Act, if the society supplies gratuitously every member or person interested with a balance sheet or other document duly audited, containing the same particulars as to the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society as are contained in the annual return.

10. Section 15, sub-section (3) of the principal Act shall be read as if after the words "not being an officer or servant of the society" there were inserted the words "unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator," and sub-section (6) of the said section shall be read as if instead of the words "absent from England or Ireland respectively," there were substituted the words "absent from Great Britain or Ireland respectively."

11. Notice shall be sent to the central office of any proceeding to set aside the dissolution of a society or branch, not less than seven days before it is commenced, by the person taking such proceeding, and of any order setting a dissolution aside, by the society or branch, within seven days after such order is made.

12. In Schedule II. to the principal Act the provision marked 5 and beginning with the words "the right of one-fifth" shall be read as if, instead of the words "five thousand," there were inserted therein the words "ten thousand."

Appendix (H.)

APPENDIX (H).

1.—INSTRUCTIONS OF REGISTRAR GENERAL.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACT, 1875. (38 & 39 Vict. c. 60.)

INSTRUCTIONS to Registrars and others having the Custody of Registers of Births and Deaths as to their Duties under the above Act.

By the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, it has been enacted that on and after 1st January 1876, registrars of births and deaths and other persons having the custody of registers of births and deaths shall, for a sum not exceeding 1 s. grant any certificate of a birth or death that may be required for the purposes of the Act, on application being made for the same same in such form and under such regulations as shall be approved of by the Registrar General. (Section 15, Sub-section 9.) No further sum whatever, even for a search, can therefore be charged for any such certificate.

Registrars are instructed by their regulations (No. 24, page 18,) to require informants to produce a certificate of the cause of death of every person who, during his or her last illness, was attended by a registered medical practitioner, and respecting whose death no inquest has been held.

When about to register the death of a child under 10 years of age whose parents belong to the labouring classes, the registrar should inquire whether any sum of money is payable on such death by any society or industrial assurance company; and in every case in which any such child was during its last illness attended by a registered medical practitioner, and no inquest has been held, the Registrar should require the informant to produce a certificate of the cause of death signed by such practitioner.

Forms.

The Registrar General has caused forms of the four following descriptions to be prepared, namely,—

No. 1. Form of application for a certificate of the death of a person aged 10 years or upwards;

No. 2. Form of application for a certificate of the death of a child between five and 10 years of age;

No. 3. Form of application for a certificate of the death of a child under five years of age;

No. 4. Form of application for a certificate of birth.

On every such form the following regulations are printed, and the approval of the Registrar General is signified:—

“Regulations under which Applications for Certificates of Birth [or Death] for the Purposes of the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, must be made.

“The application must be made on a form similar to this, and must be signed by the applicant; and the fee of 1s. must be paid at the time the application is made.

“The application may be made on any day except Sunday, Good Friday, and Christmas Day.

“If the application is made otherwise than personally, it must, with the fee of 1s., be conveyed to the Registrar (or other person) free of all cost to him; and an envelope or cover of the proper size must also be sent, fully addressed to the person to whom this document is to be returned. If it is to be returned by post, the necessary postage stamps must be affixed to such envelope or cover.”

The above forms are supplied by the Registrar General to all Registrars of Births and Deaths and Superintendent Registrars, by whom they will be furnished to officers of societies and industrial assurance companies, and to other applicants.

Applications for Certificates.

Every application for a certificate of a birth or death for the purposes of the above-mentioned Act must be made on one of the above forms appropriate to the circumstances of the case.

Whenever application is made for a certificate of the death of a child between five and 10 years of age, or for a certificate of the death of a child under five years of age, the applicant must state on the form the name of the society or industrial assurance company from which a sum of money is sought to be obtained, and the sum sought to be obtained. (Section 28, Sub-section 3.) And such sum must not, together with the moneys mentioned in any previous certificate or certificates of the same death, exceed 10*l.* in the case of a child between five and 10 years of age, and must not exceed 6*l.* in the case of a child under five years of age. (Section 28, Sub-section 4.)

If the applicant is unable to write, or can only do so imperfectly, the Registrar or other person having the custody of the register book may fill up the form of application.

Every application must be dated, and the applicant must affix his or her signature or mark thereto.

Certificate on FORM No. 1.

On receiving an application (on Form No. 1) for a certificate of the death of a person aged 10 years or upwards (insured with a registered Friendly Society), the Registrar or other person having the custody of the register book should at once comply therewith, by writing in the schedule on the back thereof a correct copy of the entry made in the register book.*

* N.B.—If a certificate of the death of a person aged 10 years or upwards, or a certificate of the birth of any person, insured or to be insured in an unregistered Friendly Society, or in any Benevolent Society (registered or not), or in an Industrial Assurance Company, is required, such certificate should be given on an ordinary form, and the ordinary fee of 2s. 6*d.* may be charged.

Appendix (H.)

Certificates on FORMS Nos. 2 and 3.

On receiving an application (on Form No. 2) for a certificate of the death of a child between five and 10 years of age, or an application (on Form No. 3) for a certificate of the death of a child under five years of age (required for the purpose of obtaining money from any society whatever or from an industrial assurance company), the Registrar or other person having the custody of the register book must, before granting such certificate, see whether the cause of death was recorded in the register book on the authority of the certificate of a registered medical practitioner who attended such deceased child during its last illness, or whether the death was registered on the authority of a coroner's certificate. In either of such cases, he should at once grant the required certificate.

If, however, no such medical certificate of the cause of death was produced at the time of registration and no inquest was held respecting such death, but the cause of death was recorded solely on the authority of information given by the informant, the registrar must, before issuing a certificate of the death, require the production of a certificate of the probable cause of death signed by a registered medical practitioner. If the applicant is unable to obtain such a certificate, he or she must be required to produce other "satisfactory evidence" of the probable cause of death. (Section 28, Sub-section 4.)

The Registrar General desires that in every case in which the issue of a certificate of the death of a child depends upon the production of "satisfactory evidence" of the probable cause of such death, the registrar will exercise the utmost caution in determining whether the evidence produced is really "satisfactory." A statutory declaration of the probable cause of death by a person who is not a parent of the child, and is not interested in any moneys to be received at its death, may be accepted as satisfactory evidence; but where a statutory declaration is not produced, the Registrar may accept the next best evidence he can obtain, such as the statement of an unregistered medical attendant, or of a person who was in attendance on the deceased child during its last illness, but is not a parent of the child, and is not interested in the money to be received.

If, in endeavouring to obtain such satisfactory evidence, it should appear that the death has been caused by violence, or has been attended by suspicious circumstances, the Registrar must take such means as may be necessary, either through the police or otherwise, to bring the case under the notice of the coroner, whatever may have been inserted in the entry as the cause of death. If in any such case it is determined that an inquest is unnecessary, the opinion of the coroner or the result of an inquiry by the police may be accepted as "satisfactory evidence."

On receipt of the certificate of a registered medical practitioner, or of satisfactory evidence of the probable cause of death, the Registrar may write in the schedule on the back of the form of application a correct copy of the entry made in the register book.

He should then draw a line through the words or statements in the paragraph marked (a) immediately following the schedule which do not apply to the case, so that it may plainly appear under which of the four above-mentioned conditions the certificate of the death is granted.

If it be a case in which "satisfactory evidence" of the probable cause of death has been produced, he must state in the blank space marked (b) the precise nature of such evidence, thus:—"Statutory Declaration by Richard Johnson," or "Statement of John Smith, Medical Attendant," or "Opinion of Coroner," or "Inquiry by the Police," or as the case may be.

In the blank space marked (c) he must insert the probable cause of death, if such has been ascertained by a medical certificate or by satisfactory evidence.

In the blank space marked (d) he must state whether the certificate is the "first," "second," "third," "fourth," &c., certificate of the same death which he has issued. (Section 28, Sub-section 3.)

In the blank space marked (e) he must state the name of the Friendly Society or Industrial Assurance Company from which a sum of money is sought to be obtained. (Section 28, Sub-section 3.)

In the blank space marked (f) he must state the sum of money sought to be obtained (Section 28, Sub-section 3), which sum, together with the moneys mentioned in any previous certificate or certificates of the same death, must not, in the case of a child between five and 10 years of age, exceed 10 £, and in the case of a child under five years of age, must not exceed 6 £. (Section 28, Sub-section 4.)

Certificate on FORM No. 4.

On receiving an application (on Form No. 4) for a certificate of the birth of a person (to be insured with a registered Friendly Society), the Registrar or other person having the custody of the register book should at once comply therewith, by writing in the schedule on the back thereof a correct copy of the entry made in the register book. (See Note at foot of page 555.)

Miscellaneous.

The Registrar or other person issuing the certificate must insert therein the date on which it is issued, and must affix his signature thereto. (Section 15, Sub-section 9.)

It is not necessary to affix a penny Inland Revenue stamp to any certificate issued for the purposes of this Act. (Section 15, Sub-section 2.)

Registration officers will observe that by Section 14, Sub-section 2, it is enacted that "No [registered] society shall pay any sum of money upon the death of a member or other person whose death is or ought to be entered in any register of deaths, except upon the production of a certificate of such death, under the hand of the Registrar of Deaths or other person having the care of the register of deaths in which such death is or ought to be entered;" and by Section 28, Sub-section 6, it is enacted that "It shall be an offence under this Act (a) if any society pays money on the death of a child under 10 years of age otherwise than is provided by this Act; (b) If any parent or personal representative of a parent claiming money on the death of a child produces any certificate of such death other than is herein provided to the society or societies from which the money is claimed, or produces a false certificate, or one fraudulently obtained, or in any way attempts to defeat the provisions of this Act with respect to payments upon the death of children." No money can, therefore, be paid by any registered society on the death of any person, nor by any society whatever, nor any Industrial Assurance Company on the death of a child under 10 years of age, except on the production of a certificate issued by the Registrar or other person who has the custody of the register in which such death is registered.

General Register Office, Somerset House,
London, 20 December 1875.

George Graham,
Registrar General for England.

Note.—Registrars should bear in mind that they must not, under any circumstances whatever, issue any one or more certificates of the death of a child under 10 years of age for the payment, in the whole, of a sum of money exceeding the statutory limit, 6*l.* or 10*l.*, as the case may be.

The Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies is of opinion that when a child has been insured in one or more societies for a sum exceeding the statutory limit, the Registrar should refuse to issue any certificate whatever. At the same time, however, he states that he has no legal power of determining the construction of the Act, and that his opinion is not binding.

As no judicial decision on this matter has yet been given, the Registrar General refrains from issuing precise instructions on the subject.

If any Registrar, acting on the above opinion, finds that he thereby gives offence to any person, he should refer that person to the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies.

Any Registrar may, under Section 32, Sub-sections (2) and (3), and Section 33, as an "aggrieved person," prosecute any registered society, or any officer or member of such a society, for an infringement of Section 14, Sub-section (2). Such prosecution must, however, be at his own risk and cost.

If any Registrar has reason to believe that any society or Industrial Assurance Company has offended against the provisions of Section 28, he may report the case to the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, or he may prosecute as an "aggrieved person," if so advised.

2.—FORMS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEATH.

APPENDIX (I.)

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES IN VICTORIA.

From the "Statistics of Friendly Societies for the year 1874, with Introductory Report by the Government Statist" of Victoria (Mr. H. H. Hayter), it appears that 32 societies, having 710 lodges or courts, and 42,664 members, furnished returns to him for that year. This is an apparent decrease from the year before of two societies, 10 lodges or courts, and 1,938 members; but Mr. Hayter remarks that as the Statute provides no penalty in case of the returns not being furnished, or being furnished incorrectly, many returns are forwarded in an incomplete state; a number of societies send in no returns at all, and this evil has been growing from year to year. He gives a list of 110 branches (including six entire orders) which failed to make any return, and 73 more which gave no financial return. The branches which furnished statement of their financial position, numbering 638, returned their aggregate income as 138,034 £., their expenditure as 122,428 £., and the amount to the credit of their funds as 266,073 £. Of this 225,000 £. was invested at the following rates of interest:

Under 3 per cent. - - - - -	15,000
" 3-4 " - - - - -	43,000
" 4-5 " - - - - -	42,000
" 5-6 " - - - - -	28,000
" 6-7 " - - - - -	33,000
" 7-8 " - - - - -	50,000
Over 8 " - - - - -	14,000

showing that the societies earn a mean rate of about 6 per cent. on their investments. On a mean number of 42,664 members, there were 8,262 cases of sickness, lasting for 45,964 weeks, and 395 deaths. Arranged according to ages, the largest number of members belong to the five years between 40 and 45. Phthisis is, as in England, the cause to which the largest number of deaths is attributable, claiming 78 out of the whole 395. Of 47,573 members whose occupations are given, 10,069 are miners.

"Gazette" shall mean the "London Gazette" for England, the "Edinburgh Gazette" for Scotland, and the "Dublin Gazette" for Ireland.

Repeal of Acts in first schedule.

4. The Acts set forth in the first schedule hereto shall be repealed from the commencement of this Act; but this repeal, or anything herein contained, shall not affect the past operation of the said Acts, or the force or operation, validity or invalidity, of anything done or suffered, or any bond or security given, right, title, obligation, or liability accrued, contract entered into, or proceedings taken, under any of the said Acts, or under the rules of any society registered or certified thereunder, before the commencement of this Act.

Existing societies.

5. Every incorporated society now subsisting whose rules have been registered or certified under any Act relating to industrial and provident societies, shall be deemed to be a society registered under this Act, and its rules shall, so far as the same are not contrary to any express provision of this Act, continue in force until altered or rescinded.

Societies which may be re-registered.

6. The societies which may be registered under this Act are societies (herein called industrial and provident societies) for carrying on any labour, trade, or handicraft, whether wholesale or retail, including the buying and selling of land, but as to the business of banking subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, of which societies no member other than a society registered under this Act shall have or claim an interest in the funds exceeding two hundred pounds sterling.

Registry of societies.

7. With respect to the registry of societies, the following provisions shall have effect:

To consist of seven persons at least.

(1.) No society can be registered under this Act which does not consist of seven persons at least.

The application for registry.

(2.) For the purpose of registry an application to register the society, signed by seven members and the secretary, and two written or printed copies of the rules, shall be sent to the Registrar.

Identity or deceptive similarity of name not to be allowed.

(3.) No society shall be registered under a name identical with that under which any other existing society is registered, or so nearly resembling such name as to be likely, in the opinion of the Registrar, to deceive the members or the public, as to its identity, and no society shall change its name without sanction of the Chief or an Assistant Registrar or otherwise than as hereinafter provided.

As to societies registered under former Acts.

(4.) A society registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1852, and not registered under the Industrial and Provident Societies Acts, 1862 or 1867, may, on application to the Registrar, obtain an acknowledgment of registry under this Act.

(5.) The

Appendix (K.)

(5.) The word "limited" shall be the last word in the name of every society registered under this Act.

"Limited" to be last word of name.

(6.) Societies carrying or intending to carry on business in more than one country shall be registered in the country in which their registered office, as herein mentioned, is situate; but copies of the rules of such societies, and of all amendments of the same, shall, when registered, be sent to the registrar of each of the other countries, to be recorded by him; and until such rules be so recorded the society shall not be entitled to any of the privileges of this Act in the country in which such rules have not been recorded, and until such amendments of rules be recorded the same shall not take effect in such country.

Registry of societies doing business in more than one country.

(7.) The Registrar, on being satisfied that a society has complied with the provisions as to registry in force under this Act, shall issue to such society an acknowledgment of registry.

The acknowledgment of registry.

(8.) If any Registrar refuse to register the society or any rules, the society may appeal from such refusal, as follows:—

Appeals from refusal to register.

(a.) If the Assistant Registrar for Scotland refuse to register, to either division of the Inner House of the Court of Session:

(b.) If the Assistant Registrar for Ireland refuse to register, to the Court of Queen's Bench at Dublin:

(c.) If the Central Office or the Chief Registrar refuse to register, to the Court of Queen's Bench in England:

(d.) The Court of Session, the Court of Queen's Bench at Dublin, and the judges of the Court of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court in England respectively, may make rules or orders as to the form of appeals and the trying thereof and otherwise relating thereto.

(9.) If the refusal of registry be overruled on appeal, an acknowledgment of registry shall thereupon be given to the society by the Registrar.

If refusal overruled, acknowledgment to be given.

(10.) The acknowledgment of registry shall be conclusive evidence that the society therein mentioned is duly registered, unless it be proved that the registry of the society has been suspended or cancelled.

Effect of acknowledgment of registry.

8. With respect to the cancelling or suspension of registry the following provisions shall have effect:

Cancelling and suspension of registry.

(1.) The Chief Registrar, or, in the case of societies registered and doing business in Scotland or Ireland exclusively, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, may cancel the registry of a society by writing under his hand,— Cancelling.

(a.) If he thinks fit, at the request of a society, to be evidenced in such manner as he shall from time to time direct:

(b.) With the approval of the Treasury, on proof to his satisfaction that an acknowledgment of registry has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that a society exists for an illegal purpose, or has wilfully and after notice from a Registrar whom it may concern violated any of the provisions of this Act, or has ceased to exist.

(2.) The Chief or Assistant Registrar, in any case in which he might, with the approval of the Treasury, cancel the registry of a society, may suspend the same, by writing under his hand, for any term not exceeding three months, and may, with the approval of the Treasury, renew such suspension from time to time for the like period.

Suspension.

(3.) Not less than two months previous notice in writing, specifying briefly the ground of any proposed cancelling or suspension of registry, shall be given by the Chief or Assistant Registrar to a society before the registry of the same can be cancelled (except at its request) or suspended; and notice of every cancelling or suspension shall be published in the "Gazette," and in some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated, as soon as practicable after the same takes place.

Notice of cancelling or suspension.

(4.) A society may appeal from the cancelling of its registry, or from any suspension of the same which is renewed after six months, in manner herein provided for appeals from the Chief Registrar's or the Registrar's refusal to register respectively.

Appeal from cancelling or suspension.

(5.) A society whose registry has been suspended or cancelled shall from the time of such suspension or cancelling (but if suspended, only whilst such suspension lasts, and subject also to the right of appeal hereby given) absolutely cease to enjoy as such the privileges of a registered society, but without prejudice to any liability actually incurred by such society, which may be enforced against the same as if such suspension or cancelling had not taken place.

Effect of cancelling or suspension.

9. With respect to the rules of societies the following provisions shall have effect:

Rules and amendments.

(1.) The rules of every society sent for registry shall contain provisions in respect of the several matters mentioned in the second schedule to this Act.

Provisions to be contained in rules.

Appendix (K.)

Amendments to be registered.	(2.) No amendment of a rule made by a registered society shall be valid until the same has been registered under this Act, for which purpose copies of the same, signed by three members and the secretary, shall be sent to the Registrar.
Provision applicable to amendments.	(3.) The provision herein contained as to appeals from a refusal of registry shall apply to amendments of rules.
Acknowledgment of registry of amendments.	(4.) The Registrar shall, on being satisfied that any amendment of a rule is not contrary to the provisions of this Act, issue to the society an acknowledgment of registry of the same, which shall be conclusive evidence that the same is duly registered.
Copies of rules to be delivered on demand.	(5.) A copy of the rules of a registered society shall be delivered by the society to every person on demand, on payment of a sum not exceeding one shilling.
Delivery of untrue rules.	(6.) If any person, with intent to mislead or defraud, gives to any other person a copy of any rules, laws, regulations, or other documents, other than the rules for the time being registered under this Act, on the pretence that the same are existing rules of a registered society, or that there are no other rules of such society, or gives to any person a copy of any rules on the pretence that such rules are the rules of a registered society when the society is not registered, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.
Duties and obligations of societies.	10. With respect to the duties and obligations of registered societies the following provisions shall have effect: (1.) Every society shall—
Registered office.	(a.) Have a registered office to which all communications and notices may be addressed, and send to the Registrar notice of the situation of such office, and of every change therein:
Publication of name.	(b.) Paint or affix, and keep painted or affixed, its name on the outside of every office or place in which the business of the society is carried on, in a conspicuous position, in letters easily legible, and have its name engraven in legible characters on its seal, and have its name mentioned in legible characters in all notices, advertisements, and other official publications of the society, and in all bills of exchange, promissory notes, endorsements, cheques, and orders for money or goods, purporting to be signed by or on behalf of such society, and in all bills of parcels, invoices, receipts, and letters of credit of the society.
Audit.	(c.) Once at least in every year submit its accounts for audit either to one of the public auditors appointed as herein mentioned, or to two or more persons appointed as the rules of the society provide, who shall have access to all the books and accounts of the society, and shall examine the general statement of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society, and verify the same with the accounts and vouchers relating thereto, and shall either sign the same as found by them to be correct, duly vouched, and in accordance with law, or specially report to the society in what respects they find it incorrect, unvouched, or not in accordance with law:
Annual returns.	(d.) Once in every year before the First day of June send to the Registrar a general statement (to be called the annual return) of the receipts and expenditure, funds and effects of the society as audited, which shall show separately the expenditure in respect of the several objects of the society, and shall be made out to the Thirty-first December then last inclusively, and shall state whether the audit has been conducted by a public auditor appointed as by this Act is provided, and by whom, and if by any person other than a public auditor, shall state the name, address, and calling or profession of each such person, and the manner in which and the authority under which he is appointed, and together therewith shall send a copy of the auditor's report:
Inspection of books.	(e.) Allow any member or person having an interest in the funds of the society to inspect the books and the names of the members at all reasonable hours at the registered office of the society, or at any place where the same are kept; subject to such regulations as to the time and manner of such inspection as may be made from time to time by the general meetings of the society, except that no such member or person, unless he be an officer of the society, or be specially authorised by a resolution thereof, shall have the right to inspect a loan or deposit account of any other member without the written consent of such member:
Supplying copies of annual returns.	(f.) Supply gratuitously to every member or person interested in the funds of the society, on his application, a copy of the last annual return of the society for the time being:
Balance sheet, &c. to be hung up at office.	(g.) Keep a copy of the last balance sheet for the time being, together with the report of the auditors, always hung up in a conspicuous place at the registered office of the society.
Provisions as to banking.	(2.) The following provisions shall apply to the business of banking by societies— (a.) No

(a.) No society which has any withdrawable share capital shall carry on the business of banking: Appendix (K.)

(b.) Every society which carries on the business of banking shall, on the first Mondays in February and August in each year, make out and keep conspicuously hung up in its registered office, and every other place of business belonging to it, a statement in the form in the third schedule hereto annexed, or as near thereto as the circumstances admit:

(c.) The taking deposits of not more than five shillings in any one payment, nor more than twenty pounds for any one depositor, payable on not less than two clear days' notice, shall not be included in the business of banking within the meaning of this Act; but no society which takes such deposits shall make any payment of withdrawable capital while any claim due on account of any such deposit is unsatisfied.

(3.) It shall be an offence under this Act if any registered society—

Offences.

(a.) Fails to give any notice, send any return or document, or do or allow to be done any act or thing which the society is by this Act required to give, send, do, or allow to be done:

(b.) Wilfully neglects or refuses to do any act or to furnish any information required for the purposes of this Act by the Chief or any other Registrar or other person authorised under this Act, or does any act or thing forbidden by this Act:

(c.) Makes a return or wilfully furnishes information in any respect false or insufficient:

(d.) Carries on the business of banking having any withdrawable share capital, or in carrying on such business does not make out and keep conspicuously hung up such statement as is hereinbefore required, or makes any payment of withdrawable capital contrary to the provision hereinbefore contained.

(4.) Every offence by a society under this Act shall be deemed to have been also committed by every officer of the same bound by the rules thereof to fulfil the duty whereof such offence is a breach, or if there be no such officer, then by every member of the committee of the same, unless such member be proved to have been ignorant of or to have attempted to prevent the commission of such offence; and every act or default under this Act constituting an offence, if continued, shall constitute a new offence in every week during which the same continues. Offences by societies to be also offences by officers, &c.

(5.) Every return and other document required for the purposes of this Act shall be made in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Chief Registrar prescribes. Returns to be in prescribed form.

(6.) All documents by this section required to be sent to the Registrar shall be deposited with the rules of the societies to which the same respectively relate, and shall be registered or recorded by the Registrar, with such observations thereon, if any, as the Chief Registrar shall direct. Recording of documents.

11. Registered societies shall be entitled to the following privileges:

Privileges of societies.

(1.) The registration of a society shall render it a body corporate by the name described in the acknowledgment of registry by which it may sue and be sued, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with limited liability: and shall vest in the society all property for the time being vested in any person in trust for the society; and all legal proceedings pending by or against the trustees of any such society may be prosecuted by or against the society in its registered name without abatement. Incorporation of society with limited liability.

(2.) The rules of the society shall bind the society and all members thereof and all persons claiming through them respectively to the same extent as if each member had subscribed his name and affixed his seal thereto, and there were contained in such rules a covenant on the part of himself, his heirs, executors, and administrators, to conform thereto, subject to the provisions of this Act: Provided that a society registered at the time when this Act comes into operation, or the members thereof, may respectively exercise any power given by this Act, and not made to depend on the provisions of its rules, notwithstanding any provision contained in any rule thereof certified before this Act was passed. Rules to bind the members.

(3.) All moneys payable by a member to the society shall be a debt due from such member to the society, and shall be recoverable as such either in the county court of the district in which the registered office of the society is situate, or that of the district in which such member resides, at the option of the society. Moneys due from members to be a debt recoverable from them.

(4.) The society shall not be chargeable under Schedule (C.) or Schedule (D.) of the Income Tax Acts, but no member of or person employed by the same to whom any profits are paid shall be exempted from any assessment to the said duties to which he would otherwise be liable. Exemption from income tax.

(5.) A member of a society, not being under the age of sixteen years, may, by writing under his hand delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society, nominate any person, Power of nomination for sums not exceeding fifty pounds.

Appendix (K.)

person, not being an officer or servant of the society, unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator, to whom his shares in the society shall be transferred at his decease, provided that the amount credited to him in the books of the society does not exceed fifty pounds, and may from time to time revoke or vary such nomination by a writing under his hand similarly delivered or sent, but not otherwise, and every such society shall keep a book wherein the names of all persons so nominated shall be regularly entered, and the shares comprised in any such nomination shall be transferable to the nominee although the rules of the society declare its shares to be generally not transferable; and on receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator the committee of the society shall either transfer the shares in manner directed on such nomination or pay to every person entitled thereunder the full value of his interest, at their option, unless the shares if transferred to any such nominee would raise his interest in the society to an amount exceeding two hundred pounds sterling, in which case they shall pay him the full value of such shares, not exceeding the sum aforesaid.

Distribution of sums not exceeding fifty pounds.

(6.) If any member of a society, entitled to an interest in the society not exceeding fifty pounds, dies intestate and without having made any nomination under this Act which remains unrevoked at his death, such interest shall be transferable or payable, without letters of administration, to or among the persons who appear to a majority of the committee, upon such evidence as they may deem satisfactory, to be entitled by law to receive the same.

Payments to persons apparently entitled valid.

(7.) Whenever the committee, after the decease of any member, make any payment or transfer to any person who at the time appears to them to be entitled under this section, the payment or transfer shall be valid and effectual against any demand made upon the committee or the society by any other person.

When trustees are absent, &c., registrar may order stock to be transferred.

(8.) When any person, in whose name any stock belonging to any such society transferable at the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland is standing, either jointly with another or others or solely, as a trustee therefor, is absent from Great Britain or Ireland respectively, or becomes bankrupt, or files any petition or executes any deed for liquidation of his affairs by assignment or arrangement, or for composition with his creditors, or becomes a lunatic, or is dead, or has been removed from his office of trustee, or if it be unknown whether such person is living or dead, the Chief Registrar, on application in writing from the secretary and three members of the society, and on proof satisfactory to him, may direct the transfer of the stock into the names of any other persons as trustees for the society; and such transfer shall be made by the surviving or continuing trustees, and if there be no such trustee, or if such trustees refuse or be unable to make such transfer, and the Chief Registrar so direct, then by the Accountant General or Deputy or Assistant Accountant General of the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland, as the case may be; and the Governors and Companies of the Bank of England and Bank of Ireland respectively are hereby indemnified for anything done by them or any of their officers in pursuance of this provision against any claim or demand of any person injuriously affected thereby.

Membership of minors.

(9.) A person under the age of twenty-one but above the age of sixteen may be a member of a society, unless provision be made in the rules thereof to the contrary, and may, subject to the rules of the society, enjoy all the rights of a member (except as herein provided), and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules, but shall not be a member of the committee, trustee, manager, or treasurer of the society.

Promissory notes and bills of exchange.

(10.) A promissory note or bill of exchange shall be deemed to have been made, accepted, or endorsed on behalf of any society if made, accepted, or endorsed in the name of the society, or by or on behalf or account of the society, by any person acting under the authority of the society.

Register of members or shares.

(11.) Any register or list of members or shares kept by any society shall be prima facie evidence of any of the following particulars entered therein:

(a.) The names, addresses, and occupations of the members, the number of shares held by them respectively, the numbers of such shares, if they are distinguished by numbers, and the amount paid or agreed to be considered as paid on any such shares:

(b.) The date at which the name of any person, company, or society was entered in such register or list as a member:

(c.) The date at which any such person, company, or society ceased to be a member.

Contracts how made.

(12.) Contracts on behalf of the society may be made, varied, or discharged as follows:

(a.) Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law required to be in writing, and if made according to the English law to be under seal, may be made on behalf of the society in writing under the common seal of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged:

(b.) Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law required to

to be in writing and signed by the persons to be charged therewith, may be made on behalf of the society in writing by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged:

Appendix (K.)

(c.) Any contract under seal, which if made between private persons might be varied or discharged at law or in equity by a writing not under seal signed by any person interested therein, may be similarly varied or discharged on behalf of the society by a writing not under seal signed by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society:

(d.) Any contract, which if made between private persons would be by law valid though made by parol only and not reduced into writing, may be made by parol on behalf of the society by any person acting under the express or implied authority of the society, and may in the same manner be varied or discharged:

(e.) A signature purporting to be made by a person holding any office in the society attached to a writing whereby any contract purports to be made, varied, or discharged by or on behalf of the society shall prima facie be taken to be the signature of a person holding at the time when the signature was made the office so stated:

And all contracts which may be or have been made, varied, or discharged, according to the provisions herein contained, shall, so far as concerns the form thereof, be effectual in law and binding on the society and all other parties thereto, their heirs, executors, or administrators, as the case may be.

12. With respect to the property and funds of registered societies, the following provisions shall have effect:

Property and funds of societies.

(1.) A society may (if its rules do not direct otherwise) hold, purchase, or take on lease in its own name any land, and may sell, exchange, mortgage, lease, or build upon the same (with power to alter and pull down buildings and again rebuild), and no purchaser, assignee, mortgagee, or tenant shall be bound to inquire as to the authority for any such sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease by the society, and the receipt of the society shall be a discharge for all moneys arising from or in connexion with such sale, exchange, mortgage, or lease.

Holding of land.

(2.) The rules may provide for the advancing of money by the society to members on the security of real or personal property.

Advances to members.

(3.) Where any society is entitled in equity to any hereditaments of copyhold or customary tenure, either absolutely or by way of mortgage or security, the lord of the manor of which the same are held shall from time to time, if the society so require, admit such persons (not to exceed three) as such society appoints, to be trustees on its behalf, as tenants in respect of such hereditaments, on payment of the usual fines, fees, and other dues payable on the admission of a single tenant, or may admit the society as tenant in respect of the same on payment of such special fine or compensation, in lieu of fine and fees, as may be agreed upon between such lord and the society.

As to copyholds.

(4.) A society may, if its rules so allow, invest any part of its capital in the shares or on the security of any other society registered under this Act or under the Building Societies Acts, or of any company registered under the Companies Acts or incorporated by Act of Parliament or by charter; provided that no such investment be made in the shares of any society or company other than one with limited liability, and a society so investing may make such investment in its registered name and shall be deemed to be a person within the meaning of the Companies Acts, 1862 and 1867, and the Building Societies Act, 1874, and any investment made before the passing of this Act which would have been valid if this Act had been then in force is hereby made valid and confirmed.

Investments.

(5.) Any other body corporate may, if its regulations permit, hold shares by its corporate name in a society.

Other corporate bodies.

(6.) In the rules or any schedule thereto may be set forth the forms of conveyance, surrender, admittance, mortgage, transfer, agreement, bond, or other instrument necessary for carrying the purposes of the society into effect.

Forms.

(7.) The profits of the society may be applied to any lawful purpose.

Application of profits.

(8.) A receipt under the hands of two members of the committee of the society, countersigned by the secretary, in the form contained in the third schedule to this Act, or in any form specified by the rules of the society or any schedule thereto, for all moneys secured to the society by any mortgage or other assurance endorsed upon or annexed to such mortgage or other assurance, shall vacate the same, and vest the property therein comprised in the person entitled to the equity of redemption of the same, without reconveyance or resurrender; but this provision shall not apply to Scotland or to the Island of Jersey.

Discharge of mortgages by receipt endorsed.

(9.) If such mortgage or other assurance has been registered under any Act for the registration or record of deeds or titles, or is of copyholds or lands of customary tenure and entered on any court rolls, the Registrar under such Act, or recording officer, or steward of the manor, or keeper of the register, shall on production of such receipt, verified by oath of any person, enter satisfaction on the register or on the court rolls respectively of such mortgage or of the charge made by such assurance, and shall grant a certificate, either upon such mortgage or assurance or separately to the like effect, which certificate shall be received in evidence in all courts and proceedings without further proof, and such registrar, recording officer, steward, or keeper of the register shall be entitled to a fee of two shillings and sixpence for making the said entry and granting the said certificate, and such fee shall in Ireland be paid by stamps, and applied as the other fees of the Registry of Deeds Office and Record of Title Office are by law directed to be paid and applied.

Registration of receipt.

Appendix (K.)

Punishment of fraud or misappropriation.

(10.) If any person obtains possession by false representation or imposition of any property of a society, or having the same in his possession withholds or misapplies the same, or wilfully applies any part thereof to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of the society and authorised by this Act, he shall, on the complaint of the society, or of any member authorised by the society, or the committee thereof, or by the central office, or of the Chief Registrar or any Assistant Registrar by his authority, be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds with costs not exceeding twenty shillings, and to be ordered to deliver up all such property or to repay all moneys applied improperly, and in default of such delivery or repayment, or of the payment of such penalty and costs aforesaid, to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three months; but nothing herein contained shall prevent any such person from being proceeded against by way of indictment, if not previously convicted of the same offence under the provisions of this Act.

Officers in receipt or charge of money.

13. With respect to officers of registered societies having receipt or charge of money, the following provisions shall have effect:

Security to be given.

(1.) Every officer, if the rules of the society require, shall, before taking upon himself the execution of his office, become bound, either with or without a surety as the committee require, in a bond according to one of the forms set forth in the third schedule to this Act, or such other form as the committee of the society approve, or give the security of a guarantee society, in such sum as the committee directs, conditioned for his rendering a just and true account of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the society at such times as its rules appoint, or as the society or the committee thereof require him to do, and for the payment by him of all sums due from him to the society.

Accounts of officers.

(2.) Every officer, his executors or administrators, shall, at such times as by the rules of the society he should render account, or upon demand made, or notice in writing given or left at his last or usual place of residence, give in his account as may be required by the society, or by the committee thereof, to be examined and allowed or disallowed by them, and shall, on the like demand or notice, pay over all moneys and deliver all property for the time being in his hands or custody to such person as the society or the committee appoint; and in case of any neglect or refusal to deliver such account, or to pay over such moneys or to deliver such property in manner aforesaid, the society may sue upon the bond or security before mentioned, or may apply to the county court (which may proceed in a summary way), or to a court of summary jurisdiction, and the order of either such court shall be final and conclusive.

Disputes.

14. With respect to disputes concerning registered societies the following provisions shall have effect:

To be decided by rules of society.

(1.) Every dispute between a member or person claiming through a member or under the rules of a registered society, and the society or an officer thereof, shall be decided in manner directed by the rules of the society, if they contain any such direction, and the decision so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal, and shall not be removable into any court of law or restrainable by injunction; and application for the enforcement thereof may be made to the county court.

May be referred to Chief Registrar.

(2.) The parties to a dispute in a society may, by consent (unless the rules of such society expressly forbid it), refer such dispute to the Chief Registrar, or to the Assistant Registrar in Scotland or Ireland, who shall, with the consent of the Treasury, either by himself or by any other Registrar, hear and determine such dispute, and shall have power to order the expenses of determining the same to be paid either out of the funds of the society or by such parties to the dispute as he shall think fit, and such determination and order shall have the same effect and be enforceable in like manner as a decision made in the manner directed by the rules of the society.

Chief Registrar may administer oaths, &c.

(3.) The Chief or other Registrar to whom any dispute is referred may administer oaths, and may require the attendance of all parties concerned and of witnesses, and the production of all books and documents relating to the matter in question; and any person refusing to attend, or to produce any documents, or to give evidence before such Chief or other Registrar, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act.

Reference to justices.

(4.) Where the rules of a society direct that disputes shall be referred to justices, the dispute shall be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction:

Provided

Provided that in every case of dispute cognisable under the rules of a society by a court of summary jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the parties thereto to enter into a consent referring such dispute to the county court, which may hear and determine the matter in dispute.

Appendix (K.)

(5.) Where the rules contain no direction as to disputes, or where no decision is made on a dispute within forty days after application to the society for a reference under its rules, the member or person aggrieved may apply either to the county court, or to a court of summary jurisdiction, which may hear and determine the matter in dispute.

Application to county courts, &c.

(6.) The court, Chief or other Registrar, may, at the request of either party, state a case for the opinion in England of the Supreme Court of Judicature, in Scotland of either division of the Inner House of the Court of Session, or in Ireland of one of the superior courts of common law at Dublin, on any question of law, and may also grant to either party such discovery as to documents and otherwise, or such inspection of documents, and in Scotland may grant warrant for the recovery of documents and examination of havers, as might be granted by any court of law or equity, such discovery to be made on behalf of the society by such officer of the same as such court or registrar may determine.

Case for opinion of Supreme Court, &c.

15. With respect to the inspection of the affairs of registered societies, the following provisions shall have effect:

Special powers of Registrars to be exercised on application from members.

(1.) Upon the application of one-fifth of the whole number of members of a registered society, or of one hundred members in the case of a society of one thousand members and not exceeding ten thousand, or of five hundred members in the case of a society of more than ten thousand members, the Chief Registrar, or, in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, but, with the consent of the Treasury in every case, may—

(a.) Appoint one or more inspectors to examine into the affairs of such society, and to report thereon, who may require the production of all or any of the books and documents of the society, and may examine on oath its officers, members, agents, and servants in relation to its business, and may administer such oath accordingly;

Inspectors.

(b.) Call a special meeting of the society in such manner, and at such time and place as the Chief Registrar, or such Assistant Registrar, may direct, and may direct what matters shall be discussed and determined on at such meeting, which shall have all the powers of a meeting called according to the rules of the society, and shall in all cases have power to appoint its own chairman, any rule of the society to the contrary notwithstanding.

Special meetings.

(2.) The application herein mentioned shall be supported by such evidence, for the purpose of showing that the applicants have good reason for requiring such inspection to be made or meeting to be called, and that they are not actuated by malicious motives in their application, and such notice thereof shall be given to the society, as the Chief Registrar shall direct.

Application to be supported by evidence.

(3.) The Chief Registrar or such Assistant Registrar may, if he think fit, require the applicants to give security for the costs of the proposed inspection or meeting, before appointing any inspector or calling such meeting.

Security for costs.

(4.) All expenses of, and incidental to, any such inspection or meeting shall be defrayed either by the members applying for the same, or out of the funds of the society, as the Chief Registrar or such Assistant Registrar shall direct.

Expenses.

16. With respect to special resolutions by registered societies, and to the proceedings which may be taken by virtue thereof, the following provisions shall have effect:—

Special resolutions, and proceedings which may be taken thereon.

(1.) A special resolution is one which is passed by a majority of not less than three-fourths of such members of a society for the time being entitled under the rules to vote as may be present in person or by proxy (where the rules allow proxies) at any general meeting of which notice specifying the intention to propose such resolutions has been duly given according to the rules, and which resolution is confirmed by a majority of such members for the time being entitled under the rules to votes as may be present, in person or by proxy, at a subsequent general meeting of which notice has been duly given, held not less than fourteen days, nor more than one month, from the day of the meeting at which such resolution was first passed. At any meeting mentioned in this section a declaration by the chairman that the resolution has been carried shall be deemed conclusive evidence of the fact.

Special resolutions.

(2.) A society may, by special resolution, with the approval in writing of the Chief Registrar, or, in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, change its name; but no such change shall affect any right or obligation of the society, or of any member thereof, and any pending legal proceedings may be continued by or against the society, notwithstanding its new name.

Change of name.

(3.) Any two or more societies may, by special resolution of both or all such societies, become Amalgamation of societies.

- Appendix (K.) become amalgamated together as one society, with or without any dissolution or division of the funds of such societies or either of them; and any society may by special resolution transfer its engagements to any other registered society which may undertake to fulfil the engagements of such society.
- Conversion of societies into companies, &c. (4.) A society may by special resolution determine to convert itself into a company under the Companies Acts, or to amalgamate with or transfer its engagements to any such company.
- Rights of creditors. (5.) No amalgamation or transfer of engagements shall prejudice any right of a creditor of either or any society party thereto.
- Registration of special resolutions. (6.) A copy of every special resolution for any of the purposes mentioned in this section, signed by the chairman of the meeting and countersigned by the secretary, shall be sent to the central office and registered there, and until such copy is so registered, such special resolution shall not take effect.
- Registration of copy of special resolution as memorandum of association. (7.) If a special resolution for converting a society into a company contains the particulars by the Companies Act, 1862, required to be contained in the memorandum of association of a company, and a copy thereof has been registered at the central office, a copy of such resolution under the seal or stamp of the central office shall have the same effect as a memorandum of association duly signed and attested under the said Act.
- Registry of society under Act to become void on registration as a company, &c. (8.) If a society be registered as, or amalgamates with, or transfers all its engagements to a company, the registry of such society under this Act shall thereupon become void, and the same shall be cancelled by the Chief Registrar or by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland under his direction; but the registration of a society as a company shall not affect any right or claim for the time being subsisting against such society, or any penalty for the time being incurred by such society; and for the purpose of enforcing any such right, claim, or penalty, the society may be sued and proceeded against in the same manner as if it had not become registered as a company; and every such right or claim, or the liability to such penalty, shall have priority as against the property of such company, over all other rights or claims against or liabilities of such company.
- Dissolution of societies. 17. With respect to the dissolution of registered societies, the following provisions shall have effect:
- How societies may be dissolved. (1.) A society may be dissolved—
By an order to wind up the society, or a resolution for the winding up thereof, made as is directed in regard to companies by the Companies Act, 1862, the provisions whereof shall apply to any such order or resolution, except that the court having jurisdiction in the winding up shall be the county court, and that the term Registrar shall, for the purpose of such winding up, mean the central office in England, or the Assistant Registrar in Scotland or Ireland, as the case may be; or,
By the consent of three-fourths of the members, testified by their signatures to an instrument of dissolution.
- Liability of the members. (2.) Where a society is wound up, the liability of a present or past member of the society to contribute for payment of the debts and liabilities of the society, the expenses of winding up, and the adjustment of the rights of contributories amongst themselves, shall be qualified as follows:
(a.) No individual, society, or company who or which has ceased to be a member for one year or upwards prior to the commencement of the winding up, shall be liable to contribute:
(b.) No individual, society, or company shall be liable to contribute in respect of any debt or liability contracted after he or it ceased to be a member:
(c.) No individual, society, or company, not a member, shall be liable to contribute, unless it appears to the court that the contributions of the existing members are insufficient to satisfy the just demands on the society:
(d.) No contribution shall be required from any individual, society, or company exceeding the amount, if any, unpaid on the shares in respect of which he or it is liable as a past or present member:
(e.) An individual, society, or company shall be taken to have ceased to be a member, in respect of any withdrawable share withdrawn, from the date of the notice or application for withdrawal.
- Contents of instrument of dissolution. (3.) Where a society is terminated by an instrument of dissolution, the following provisions shall apply:
(a.) The instrument of dissolution shall set forth the liabilities and assets of the society in detail, the number of members and the nature of their interests in the society respectively, the claims of creditors (if any), and the provision to be made for their payment, and the intended appropriation or division of the funds and property of the society, unless the same be stated in the instrument of dissolution to be left to the award of the Chief Registrar:
(b.) Alterations.

(b.) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution may be made with the like consents as hereinbefore provided, and testified in the same manner:

Alterations.

(c.) A statutory declaration shall be made by three members and the secretary of the society that the provisions of this Act have been complied with, and shall be sent to the Registrar with the instrument of dissolution; and any person knowingly making a false or fraudulent declaration in the matter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor:

Statutory declaration.

(d.) The instrument of dissolution and all alterations therein shall be registered in manner herein provided for the registry of rules, and shall be binding upon all the members of the society:

Registry of instrument of dissolution.

(e.) The Registrar shall cause a notice of the dissolution to be advertised at the expense of the society in the "Gazette" and in some newspaper circulating in the county in which the registered office of the society is situated; and unless within three months from the date of the "Gazette" in which such advertisement appears, a member or other person interested in or having any claim on the funds of the society commences proceedings to set aside the dissolution of the society in the county court of the district where the registered office of the society is situate, and such dissolution is set aside accordingly, the society shall be legally dissolved from the date of such advertisement, and the requisite consents to the instrument of dissolution shall be considered to have been duly obtained without proof of the signatures thereto:

Notice of dissolution.

(f.) Notice shall be sent to the central office of any proceeding to set aside the dissolution of a society, not less than seven days before it is commenced, by the person by whom it is taken, or of any order setting it aside, within seven days after it is made by the society.

Notice of proceedings to set aside a dissolution.

18. With respect to penalties under this Act, the following provisions shall have effect:

Penalties.

(1.) If any person wilfully makes, orders, or allows to be made any entry or erasure in, or omission from, any balance sheet of a registered society, or any contribution or collecting book, or any return or document required to be sent, produced, or delivered for the purposes of this Act, with intent to falsify the same, or to evade any of the provisions of this Act, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds.

Penalty for falsification.

(2.) If any officer of the society, or any person on its behalf, uses any seal purporting to be a seal of the society, whereon its name is not so engraved as aforesaid, or issues or authorises the issue of any notice, advertisement, or other official publication of the society, or signs or authorises to be signed on behalf of the society any bill of exchange, promissory note, endorsement, cheque, order for money or goods, or issues or authorises to be issued any bills of parcels, invoice, receipt or letters of credit of the society, wherein its name is not mentioned in manner aforesaid, he shall be liable to a penalty of fifty pounds, and shall further be personally liable to the holder of any such bill of exchange, promissory note, cheque, or order for money or goods for the amount thereof unless the same is duly paid by the society.

Not using the name of the society.

(3.) Every society, officer or member of a society, or other person guilty of an offence under this Act for which no penalty is expressly provided herein, shall be liable to a penalty of not less than one pound and not more than five pounds.

Penalties for ordinary offences.

(4.) The penalties imposed or to be imposed (1) by this Act, (2) by any regulations under the same, or (3) by the rules of a registered society, shall be recoverable in a court of summary jurisdiction, and at the suit, in cases (1) and (2), of the Chief Registrar, or of any Assistant Registrar, or of any person aggrieved, and, in case (3), of the society.

Recovery of penalties.

19. With respect to summary procedure and appeals from orders or convictions thereon made, the following provisions shall have effect:

Summary procedure and appeals.

(1.) In England and Ireland all offences and penalties under this Act may be prosecuted and recovered, in the manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, as respects a prosecution against a society or its officers, in the place where the registered office of the society is, or where the offence has been committed, or, as respects a prosecution against any person other than a society or its officers, in the place where such person is resident at the time of the institution of such prosecution, or where the offence was committed.

Prosecution for offences, &c.

(2.) In England and Ireland summary orders under this Act may be made and enforced on complaint before a court of summary jurisdiction in the manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts.

Summary orders.

(3.) The court of summary jurisdiction, when hearing and determining an information or complaint, shall consist as follows:

Summary jurisdiction in England and Ireland.

In England—

(a.) In any place within the jurisdiction of a metropolitan police magistrate or other stipendiary magistrate, of such magistrate or his substitute:

(b.) In

Appendix (K.)

(b.) In the City of London, of the Lord Mayor or any alderman of that city :

(c.) In any other place, of two or more justices of the peace sitting in petty sessions.

In Ireland—

(a.) In the police district of Dublin metropolis, of a divisional justice :

(b.) In any other place, of two or more justices of the peace sitting in petty sessions.

(4.) In Scotland—

(a.) All offences and penalties under this Act may be prosecuted and recovered by the procurator fiscal of the county in the sheriff court, under the provisions of the Summary Procedure Act, 1864 :

(b.) Summary orders may be made and enforced on complaint in the sheriff court :

(c.) All penalties may be enforced in default of payment by imprisonment for a term to be specified in the order or conviction, but not exceeding three months :

(d.) All penalties recovered shall be paid to the sheriff clerk, and by him accounted for and paid to the Queen's and Lord Treasurer's Remembrancer on behalf of the Crown :

(e.) The sheriffs and their substitutes shall have all jurisdiction, power, and authority necessary for giving effect to these provisions.

Description of offences.

(5.) In any information or complaint under this Act it shall be sufficient to describe the offence in the words of this Act, and no exception, exemption, proviso, excuse, or qualification accompanying the description of the offence in this Act need be specified or negatived.

Appeals in England or Ireland.

(6.) In England or Ireland any party may appeal from any order or conviction made by a court of summary jurisdiction on determining any complaint or information under this Act as follows :

(a.) The appeal shall be made to some court of general or quarter sessions for the county or place in which the cause of appeal has arisen, holden not less than fifteen days, and not more than four months after the decision appealed from :

(b.) The appellant shall, within seven days after the cause of appeal has arisen, give notice to the other party, and to the court of summary jurisdiction, of his intention to appeal, and of the ground thereof :

(c.) The appellant shall, immediately after such notice, enter into a recognisance before a justice of the peace in the sum of ten pounds, with two sufficient sureties in the sum of ten pounds, conditioned personally to try such appeal, and to abide the judgment of the court thereon, and to pay costs if awarded :

(d.) Where the appellant is in custody the justice may, on the appellant entering into such recognisance as aforesaid, release him from custody :

(e.) The court of appeal may adjourn the appeal, and upon the hearing thereof may confirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the court of summary jurisdiction, or remit the matter to such court with the opinion of the court of appeal thereon, or make such other order in the matter as the court thinks fit :

(f.) If the matter be remitted to the court of summary jurisdiction such court shall thereupon rehear and decide the information or complaint in accordance with the opinion of the court of appeal.

Appeals in Scotland.

(7.) In Scotland any person may appeal from any order or conviction under this Act to the Court of Justiciary, or any circuit court thereof, under or in terms of the Act of the twentieth year of his Majesty King George the Second, chapter forty-three, or under any Act amending that Act, or applying or incorporating its provisions with regard to appeals, or to the Court of Justiciary in Edinburgh under or in terms of "The Summary Prosecutions Appeals (Scotland) Act, 1875."

Regulation of proceedings in county courts.

20. Proceedings under this Act by and before the judges of county courts may be regulated in Scotland by any acts of sederunt of the Court of Session, and in Ireland by any orders made by the Lord Chancellor, and until otherwise provided, are regulated by such rules and orders, and acts of sederunt, as may be in force at the commencement of this Act.

The registrar and high bailiffs of the county courts shall be remunerated for the duties to be performed by them under this Act in such manner as the Treasury, with the consent of the Lord Chancellor, from time to time orders and directs.

Public auditors.

21. The Treasury may, from time to time, appoint public auditors for the purposes of this Act, and may determine, from time to time, the rates of remuneration to be paid by societies for the services of such auditors; but the employment of such auditors is not compulsory on any society.

22. The

22. The Treasury may determine a scale of fees to be paid for matters to be transacted or for the inspection of documents under this Act.
All fees which may be received by any Registrar under or by virtue of this Act shall be paid into the receipt of Her Majesty's Exchequer.

Appendix (K.)

Fees.

23. The Treasury may, from time to time, make regulations respecting registry and procedure under this Act, and the forms to be used for such registry, and the duties and functions of the registrar, and the inspection of documents kept by the registrar under this Act, and generally for carrying this Act into effect.

Regulations to be made for carrying out the Act.

All such regulations shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within ten days after the approval thereof if Parliament is then sitting, or if not then sitting, then within ten days from the then next assembling of Parliament.

Until otherwise provided, the forms contained in the fourth schedule to this Act shall be used.

24. Every instrument or document, copy or extract of an instrument or document, bearing the seal or stamp of the central office, shall be received in evidence without further proof; and every document purporting to be signed by the Chief or any Assistant Registrar, or any inspector or public auditor under this Act, shall, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, be received in evidence without proof of the signature.

Evidence of documents.

25. Sub-sections six, seven, eight, and nine of the Friendly Societies Act, section ten, relating to the duties of the Chief Registrar and Assistant Registrars, shall, so far as the same are applicable to Industrial and Provident Societies, be deemed to be incorporated with this Act.

Duties of the Registrars.

26. With respect to the Channel Islands this Act shall be varied as follows:—

Application of Act to Channel Islands.

1. As respects the Island of Jersey, the following provisions shall have effect:

(a.) The term "County Court" shall mean the court for the recovery of petty debts in all cases in which the claim or demand shall not exceed the sum of ten pounds sterling, and in all other cases the inferior number of the royal court of the said island, composed of the bailiff and two jurats of the said court:

(b.) The term "court of summary jurisdiction" shall have, in civil cases, the same meaning as the term county court:

(c.) All misdemeanors under this Act shall be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the form and manner prescribed by the law and custom of the said island with respect to crimes and offences (crimes et délits):

(d.) All other offences and all penalties under this Act shall be prosecuted and recovered summarily before the magistrate of the court for the repression of minor offences, in all cases of his competency, at the suit or instance of the bailiff of the parish in which the offence or other unlawful act shall have been committed, and in all other cases before the bailiff and two jurats of the royal court, at the suit or instance of Her Majesty's Procurator General for the said island:

(e.) All penalties recovered under this Act shall be paid to the officers who, by the law and practice of the said island are entitled to receive fines levied by order of the said courts respectively, and shall by such officers be accounted for and paid to Her Majesty's Receiver General in the said island on behalf of the Crown:

(f.) The powers conferred under this Act on two justices shall be exercised by the inferior number of the royal court of the said island:

(g.) Clause nineteen of this Act, and the term "Summary Jurisdiction Acts," shall not apply to the said island, but all proceedings under this Act in any of the courts of the said island shall be regulated according to the ordinary practice of such courts respectively, and all penalties shall, in default of payment, be enforced in the same manner as fines payable to the Crown in the said island:

(h.) The rules prescribed by the law of the said island with respect to appeals in civil and criminal cases shall be followed as to appeals from any orders, judgments, or convictions made in cases of summary jurisdiction under this Act:

(i.) The terms "the Companies Acts" and "the Companies Act, 1862," shall be taken to mean the law which, from time to time, is in force in the said island for the formation, regulation, and winding up of companies.

2. As respects the bailiwick of the Island of Guernsey:—

(a.) The court of primary instance within the bailiwick shall have all such powers and authorities as are by this Act conferred either on justices of the peace or on judges of county courts in England: Provided that a sentence may be appealed from if the case admits of an appeal, under the Orders in Council now in force within the bailiwick, but that the decision of the royal court, when sitting in a body as a court of appeal, shall be final:

Appendix (K.)

(b.) When any sum of money becomes payable on the death of a member, such sum of money shall, in default of any direction or nomination such as is contemplated by this Act, be paid to the deceased member's legal representative, according to the law of Guernsey:

(c.) All industrial and provident societies within the bailiwick shall be authorised to invest any part of their funds in the States bonds either of Guernsey or of Alderney:

(d.) The term "the Companies Act" shall mean the law for the time being in force in the said bailiwick for the regulation and winding up of companies:

(e.) All offences and penalties under this Act shall be prosecuted and recovered summarily before the court of primary jurisdiction at the suit or instance of the law officers of the Crown, or of a constable of a parish:

(f.) All penalties recovered under this Act shall be paid to the Receiver General, to be by him carried to the account of the Crown revenue.

Amendment of s. 8 of principal Act.

4. When any person, being or having been a trustee of a trade union or of any branch of a trade union, and whether appointed before or after the legal establishment thereof, in whose name any stock belonging to such union or branch transferable at the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland is standing, either jointly with another or others, or solely, is absent from Great Britain or Ireland respectively, or becomes bankrupt, or files any petition, or executes any deed for liquidation of his affairs by assignment or arrangement, or for composition with his creditors, or becomes a lunatic, or is dead, or has been removed from his office of trustee, or if it be unknown whether such person is living or dead, the Registrar, on application in writing from the secretary and three members of the union or branch, and on proof satisfactory to him, may direct the transfer of the stock into the names of any other persons as trustees for the union or branch; and such transfer shall be made by the surviving or continuing trustees, and if there be no such trustee, or if such trustees refuse or be unable to make such transfer, and the Registrar so direct, then by the Accountant General or Deputy or Assistant Accountant General of the Bank of England or Bank of Ireland, as the case may be; and the Governors and Companies of the Bank of England and Bank of Ireland respectively are hereby indemnified for anything done by them or any of their officers in pursuance of this provision against any claim or demand of any person injuriously affected thereby.

Provision in case of absence, &c. of trustee.

5. The jurisdiction conferred in the case of certain offences by Section twelve of the principal Act upon the court of summary jurisdiction for the place in which the registered office of a trade union is situate may be exercised either by that court or by the court of summary jurisdiction for the place where the offence has been committed.

Jurisdiction in offences.

6. Trade unions carrying or intending to carry on business in more than one country shall be registered in the country in which their registered office is situate; but copies of the rules of such unions, and of all amendments of the same, shall, when registered, be sent to the Registrar of each of the other countries, to be recorded by him, and until such rules be so recorded the union shall not be entitled to any of the privileges of this Act or the principal Act, in the country in which such rules have not been recorded, and until such amendments of rules be recorded the same shall not take effect in such country.

Registry of unions doing business in more than one country.

In this section "country" means England, Scotland, or Ireland.

7. Whereas by the "Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870," it is provided that the said Act shall not apply to societies registered under the Acts relating to Friendly Societies: The said Act (or the amending Acts) shall not apply nor be deemed to have applied to trade unions registered or to be registered under the principal Act.

Life Assurance Companies Acts not to apply to registered unions.

8. No certificate of registration of a trade union shall be withdrawn or cancelled otherwise than by the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, or in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, by the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland, and in the following cases:

Withdrawal or cancelling of certificate.

(1.) At the request of the trade union to be evidenced in such manner as such Chief or Assistant Registrar shall from time to time direct:

(2.) On proof to his satisfaction that a certificate of registration has been obtained by fraud or mistake, or that the registration of the trade union has become void under Section six of the Trade Union Act, 1871, or that such trade union has wilfully and after notice from a Registrar whom it may concern, violated any of the provisions of the Trade Union Acts, or has ceased to exist.

Not less than two months' previous notice in writing, specifying briefly the ground of any proposed withdrawal or cancelling of certificate (unless where the same is shown to have become void as aforesaid, in which case it shall be the duty of the Chief or Assistant Registrar to cancel the same forthwith) shall be given by the Chief or Assistant Registrar to a trade union before the certificate of registration of the same can be withdrawn or cancelled (except at its request).

A trade union whose certificate of registration has been withdrawn or cancelled shall, from the time of such withdrawal or cancelling, absolutely cease to enjoy as such the privileges of a registered trade union, but without prejudice to any liability actually incurred by such trade union, which may be enforced against the same as if such withdrawal or cancelling had not taken place.

9. A person under the age of twenty-one, but above the age of sixteen, may be a member of a trade union, unless provision be made in the rules thereof to the contrary, and may, subject to the rules of the trade union, enjoy all the rights of a member except as herein provided, and execute all instruments and give all acquittances necessary to be executed or given under the rules, but shall not be a member of the committee of management, trustee, or treasurer of the trade union.

Membership of minors.

Appendix (L.)

Nomination.

10. A member of a trade union not being under the age of sixteen years may, by writing under his hand, delivered at, or sent to, the registered office of the trade union, nominate any person not being an officer or servant of the trade union (unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator), to whom any moneys payable on the death of such member not exceeding fifty pounds shall be paid at his decease, and may from time to time revoke or vary such nomination by a writing under his hand similarly delivered or sent; and on receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator, the trade union shall pay to the nominee the amount due to the deceased member not exceeding the sum aforesaid.

Change of name.

11. A trade union may, with the approval in writing of the Chief Registrar of Friendly Societies, or in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, of the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, change its name by the consent of not less than two-thirds of the total number of members.

No change of name shall affect any right or obligation of the trade union or of any member thereof, and any pending legal proceedings may be continued by or against the trustees of the trade union or any other officer who may sue or be sued on behalf of such trade union notwithstanding its new name.

Amalgamation.

12. Any two or more trade unions may, by the consent of not less than two-thirds of the members of each or every such trade union, become amalgamated together as one trade union, with or without any dissolution or division of the funds of such trade unions, or either or any of them; but no amalgamation shall prejudice any right of a creditor of either or any union party thereto.

Registration of changes of names and amalgamations.

13. Notice in writing of every change of name or amalgamation signed, in the case of a change of name, by seven members, and countersigned by the secretary of the trade union changing its name, and accompanied by a statutory declaration by such secretary that the provisions of this Act in respect of changes of name have been complied with, and in the case of an amalgamation signed by seven members, and countersigned by the secretary of each or every union party thereto, and accompanied by a statutory declaration by each or every such secretary that the provisions of this Act in respect of amalgamations have been complied with, shall be sent to the central office established by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, and registered there, and until such change of name or amalgamation is so registered the same shall not take effect.

Dissolution.

14. The rules of every trade union shall provide for the manner of dissolving the same, and notice of every dissolution of a trade union under the hand of the secretary and seven members of the same, shall be sent within fourteen days thereafter to the central office hereinbefore mentioned, or, in the case of trade unions registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, to the Assistant Registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, and shall be registered by them: Provided, that the rules of any trade union registered before the passing of this Act shall not be invalidated by the absence of a provision for dissolution.

Penalty for failure to give notice.

15. A trade union which fails to give any notice or send any document which it is required by this Act to give or send, and every officer or other person bound by the rules thereof to give or send the same, or if there be no such officer, then every member of the committee of management of the union, unless proved to have been ignorant of, or to have attempted to prevent the omission to give or send the same, is liable to a penalty of not less than one pound and not more than five pounds, recoverable at the suit of the Chief or any Assistant Registrar of Friendly Societies, or of any person aggrieved, and to an additional penalty of the like amount for each week during which the omission continues.

Definition of "trade union" altered.

16. So much of Section twenty-three of the principal Act as defines the term trade union, except the proviso qualifying such definition, is hereby repealed, and in lieu thereof be it enacted as follows:

The term "trade union" means any combination, whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters, or between workmen and workmen, or between masters and masters, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, whether such combination would or would not, if the principal Act had not been passed, have been deemed to have been an unlawful combination by reason of some one or more of its purposes being in restraint of trade.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR BUILDING SOCIETIES.

BUILDING SOCIETIES ACTS, 1874 & 1875.

IN pursuance of the powers vested in me by the above-mentioned statutes, I, the Right Honourable Richard Assheton Cross, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, hereby revoke the regulations made by me on the 23rd November 1874, and make the following regulations in lieu thereof:—

(1.) Every application for a certificate of incorporation to a society in existence on the 2nd November 1874, shall be made by a person authorised by a general meeting of the society, specially called for the purpose, and shall be in the Form A. subjoined to these regulations, and shall be accompanied by the following documents:—

(a.) A copy of the rules of the society as they exist at the date of the application.

(b.) A statutory declaration by the applicant in the Form B. subjoined to these regulations.

If the Registrar, at the time the application is received by him, has not received from the clerk of the peace for the county in which the society is established a transcript of the certified and enrolled rules of the society, he shall make application to the clerk of the peace for the same, and if the same is not received by him within seven days of such application, shall, as soon as practicable, acquaint the applicant for incorporation therewith, who must furnish evidence that the rules are certified as provided by 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, s. 11, before the society can be incorporated.

(2.) Every application for a certificate of incorporation to a society about to be established after the 2nd November 1874, shall be in the Form C. subjoined to these regulations, and shall be accompanied by two printed copies of the rules marked and signed, as mentioned in the said form.

(3.) An alteration of the rules of a society may be either—

(a.) A partial alteration, consisting of the addition of a new rule or part of a rule or rules to the existing rules, or of the substitution of a new rule or part of a rule or rules for any of the existing rules, or of a rescission of any of the existing rules or any part thereof without any substitution, or of more than one or all of those modes; or—

(b.) A complete alteration, consisting of the substitution of an entire set of rules for the existing set of rules.

(4.) An application for the registration of a partial alteration of rules must be made by three members and the secretary of the society, and must be made in the Form D. annexed hereto, and must be accompanied by a statutory declaration in the Form E. hereto annexed, and by a printed copy of the existing rules, and by the following documents:—

(a.) If the partial alteration consists of the addition or substitution of a new rule, or part of a rule or rules, two copies of such rule, or part of a rule or rules, each copy being marked Y., and signed by each of the applicants.

(b.) If the partial alteration consists of the rescission of any of the rules without any substitution, two copies of the resolution for such rescission, each copy being marked Y., and signed by each of the applicants.

The Registrar, before registering the partial alteration of rules, shall ascertain that it is in conformity with the Building Societies Act, 1874.

(5.) An application for the registration of a complete alteration of rules shall be made by three members and the secretary of the society, and shall be in the Form F. annexed hereto, and must be accompanied by a statutory declaration in Form E. annexed hereto, and by a printed copy of the existing rules, and by two printed copies of the new rules, each copy being marked Z., and signed by each of the applicants; and the Registrar, before registering the new set of rules, shall ascertain that it provides for all matters which, by 37 & 38 Vict. c. 42, s. 16, are to be provided for by rules, and is in conformity with that Act.

(6.) The certificate of registry of an alteration of rules shall be delivered to the applicants attached to one of the copies of the new rule or rules, or new set of rules, as the case may be; or, when the alteration consists of rescission merely, attached to the old set of rules.

Appendix (M.)

(7.) The last words in the name of any society established and incorporated under the Building Societies Act, 1874, shall be "Building Society;" and no change of name by any society shall be registered unless the new name ends with those words; and the Registrar may refuse to allow the insertion in the name of any society about to be established and applying for incorporation under the said Act, or the retention in the name of any society which seeks to change its name, of any words implying that the society is other than a building society.

Change of Name.

(8.) Every society changing its name shall give notice to the Registrar in the Form G. annexed hereto, accompanied by a statutory declaration in the Form H. annexed hereto. The Registrar, before issuing a certificate of registration of change of name, shall ascertain that the new name is not identical with that of any society previously registered, or so nearly resembling the same as to be calculated to deceive; and in the event of such identity or resemblance, may require the society desiring to change its name to satisfy him that such previously registered society is not subsisting, or, if subsisting, that it is in course of being terminated or dissolved, and consents to such registration.

Transfer of Stock.

(9.) Every application to the Registrar to direct a transfer of stock shall follow, as near as may be, the Form I., annexed hereto, and shall be accompanied by a statutory declaration in the Form K. annexed hereto, or as near thereto as the facts admit, and by the certificate of the stock in respect of which the application is made.

(10.) Before making the application, the society shall submit to the Registrar for examination a draft copy, on foolscap paper, written on one side only, of the proposed application and declaration.

(11.) The Registrar, before directing the transfer, may require further proof of any statement in the application.

(12.) The Registrar shall give a direction in the Form L. annexed hereto, so framed in each case as to suit the particular circumstances, and shall register the same and deliver the same to the applicants endorsed with the word "registered," and duly authenticated.

Dissolution.

(13.) The instrument of dissolution shall be in the Form M. hereto annexed, and shall be signed in duplicate, and accompanied by a statutory declaration in the Form N. hereto annexed.

(14.) The Registrar shall return one of the duplicates to the society, with a certificate in the Form O. hereto annexed.

(15.) Alterations in the instrument of dissolution shall be signed, declared to, and certified in like manner.

(16.) When a society is dissolved otherwise than by an instrument of dissolution, notice of the commencement of the dissolution shall be given to the Registrar in duplicate, in the Form P. annexed hereto, and the Registrar shall return one copy to the society, endorsed with the word "registered," and duly authenticated.

(17.) Notice of the termination of every dissolution shall be given to the Registrar in duplicate in the Form Q. annexed hereto, and the Registrar shall return one copy to the society, endorsed with the word "registered," and duly authenticated.

Union of Societies or Transfer of Engagements.

(18.) Where two or more societies unite, notice shall be given to the Registrar in duplicate in the Form R. annexed hereto, and the Registrar shall return one copy to the united society, endorsed with the word "registered," and duly authenticated.

(19.) Where a society transfers its engagements to another, notice shall be given to the Registrar in duplicate in the Form S. annexed hereto, and the Registrar shall return one copy to the transferee society, endorsed with the word "registered," and duly authenticated.

Arbitration.

(20.) The submission of a dispute to the Registrar shall be in duplicate in the Form T. annexed hereto. Where the rules of the society provide that disputes shall be submitted to the Registrar, and either party to the dispute refuses or neglects to fill up and sign the portion of the submission relating to his case, the other party may send the submission to the Registrar. The Registrar may require either party to support any statement in the submission by statutory declaration.

(21.) If the Registrar desires the parties to appear, notice shall be given in the Form V. annexed hereto.

(22.) The

(22.) The award of the Registrar shall be in the Form W. annexed hereto.

Appendix (M.)

(23.) If any order for discovery be necessary, it shall be in the Form X. annexed hereto.

For the purpose of making an investment in the public funds, the said society [or the board of directors, or the committee of management of the said society] did on the _____ day of _____ appoint _____ of _____ in the county of _____ [here name and describe all the trustees then appointed] to be trustees.

3. On the _____ day of _____ the sum of _____ was invested in the purchase of _____ stock transferable at the Bank of England [or Ireland] in the names of the said trustees, and the same is still standing in their names, as follows:—[State exactly in what names the stock stands].

4. The said _____ is absent from England [or Ireland] [or became bankrupt on the _____ day of _____, or filed a petition (or executed a deed) for liquidation of his affairs by assignment or arrangement, or for composition with his creditors on the _____ day of _____, or has become a lunatic, or died on the _____ day of _____, or has not been heard of for _____ years, and it is not known whether he is living or dead.]

5. On the _____ of _____ the said society [or the board of directors, or the committee of management of the said society] removed the said _____ from his appointment as one of the said trustees, and appointed _____ [give full name and description] in his place.

6. Since such removal, application has been made in writing to the said [removed trustee] to join in the transfer of the said stock into the names of the said [here give the names of the other trustees, and the new trustee appointed in the place of the one removed] as trustees for the said society, but he has refused to comply [or, has not complied] with such application. [This paragraph may be omitted or varied as the facts require.]

APPENDIX (N.)

BILL to amend the Law respecting the POWERS and DUTIES vested in the BARRISTER appointed to Certify the RULES of SAVINGS BANKS.

26 & 27 Vict. c. 87,
s. 66.

WHEREAS under the Act relating to savings banks the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt are authorised to appoint a barrister to certify the rules of savings banks, and by the said Act and the Acts relating to Post Office Savings Banks, and to the National Debt Commissioners, certain powers and duties are vested in the said barrister, and it is expedient to make further provision respecting such powers and duties:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as the Savings Bank (Barrister) Act, 1876.

Transfer to other officers of certain savings banks.

2. The powers and duties vested by the Acts relating to Savings Banks, Post Office Savings Banks, and the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt in the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks shall be transferred and vested as follows:

See 7 & 8 Vict. c. 83,
ss. 14, 15.
26 & 27 Vict. c. 87,
s. 48.

(1.) The power of certifying rules, and alterations or amendments of rules of savings banks, and the powers and duties relating to any dispute arising between the trustees and managers of any savings bank or (in the case of a Post Office Savings Bank) the Postmaster General on the one hand and any depositor or person claiming through or under a depositor on the other hand, shall be transferred to and vested in the Registrar as defined by the Friendly Societies Act, 1875; and,

See 7 & 8 Vict. c. 83,
s. 11.
26 & 27 Vict. c. 87,
s. 46.

(2.) All powers and duties (other than those above in this section mentioned) shall be transferred to and vested in such persons as the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury (in this Act referred to as the Treasury) from time to time appoint.

See 26 & 27 Vict.
c. 87, s. 38.
27 & 28 Vict. c. 43,
ss. 9, 10.

Every person to whom any power or duty of the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks is transferred by this section, shall for the purpose of the exercise of such power or duty, and of the enactments relating thereto, have the same powers and authorities as and be deemed to be the barrister appointed to certify the rules of savings banks, but any such power or duty which is vested in the said Registrar when exercised or performed by the Assistant Registrars for Scotland and Ireland shall be so exercised or performed, subject to the direction of the Chief Registrar in the Friendly Societies Act, 1875, mentioned.

Any person purchasing an annuity or contracting for the payment of a sum of money at his death who is by any Act directed to be considered as a depositor in a savings bank shall be deemed to be a depositor within the meaning of this Act.

Power to charge fee
&c.

3. The Treasury may if they think fit by warrant direct that there shall be charged upon any certificate or authority given, and any award, order, or determination made by the Registrar or other person in pursuance of the powers vested in him by this Act, such reasonable fee, not exceeding in any case one pound, as may be from time to time fixed by the warrant of the Treasury.

Every such fee shall be paid into the Exchequer, and shall be paid by such persons and in such manner as may be directed by the warrant.

After any such warrant is made, no other fee but such as is allowed by the warrant shall be charged or taken in respect of any matter for which a fee can be charged under this section, but until any such warrant is made, any fee heretofore payable shall continue payable, but shall be paid into the Exchequer.

The draft of every warrant proposed to be made by the Treasury in pursuance of this section shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament for at least forty days before the said warrant is made.

The Public Offices Fees Act, 1866, shall apply to a fee payable under this section.

PART II.

FURTHER APPENDIX,

Containing the ANNUAL RETURNS for 1875.

Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be Printed, 11 August 1876.

MEMORANDUM.

No complete list of existing registered Friendly Societies has ever been published, as has been done in the case of Industrial and Provident Societies, Building Societies under the Act of 1874, and Trade Unions under the Act of 1871. Apart from the interest attaching to such a list in itself, its publication has become virtually a matter of necessity, since the passing of the Act of 1875, owing to the frequent applications to the Registrars of Friendly Societies, from public auditors and registrars of deaths, for copies of the list in whole or in part, and to their still more frequent inquiries as to the status of particular societies. It had been the desire of the Chief Registrar to publish such a list entire in the present Part, but it was found impossible to do so within any reasonable limits of time. It has therefore been deemed advisable to terminate such complete list on the present occasion with Lancashire, reserving the remaining counties for next year.

The column "Amount of Funds"* per head, it will be observed, has not been carried on beyond page 285, as it was found that either the requirement had been misunderstood, or the figures given by the societies were too inaccurate to be relied on. The Chief Registrar need hardly observe that, even if correct, these figures could not of themselves afford any test of the solvency of a society; but it was hoped that they might serve usefully to show the greater accumulation of funds in particular districts or orders than in others.

The following is an explanation of the initials used:—

I.O.O.F., M.U.	- - -	Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Manchester Unity.
A.O.F.	- - -	Ancient Order of Foresters.
A.O.S.	- - -	Ancient Order of Shepherds.

APPENDIX (O.) TO THE REPORT OF THE CHIEF REGISTRAR OF

(The FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACTS.)

RETURNS to the REGISTRAR, in pursuance of 38 & 39 Vict. c. 60.

THE following Abstract gives the names of registered Friendly Societies, showing those which have, and those which have not, made returns according to law, and, with regard to the former, their total assets on 31st December 1875, the number of their members, the average amount of their funds per member, and whether they have been audited by public auditors or not. The Column stating the Average Amount of Funds per Member is not to be taken as indicating whether a society is solvent or the reverse.

The following case, notice of which was inadvertently omitted in last year's Report, has been decided under the Trade Union Act by the 1st Division of the Court of Session, viz.: Shanks v. United Operative Masons' Association, 11th March 1874 (1 Rettie, 823). In this case, which is similar to that of M'Kernan v. United Operative Masons' Association, quoted in the Report of the Registrar of Friendly Societies for Scotland for 1873 (Parliamentary Papers, Sess. 1874, No. 371, pages 5-7), the pursuer demanded payment of 80*l.* alleged to be due to him under the rules of the association on account of his having been permanently disabled from work by an accident. The Lord Ordinary dismissed the action with expenses, and the pursuer reclaimed to the Inner House, which likewise dismissed the action with additional expenses. The Lord President (Right Honourable John Inglis) said,—

“ I do not think that we need hear further argument in this case. The counsel for the reclaimer has brought it very fairly before us, and he candidly concedes that it is on all-fours with the case of M'Kernan, recently decided in the other division. If we entertained any doubts of the soundness of that decision, we should certainly not be bound to follow it, as it is only a single decision on a very important question; but we should not controvert it without some consultation with our brethren. If, on the other hand, we entertain no doubt as to the soundness of that judgment, our course is clear.

“ Now, it appears to me that Trade Unions were unlawful associations before the passing of ‘The Trade Union Act, 1871,’ in this sense, that actions such as the present could not be legally brought against them in a court of law. This is made clear by the statute, if it were not so on the decisions prior to its passing. The 23rd section of the statute thus defines a Trade Union: ‘The term “Trade Union” means such combination, whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters, or between workmen and workmen, or between masters and masters, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, as would, if this Act had not passed, have been deemed to have been an unlawful combination, by reason of some one or more of its purposes being in restraint of trade.’ Now, it is not disputed that this association is a trade union which falls under this definition, and therefore must have been an unlawful combination before the passing of the Act. That being so, let us see what was the object and what the enactments of this statute.

“ The object is to give relief to Trade Unions in certain clearly-defined directions, to enable them to sue certain actions and enforce certain rights which they could not sue and enforce before, and to save them from certain criminal liabilities to which they were previously exposed. Section 2 of the statute enacts that members of Trade Unions shall not be liable in criminal prosecution for conspiracy, by reason merely that the purposes of the union are in restraint of trade. Section 3 enacts that ‘the purposes of any Trade Union shall not, by reason merely that they are in restraint of trade, be unlawful, so as to render void or voidable any agreement or trust;’ that is to say, that agreements made by and with such associations may, notwithstanding the unlawfulness of these associations in other respects, be enforced in courts of law or equity. The following section is really a rider upon this one, limiting the extent of its application. This 4th section, which is the last we need consider, provides ‘that nothing in this Act shall enable any court to entertain any legal proceeding instituted with the object of directly enforcing or recovering damages for the breach of any of the following agreements, namely,’ &c.

“ The agreements specified in this section are not to be held as absolutely unlawful, but no court is to entertain any action to enforce them. As to the expediency of some of the provisions of this section there can be very little doubt. The third of them comprises ‘any agreement for the application of the funds of a Trade Union,’ inter alia ‘to provide benefits to members.’ Now, the action before us concludes for payment of 80 l., which the association has, it is alleged, agreed, according to its rules and regulations, to provide to its members in certain events. Now, as the combined result of the common law and of the statute of 1871, I think there can be no doubt that this action falls under this provision of the 4th section, and consequently that we have no jurisdiction to entertain this case. I confess I have no hesitation in following the judgment pronounced by the Judges of the Second Division, and adhering to the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor."

The other Judges concurred.

The Registrar is desirous that the attention of Members of Trade Unions should be called to the changes made by the Trade Union Amendment Act of this Session (39 & 40 Vict. c. 22). These are, principally: The change in the definition of the term "Trade Union," by the removal of the test founded on the illegality of combinations in restraint of trade (section 16); the legalizing of assurances by members on the lives of their wives and children by the extension to Trade Unions of the exemption from the operation of "The Life Assurance Companies' Act 1870,"—a privilege hitherto accorded only to Friendly Societies (section 7); the restriction imposed on assurances on the lives of children by the application to Trade Unions of section 28 of "The Friendly Societies' Act 1875" (section 2); provisions as to membership of minors (section 9), and payment of sums on death to nominees of members (section 10), with other provisions derived from the Friendly Societies' Act above mentioned.
